Gov. Patterson Stirs Tennessee by Promptly Freeing Man Convicted of Carmack Murder.

OVERRIDES SUPREME COURT

Case of Robin Cooper Remanded for Retrial—Father on His Way to Jail When Reprieved.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, April 13.—Col. Duncan B. Cooper, convicted of the murder of United States Senator Carmack, was pardoned to-day by Gov. Patterson immediately after the judgment of the Supreme Court of Tennessee, confirming his conviction and remanding for retrial the case of his son, Robin Cooper, convicted with him, was rendered. Both men were under sentence of twenty years. It is freely predicted here to-night that the retrial of Robin Cooper will never take place.

The pardon has aroused Nashville and Tennessee as nothing ever did before. The most intense excitement prevails throughout the city to-night. All through the afternoon and early part of the night the street corners, hotel lobbies, and other places where crowds usually congregate have been the scenes of the most heated discussions.

The effect of the pardon has been to draw even tighter than before political lines in the State. Apparently from discussions on the street not a hundred persons in Nashville have changed their views. Friends of the Governor have a new standard to rally about, and they are more loyal and devoted than ever. On the other hand, the Governor's opponents are bitterer than before in their denunciation of him and all of those close to him. They are aroused to a pitch that they have never reached before, not even on the night of the killing of Senator Carmack.

"Infamous scoundrel" and "crook" are among the terms publicly applied to him. G. T. Fitzhugh of Memphis, of counsel for the State in the trial, gave out a statement to-night characterizing his action as disgraceful in its haste, shocking every sense of decency.

"Sworn to execute the laws as construed by the highest court," he says, "the Governor, without a petition from any one, tramples the law under foot and sets aside the court's decree for a cold-blooded murderer, whose influence with the Governor is and has been far more potent than the interests and safety of the people of this great Commonwealth." Jeff McCarn, District Attorney, characterized the Governor by an unprintable epithet.

Patterson to Run Again.

The political effect of the pardon will be decided in the November election. The Governor has not yet announced his intentions, but it is almose certain that he will run for re-election for a third term. He will not be opposed for the nomination, the anti-administration element having declined to go into the primary called by the Democratic State Executive Committee for June 4. The general impression seems to be that the old alignments will hold.

Col. Cooper is the close personal and political friend of Gov. Patterson, who is the leader of the anti-prohibition forces in Tennessee. Carmack was the chief of the prohibition movement. Patterson was an important witness for the defense at the trial of the Coopers for the killing of Carmack.

The court was divided both in confirming the sentence of Col. Cooper and in remanding the case of his son. Justice Shields and Justice Niel affirmed the decision of the lower court as to both Col. Cooper and his son, but Chief Justice Beard and Justice Bell reversed as to both. Justice McAlister affirmed as to Col. Cooper and dissented as to Robin Cooper. Justice Shields read the opinion, prefacing it with these fords:

> In this case the opinion was prepared by the Chief Justice, which was presented to the court within the last few days, and a majority of the court not concurring in all of it, by directions of that majority, I have prepared the opinion and now, by like direction, present it.

The reversal in the case of Robin Cooper was based on allegations of error in the trial Judge's failing to charge separately as to Robin Cooper's theory of self-defense, linking the defense of the two defendants together, excluding testimony of Gov. Patterson as to talks with Robin Cooper and advice given him as to Col. Cooper before the tragedy, and the admission of cross-examination of Robin Cooper as to intent of certain State witnesses in testifying as to certain incidents.

Pardon Follows Immediately.

Gov. Patterson's pardon was written while Chief Justice Beard was reading the dissenting opinion of the court. At 12:20 Justice Shields concluded the reading of the majority opinion, at which time the first announcement of the actual conclusion of the court was made. Word was carried to the Governor by one of his friends, and he immediately began to write the pardon. In it he said:

> Being thoroughly familiar with the record, having read all the testimony and testified to certain facts within my personal knowledge, it is neither desirable nor necessary to delay action for petition to be presented, asking executive clemency.
> In my opinion, neither of the defendants is guilty. They have not had a fair and impartial trial, but were convicted contrary to the law and evidence. The action of the Supreme Court in vacating the judgment as to Robin Cooper leaves the sentence of final conviction as to his co-defendant.
>
> The proof showed that Robin Cooper killed the deceased, and that D. B. Cooper did not fire a shot. Without reflection upon the court, it is inconceivable to my mind and repugnant to every principle of justice that a man should be found guilty of murder who was not in a conspiracy to kill and who in fact did not kill.

Col. Cooper had left the court chamber, and in company with his daughter, his sister-in-law, Mrs. J. C. Bradford, and the Marshal of the Supreme Court, was in a carriage, leaving for the Davidson County jail, when a newspaper man cried out to the driver to stop, that a pardon had been granted.

The Marshal immediately ran into the Secretary of State's office to verify the rumor of the pardon. Col. Cooper was heard to say that he wanted the vindication that had been given Robin by the court more than he cared for a pardon for himself.

The Marshal soon verified the pardon and released Col. Cooper, but Gen. Luke E. Wright, one of his attorneys, advised the Colonel to go to jail and receive the pardon there. Accordingly Col. Cooper called the Marshal back again and asked him to accompany the party to the jail.

In five minutes after reaching that place the clerk of the Supreme Court telephoned the pardon to the jailer, and Col. Cooper was promptly released.

Gov. Patterson was seen immediately after he had signed the pardon. He was happier and freer from care apparently than he has been for months. He laughed and talked with the stream of friends who came in to congratulate him. He acted as if a great burden had been lifted from his shoulders. He had not statement to make, declaring that the reasons given in the pardon itself said all that he cared to say on the subject.

BALLOON CAN CARRY 39 MEN.

Details of the Great Dirigible Built in France for England.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 13.—For the first time the builders of the great dirigible balloon Clement-Bayard II., which is soon to start from Paris for London, have allowed exact details of its dimensions and capacity to become known.

It is intended to carry 20 passengers, 2 pilots, 2 mechanics, 700 pounds of petrol, and 440 pounds of ballast. In case of necessity the number of passengers can be increased to 35.

The total lifting power of the balloon is 7,700 pounds, exclusive of the car and motors. The car is 150 feet long and the motors are of 125 horse power each. There will be two propellers, each of them 18 feet in diameter, placed well forward of the car, which is hung 21 feet below the gas bags.

The brothers Voisin, who have always maintained that an aeroplane can fly without any device for warping the wings, have been obliged to abandon their theory. The latest biplane built by them bears a close resemblance to that of Henry Farman.

$1,000 REWARD FOR LOST BOY.

Physician's Son Disappears and the Police Are Asked to Find Him.

Mrs. T. J. Eddy of Providence, R. I., who is stopping at the Park Avenue Hotel, went to Police Headquarters yesterday afternoon and asked the police to look for her nephew, Edward M. Harris, Jr. She said he had been missing since April 2, when he left a sanitarium at Kingston, N. Y., where he was taken the day before for treatment for nervous trouble.

Harris, who is 17 years old, is the son of Dr. Edward M. Harris, a Providence physician, and a nephew of Dr. William T. Harris, Commissioner of Education of Washington, D. C. Mrs. Eddy has also advertised for information which will lead to the discovery of the boy's whereabouts, and offers a reward of $1,000 for his return to his parents.

Mrs. Eddy says the boy was of a nervous temperament and wanted to go into the world and earn his own living. His father finally decided to send him to a place where he could find rest, and the sanitarium at Kingston, N. Y., was selected. The boy was sent there on April 1, but remained only one day.

Mrs. Eddy asked the police to search the recruiting stations of the United States Army and also said he might look for employment on a farm or in a moving picture theatre. The boy is described as being 5 feet 10 inches in height, with dark brown hair and eyes. When last seen he wore clothes of dark material. A general alarm has been sent out by the police of this city and Kingston.

SHOT THE MIRROR INSTEAD.

Princeton Contractor Who Had Been Celebrating Saved from Suicide.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 13.—Charles Salzman, a prosperous contractor, completed early this morning a week's celebration over the acquisition of a large contract. Thereupon he returned home, but something in his wife's greeting as she let him in robbed him of his cheerfulness. He went up to his room, muttering, "I guess no one wants me here any more."

A moment later his son, Charles, Jr., heard his father exclaim as though speaking to some one else:

"Charley, I look you once more in the face. Now, I am going to shoot you in the heart."

The boy hastened toward his father's room, but before he reached the door he was terrified by the report of a gun. He rushed into the room, expecting to find his father dead on the floor. Instead, he saw him standing in front of a shattered mirror, his shotgun in his hand and a perplexed expression on his face.

Mr. Salzman's aim had been good; he had blown his own image in the mirror into smithereens, and he couldn't seem to understand why he wasn't hurt. They persuaded him to go to bed.

FIRST PENNA. ELECTRIC TRAIN.

The Railroad Sends One Under Manhattan to Long Island City.

The Pennsylvania Railroad operated its first electric train through the tunnels under Manhattan Island and East River yesterday. The train, made up of six construction cars and an electric locomotive, ran from the station in New York to the Thompson Avenue Viaduct in Sunnyside Yard, Long Island City.

The extensive work on the electrification and signaling in the tunnels between Long Island and New Jersey is being pushed with all possible speed. The signal bridges have been erected on the Hackensack meadows section, and the third rail is now being laid. The third rail work and the track ballasting in both the North and East River tunnels are practically completed.

The work remaining to be done on the station at Seventh Avenue and Thirty-third Street consists mostly of cleaning up odds and ends. The train indicators at the gates in the concourse are being placed in position, and the elevators between the track platforms and the exit concourse are being installed. The marble floor in the waiting room is practically completed, and work on the lighting facilities is being actively prosecuted.

Actual use is being made daily of Tube A under the East River for the transportation of materials now being used in construction work on the Long Island Road. By this means the railroad is saving time and the expense of ferrying transportation for the hundreds of tons of steel, cement, and lumber that are being used all over the line. In this tube all the electrification and the signals are completed.

MT. SINAI GETS $130,000.

Adolph Lewisohn Gives It for Building a Pathological Laboratory.

It was announced yesterday that Adolph Lewisohn had contributed $130,000 toward the erection of a pathological laboratory at Mount Sinai Hospital. The building will be known as the Mount Sinai Pathological Laboratory Adolph Lewisohn Foundation, and it is planned to make it one of the best-equipped laboratories in the United States.

Mr. Lewisohn, who is greatly interested in the pathological work of the hospital, already has given it $70,000. The Directors of the hospital have purchased additional ground on 100th Street near the hospital, on which the new laboratory will be built.

Other notable gifts by Mr. Lewisohn are $250,000 to Columbia University School of Mines, $125,000 to the Hebrew Technical School for Girls, and $125,000 to the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society.

QUEENS GRAFTERS READY TO TELL ALL

Two Hasten to the Investigating Committee with Offers to Make Confessions.

GAYNOR TAKES A HAND IN IT

Writes, to Gresser Commending Him, but Asking Why It Will Cost $19,000 a Year to Clean New Court House.

With the shadow of both Gov. Hughes and a Grand Jury hovering over graft-ridden Queens, the smaller men in the army of those having guilty knowledge are beginning to emulate the men of their kind in Pittsburg—they are scurrying into the offices of committeemen engaged in getting evidence for the forthcoming overhauling, and are offering to bargain confessions in return for promises of immunity.

Two such men called yesterday on Charles P. Caldwell, attorney for the Elmhurst committee, which laid a statement of conditions in Queens before Gov. Hughes. They said they had heard of Mayor Gaynor's letter asking Borough President Gresser to look into the office of the Building Superintendent to determine why he should need $19,000 a year to keep the Borough Hall clean, and had also heard of Commissioner Fosdick's statement that he already had evidence enough from his overhauling of the records to obtain three indictments. They had concluded from these things, they said, that it was time to protect themselves and confess their services as go-betweens in collecting graft.

Both men offered to make affidavits giving a full record of their activities. They insisted that they had not profited themselves by their work in taking in the money for others higher up, but had merely passed along all they had gathered.

Mr. Caldwell told the men to return to-day, and said that in the meantime he would lay their proposals before the committee he represents.

Mayor Gaynor yesterday wrote to President Gresser a letter, the contents of which have set many citizens of Queens County guessing. Some interpret it as a serious reflection on Gresser's administration and others as a personal indorsement of the Borough President, coupled with an arraignment of the administration of one of his departments.

The Mayor's Letter.

The letter reads:

> Office of the Mayor, April 13, 1910.
> Dear Mr. Gresser: It is reported to me that the Superintendent of Public Buildings of your borough purposes to put a staff in the new Queens County Court House to keep it clean, which will cost $19,000 a year. I would be very glad if you could give this matter your personal attention, as I have received many complaints about it and am not able to give it the close attention which it deserves, and I know how desirous you are of doing away with the waste and dishonesty which has heretofore existed in the Borough of Queens. Do you not think that under honest management the work can be done for one-third of $19,000?
>
> I take this occasion of expressing my thanks to you for the work you are doing in co-operation with the Commissioner of Accounts to get rid of dishonest officials in the Borough of Queens. Very truly yours,
>
> W. J. GAYNOR.
> Hon. LAWRENCE GRESSER, President of the Borough of Queens.

Mr. Caldwell was asked if in view of this assurance from the Mayor that the Fosdick investigation was all that he thought it ought to be, the Citizens' Committee was willing to await a report before pressing matters further at Albany.

"No, we are not," he said. "Before we went to Albany we had considered fully the Fosdick matter. The trouble is not with Fosdick, but with Queens. The one man who can handle that situation is some one entirely disconnected with local politics, and some one whom $100,000 won't buy, for the men he will have to deal with are adept in playing politics with money, and are taking desperate chances at this time in final efforts to evade the coming storm.

"Even if Mr. Fosdick's investigators do find good evidence it will depend upon the local District Attorney for results after that, and it is infinitely preferable that a Special Deputy Attorney General act than Mr. De Witt, who is made the subject of circumstantial and specific charges in our committee's petition to the Governor."

District Attorney De Witt yesterday sent to Gov. Hughes his own version of the charges made against him at Albany. He asked for a personal conference with the Governor, and explained that he had postponed bringing action on the conditions complained of only because they were under investigation by the Commissioner of Accounts, and he would soon have from him complete and accurate data on which to proceed.

Gov. Hughes replied to Mr. De Witt's letter, assuring him that he would be glad to see him if he should come to Albany.

Much new material was turned up by the probers in various parts of Queens County yesterday, which will be incorporated into the mass of material prepared for whatever legal body finally takes up the county's affairs.

One of these matters concerns a causeway built in the old days before the opening of the graft régime to keep the ocean back from a seashore roadway running from College Point to Flushing. It is now asserted that the splendid building material from which this causeway was constructed had been disappearing, and that citizens who have been tracing it have found parts of it in buildings erected by a firm of speculative builders in the "inside ring," and other portions as pavement surrounding a recently constructed church.

There is no record that any one ever received permission from the borough to haul building stone away from the causeway, but many thousands of dollars worth of it have been appropriated by contractors, the citizens now assert.

A contract made between the borough and a politician named Patrick O'Mara is also to be looked into. It was an election-time contract, and called for the hauling of garbage from an accumulated pile, which was to have been wholly removed. Citizens now assert that the $1,000 called for under the contract was really election funds raised in that manner from the public treasury, and that the garbage pile remains to-day, having been only slightly disturbed for the $1,000 ostensibly expended upon it.

Former employes of the North Shore Railroad made a contribution to the volume of charges to the effect that the railroad was once held up for a permit to construct a section of new roadbed. They had bids as low as 23 cents a yard for the work, but were unable to go ahead for lack of the borough head's sanction on their work.

Finally they were assured, it is said, that if the contract of a certain firm was accepted the permit would be forthcoming. The firm's figure was 50 cents a yard, but it was taken as a last resort and the work was completed.

Politicians yesterday congregated at the Democratic Club, adjoining the Queens County Court House, and discussed in gloomy terms the storm that has suddenly dropped out of what seemed a clear sky upon their heads. This morning the summonses sent broadcast over the county by the Grand Jury are returnable, and it is thought that the first formal probing into the county's affairs will begin at that time. Scores of witnesses will be on hand from all parts of the county, including all of those whose names figure in the petition now being considered by Gov. Hughes.

In order not to miss the many notable features in next Sunday's Times it is important to place orders with news dealers to-day.

AMBASSADOR SEES PLOT AGAINST HIM

Mr. Wilson Thinks Certain Mexicans Want to Hurt Him and This Country.

TROUBLE OVER A SPEECH

Report Sent to New York and Telegraphed Back to Mexico Leads to Suspicion of an Intrigue.

MEXICO CITY, April 13.—Henry Lane Wilson, the newly-arrived American Ambassador to Mexico, believes that a plot to embarrass him in the discharge of the duties of his office exists in this city.

He does not venture to name those upon whom his suspicions rest, if he has suspicions as to the identity of those interested, but he declares that "in due time the exact character of the intrigue, which is one not only hostile to the Embassy but to the interests of the American Government as well, will be known."

His discovery of the alleged intrigue grew out of the receipt yesterday by El Imparcial, a leading Spanish daily, of a New York dispatch recounting the publication in that city of the offense which the Ambassador is alleged to have given the Mexican people in a recent speech at a banquet given in his honor by the American colony.

Mr. Wilson is said in the story to have "succeeded, as has no other diplomat before him, in exciting the Latin blood of Mexico through a historical reference to the Empire of Charles V. of Spain, which, he said, enslaved the bodies and souls of the people of two hemispheres in the name of God, and attributing to the Aztec and Toltec blood in large degree the rise and development of Mexican civilization."

Even the Americans present were said to have received the Ambassador's words on these subjects with great astonishment.

The Ambassador's words were criticised editorally by El Correo Español, a newspaper of limited circulation among the Spanish residents, and this made the basis of the story published in New York.

El Imparcial, as well as a number of lesser Mexican dailies, editorially commended the speech of the new Ambassador. Several of the Americans who were present say that the reference to Charles V. passed almost unnoticed. The entire speech, which was a response to a toast, was warmly applauded by those at the banquet.

Mr. Wilson to-day said:

"My speech was intended as a compliment to the Mexican people, and I believe that it was so received by them. Only a distorted imagination or malicious intention would be able to discover any purpose to offend or any absence of courtesy.

"Since I arrived here the Mexican people and the vast majority of the Americans have been most courteous and kind, but there seems to exist an as yet undefined, but none the less active intrigue, furthered by interests which did not welcome the coming of the present Ambassador. In due time the exact character of this intrigue, which is one not only hostile to the embassy but to the interests of the American Government as well, will be known."

RACCOON IN THEATRE CROWD.

Zoo Fugitive Frightens Women, Saves Man, Who Killed.

Just as the homeward-bound theatre crowd of Bronxites was pouring down the stairs of the Tremont Avenue Station of the Third Avenue elevated road at midnight, a woman near the bottom shrieked:

"Oh! What a large rat!"

She and all the other women rushed up the stairs. As they did so a gray raccoon whisked around the bottom of the stairs and ran out into the street.

In a moment the women were shrieking with fright, while men and boys rushed halooing after the terrified beast, which fled down Tremont Avenue. It turned into Bathgate, and made straight for the Tremont Avenue Police Station.

Alarmed by the cries of the crowd, the reserves rushed out with drawn clubs, to the door. Foremost was the doorman, Dennis Redding, and as he reached the top of the steps in front of the station, he tripped and fell to the pavement, on top of the rmaccoon, which arrived just in time to save Dennis's life by providing a furry cushion on which for him to fall, and to lose its own. The police blotter recorded it as an "accidental coonicide." The 'coon is believed to have escaped from the Bronx Zoo.

SUICIDE AS STRIKE WAS WON.

Employe Never Heard Roeblings Would Grant the Men's Demands.

TRENTON, April 13.—Hungry and out of work, Adam Mullen, a striking employe of the John A. Roebling Sons Company of this city, committed suicide this morning.

Just before his suicide the Roebling company hung out a notice that the increases asked for by the men would be paid.

The house said it does not want to pay a scale by which the poor workmen will receive as much as the good workmen, but that it is willing to do so if the men insist. There is to be a conference between the men and the Superintendent of the works to-morrow, at which it is expected the trouble will be settled.

The 1,500 strikers were paid off to-day without the slightest disorder. The men were paid at the rate of $1.42 a day, the amount recently offered by the company. This is 7 cents a day more than they have heretofore been receiving.

EXCHANGE TO AUDIT ITS MEMBERS' BOOKS

Governors Report Amendment Which Seems to Give That Power to Law Committee.

PROVISION IS NOT CLEAR

But Investment Houses That Have Been Urging Reforms Believe Their Victory Is Now Complete.

The Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange passed an amendment to the constitution yesterday which the insurgent element among its members consider tantamount to the auditing of brokers' books. The amendment has yet to be voted upon by the Exchange as a body after being posted for ten days. It changes the ninth subdivision of Section 1 of Article 11 of the constitution to read as follows:

> Ninth—A Law Committee to consist of five members, to which shall be referred all questions of law affecting the interests of the Exchange.
> It shall act in an advisory capacity to the President when requested, shall represent the Exchange in conferences with other interests, and is authorized and empowered, whenever the committee shall deem it to be for the interest of the Exchange, to examine into the dealings of any member of the Exchange.

The new matter is contained in the somewhat ambiguous second paragraph. The only official interpretation of it which could be obtained at the Stock Exchange offices yesterday was that the Law Committee's power to represent the Exchange "in conferences with other interests" would be of great advantage in such crises as occurred in the money panic of 1907, when for a day in the face of a collapsing market the question of closing the Exchange during an adjustment of the financial strain, hung in doubt. The last meeting of the Governing Committee made three other changes in the constitution dealing with three of the principal reforms advocated by the Hughes committee.

There were left, then, only two measures which the conservative element on the Exchange, the most ardent advocates of reform, believe to be still necessary. One of these was some system of checking up the solvency of brokerage houses before actual difficulties brought bad management or dishonesty into public notice. The other was the question of fixing a minimum rate of margins for brokerage houses. The latter suggestion was advocated less warmly because the margin exactions depend so much on the financial resources of customers, but the proposal to scrutinize the books has had powerful advocates, more particularly among commission houses who depend on the investment business of the general public for profits.

To this element the meat of yesterday's change in the constitution is contained in the end of the amending paragraph which authorizes the Law Committee "whenever the committee shall deem it to be for the interests of the Exchange, to examine into the dealings of any member of the Exchange."

The Exchange officials always have had the power to examine the books of any member, but the process has been impractical, owing to the large membership in the Governing Committee. In practice it has only been applied when a house has failed or a flagrant mismanagement or dishonesty has been uncovered, that the machinery had been put to work. It was the general belief yesterday that a way had now been opened to keep careful tabs on the books of Stock Exchange houses, whether examinations are made regularly or not.

Some members of the Exchange would have gone further, and have had brokers' books, open to regular inspection in the same way that National and State banks and trust companies are examined several times a year by regularly constituted officials. This policy was advocated by commission houses in the belief that if Stock Exchange houses received a certification of solvency the increased confidence of the public would result in a larger business.

It was pointed out yesterday that the officials of the Exchange are in such close touch with the affairs of members that with a committee empowered to enter a broker's office, practically on its own volition, and go over his books, such conditions as resulted in the McIntyre & Coster, Knapp & Co. failures two years ago would be virtually impossible.

The Law Committee as it will stand until the change in officers takes place next month consists of F. K. Sturgis, Chairman; Francis L. Eams, J. T. Atterbury, Rudolph Keppler, and Henry K. Pomroy. Upon this committee has fallen most of the work of revising the constitution of the Exchange to fulfill the recommendations of the Hughes Committee, and they also were responsible largely for the prompt discipline meted out to those responsible for the Rock Island flurry of December and the Hocking pool collapse of January.

At yesterday's meeting the Governors also adopted a resolution formally dissolving the Unlisted Securities Committee, that department having been abolished on April 1.

JEWEL CASE IN BROADWAY.

Owner Left His Samples There While He Was in a Cafe.

Thousands of persons passed the Hoffman House yesterday afternoon and evening, and never noticed a small leather sample case that stood unguarded on the sidewalk at one corner of the hotel.

The sample case had been left there by a careless salesman. It contained about $1,200 worth of gold trinkets.

Patrolman Walsh of the New West Twentieth Street Station saw the case, but thinking its owner must be near, paid no attention to it at first. He repassed the corner a few minutes later and the case was still there, with nobody near it. Then he picked it up and inquired of the clerk of the hotel, but could get no information as to its owner. He took it to the station house, where it was opened and found to contain a hundred pairs of gold cuff links, and a miscellaneous assortment of stick pins, hat pins, side and back combs.

Half an hour later a man who said he was J. S. Kilkenny of Providence, R. I., ran into the station house and reported the theft of his sample case, which, he said, he had left in front of the Hoffman House while he went into the café with a friend.

"Do you always leave your case around that way?" asked Lieut. Ebert.

"Yes, and never lost anything before," the man replied. "I've generally found people are honest."

"They may be all honest," said the Lieutenant, "but if they are, some are absent-minded."

After describing his case Kilkenny was allowed to take it.

NO AMERICAN CARDINALS.

Pope Strikes Names of Archbishop Farley and Others Off List.

ROME, April 13.—It is announced that the Pope has struck off from the list of candidates for the Cardinalate all Americans, including the Archbishops of New York, St. Paul, Chicago, and New Orleans.

The Chancellery of the Vatican confirms this, without volunteering an explanation.

The consistory for the naming of cardinals has been postponed from time to time. It was to have been held last December, and the creation of from eight to ten cardinals has been looked for.

The question of a new American cardinal has been prominently discussed, but no definite decision has ever been reached with reference to such an appointment. Those most prominently named as candidates have been Archbishop John M. Farley of New York, Archbishop James Edward Quigley of Chicago, Archbishop John Ireland of St. Paul, and Archbishop James H. Blenk of New Orleans.

The Rome Tribuna has on various occasions referred to the probability of the creation of a new American cardinal and has named Archbishop Ireland and Archbishop Farley as the most likely candidates.

FRIGHTEN A PARIS AUDIENCE.

Balls Containing a Noxious Compound Thrown—Pickpocket Profits.

PARIS, April 13.—In the course of a performance of "La Tosca" at the Opéra Comique to-night a person in a box threw several balls containing a noxious compound into the auditorium, causing part of the audience to stampede.

A pickpocket profited by the incident and relieved a Dutch merchant of his pocketbook, containing $1,200. Several arrests were made.

It was said that the act was one of protest against the direction of the Opéra Comique.

CAN'T FIND DAVID A. HALL.

Court Orders Investigation of His Sanity to Proceed Without Him.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 13.—In connection with the proceedings brought by Mary E. Haskins for the appointment of a commission to pass upon the sanity of David A. Hall, who is said to be worth $250,000, Supreme Court Justice Mills directed to-day that the service of the papers on Mr. Hall be dispensed with.

Mrs. Hand, who is said to be the divorced wife of Mr. Hall, lives in Manhattan. Mr. Wilcox, counsel for Mrs. Haskins, alleges that when he visited Mrs. Hand's home on March 29 he was unable to find Mr. Hall, and believes that he is being concealed by Mrs. Hand. By order of Judge Mills the commission will take testimony as to the sanity of Mr. Hall.

LIEUT. CORNWALLIS-WEST ILL.

Lady Randolph Churchill's Husband at a Hotel in Indianapolis.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 13.Lieut. George Cornwallis-West of London, who married Lady Randolph Church ten years ago, is at the Claypool Hotel here suffering from illness. He has been in Indianapolis about a week.

Propped up in bed and attended by a nurse, he explained to-day that he had been in Mexico on a business trip, and while on his way back to New York was taken ill on the train. As the train neared Indianapolis he decided to leave it and go to a hotel, where he could receive treatment.

"I am too ill to talk much," said he, "but I may say that my treatment here has been of the very best."

Lieut. Cornwallis-West added that he was improving rapidly, and expected to continue his journey within a short time.

FURLONG IN SING SING.

Ex-Magistrate Joins the Idle Squad, but Will Soon Be Put to Work.

OSSINING, N. Y., April 13.—Ex-Magistrate Henry J. Furlong arrived at Sing Sing prison shortly before 4 o'clock this afternoon. He was in charge of a Deputy Sheriff, but contrary to the usual custom was not handcuffed to the deputy.

Furlong did not appear at all depressed when he alighted at the station, and as he walked along the platform he stopped to pat a hack horse standing alongside of the platform. It was remarked that he looked more like an ordinary visitor than a man about to spend a year in prison. He carried a new bag and started off on the walk of three-quarters of a mile to the prison at a brisk gait.

On arriving at the prison the ex-Magistrate was taken to the clerk's room, where his pedigree was recorded. Then he was shaved and had a haircut and a bath, and donned a suit of prison clothes. He was then assigned temporarily to what is called the "idle gang."

Murlong will be put to work as soon as Warden Frost decides what the new prisoner is best fitted for.

LOCK UP TWO AS ROBBERS.

Police Trail Them and Think They Just Nipped a Burglary.

After shadowing them from the Bowery to Eighth Street and Avenue A three Central Office detectives last night arrested John Schmidt and Charles Fisher, both said to be burglars of long record on the police rolls, on charges of having burglars' tools and carrying concealed weapons.

Schmidt had a valise containing two electric lamps, a shawlstrap, a large quantity of wrapping paper, and a chisel; also a time table of the West Shore Railroad, with the station, Harrington Park, underscored. Fisher carried a valise and a loaded revolver.

According to the police, both men were but recently released from prison. Schmidt, they say, was sentenced to six months for having burglar tools on June 30, 1905, and to four years and nine months for burglary in 1906, he having taken $4,000 worth of jewelry and clothing from the home of M. C. Parsons at Rye, N. Y.

Fisher, according to the police, is known also as "Schwab." They say he served six months in the Union County Jail at Elizabeth, N. J., for larceny, and was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment at Trenton on July 28, 1908, for horse stealing. The police think the pair were on their way to operate professionally at Harrington Park when arrested last night.

FULL GRAFT QUIZ IS NOW ASSURED

Story of the Legislative Stock Deals Sweeps Away Last Vestiges of Opposition.

COBB WANTS THE LID OFF

DENIALS BY STOCK TRADERS

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 13.—All day long official circles at the Capitol have been in a ferment over the disclosures in this morning's TIMES regarding the large credits appearing against the names of legislators, past and present, on the books of the brokerage firm of Ellingwood & Cunningham, in which G. Tracy Rogers, the traction lobbyist, was one of the partners.

To-night it may be stated authoritatively that all opposition in the Senate majority to the broadest kind of investigation of graft in the Legislature and the State Departments during recent years has been overcome.

The effect of this morning's disclosures was almost instant. An hour after copies of THE TIMES reached Albany, the story of legislators' operations with the brokerage firm which, in the light of recent disclosures, has come to be looked upon in many quarters as a clearing house for legislative retainers, to the men who formed the keystones of the "System" in the palmy days when the Black Horse Cavalry was in the saddle at the Capitol, was being devoured by the present leaders over breakfast tables in clubs and hotels. Two hours later these same leaders had virtually agreed that the lid must be taken off and the proposed omnibus investigation of legislative corruption be made as sweeping and complete as Gov. Hughes has urged that it should be.

Cobb for Taking the Lid Off.

Majority Leader George H. Cobb of the upper house told his associates to-day that he will countenance no half-way measures, but will insist that the forthcoming investigation be one that will convince the people of the good faith of the present leadership. Senator Cobb is Chairman of the sub-committee of the Senate Finance Committee, which was appointed to draft a concurrent resolution through which provision is to be made for the proposed inquiry. He met Senator George B. Agnew of New York and Dennis J. Hart of Queens, his associates, this evening, and after their meeting it was announced that the sub-committee would be ready to report a measure to the finance committee at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning, and it was intimated that the Finance Committee, in its turn, might report the resolution to the Senate at to-morrow's session.

This resolution, it is understood, will go the limit in the broad discretionary powers it will vest in the proposed investigating committee. Unless the plans are changed the committee will be composed of eight members, three Senators, and five Assemblymen, giving the minority a representation of three members. Some of the Senators also favor the appointment of some high-class Democrat as counsel to the committee. Under the resolution as at present framed the committee will be required to report "not later than March 1, 1911," with the way open to report to an extraordinary session of the present Legislature should occasion arise. The committee will have power of subpoena, to compel witnesses to testify under oath, and to punish them for contempt should they refuse.

Full Investigation Sure.

It was more than intimated to-night that the Ellingwood and Cunningham chapter of the story told during the Hotchkiss investigation, with all its suggestions of graft, will be gone into fully by any committee appointed for the purpose of investigating legislative corruption. The pages from the ledgers of the brokerage concern which contain the record of the transactions referred to in THE TIMES this morning still remain in the possession of Supt. Hotchkiss and form part of the record of his investigation. This record, according to Mr. Hotchkiss, will be turned over to the prospective Investigating Committee, as will the transcribed minutes of the Allds inquiry, which dealt at some length with the same subject, particularly with the transactions of Messrs. Allds, Nixon, Bedell, and others in Electric Vehicle stock at a time when a bill, the passage of which had the effect of boosting that security, was pending before the Legislature and was being railroaded through to final passage by Speaker Nixon, Jean Burnett, Allds, Bedell, Goodsell, and others for whom the brokerage firm of G. Tracy Rogers was carrying blocks of the stock on margin.

Most of the men who are mentioned in THE TIMES article were all-powerful at Albany during the years from 1901 to 1905, or until the Higgins housecleaning. Some, like Raines, Allds, Malby, Rogers, and Burnett, remained in positions of influence and power even after other pillars of the "System" that dominated the Legislature during the two administrations of Gov. Odell, and were powerful even during the administration of Theodore Roosevelt and his predecessors, had ceased to be factors in the legislative life at Albany.

Losses at Legislative Poker.

It was predicted here to-night by one of the old-time legislators who was familiar with the activities at the Capitol of G. Tracy Rogers, that if the investigation to come goes deep enough it will be found a large number of checks for large amounts given by the traction lobbyist to legislators may turn up. Rogers, according to this legislator, during his frequent trips to Albany in the early nineties was the centre of a poker circle gambling for high stakes.

"Rogers had an irritating custom of giving checks to make good his poker losses," said this legislator, "and one strange feature of the games in which he sat was, that he nearly always lost. Oh, Rogers was a most wretched poker player when he played poker at the capital with his friends in the Legislature. Some of the fellows who sat in are sweating blood to-night."

With a thorough legislative investigation of the working of the lobby a certainty, it has been a matter of current gossip at the Capitol that William H. Buckley, whose activities received so much attention by Supt. Hotchkiss, has not been in evidence at all about Albany of late. During the insurance investigation in 1906 Mr. Buckley found that the climate of Canada agreed with him better than the rarified atmosphere of a State on housecleaning bent. Friends of Mr. Buckley profess to have no knowledge of his present whereabouts, and it has been suggested that he might not be within the jurisdiction of the Legislature at present. In the meantime Supt. Hotchkiss is preparing to put the transcript of the testimony he gave in New York at the fire insurance investigation before the State Bar Association.

Help for Direct Primaries.

But to-night there are other indications also that the opposition to Gov. Hughes in the Legislature is crumbling. After a first conference over the direct nominations legislation which is pending it was learned to-day that the organization leaders had made various concessions to the advocates of the Governor's direct primary plan, and no one would be much surprised as the situation stands to-night if the Hinman-Green bill, which has the Governor's support, would pass, with some modifications.

HOTCHKISS CLEARS BRACKETT,

Who Lost Money by His Stock Deals —Tells All Details and Courts Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 13.—Of the legislators mentioned in this morning's TIMES as having had accounts with Ellingwood & Cunningham, only one, Senator Edgar T. Brackett of Saratoga, is a member of the present Legislature. Senator Brackett has been one of the most active members of the insurgent group in the upper house. He was tireless in his efforts to bring Senator Jotham P. Allds before the Senate bar after Senator Conger had made his startling bribery charge against the then leader of the Senate.

This morning, after he had read THE TIMES article, Mr. Brackett lost no time issuing a sweeping denial that there was anything questionable in the transactions in connection with which has name appeared on the books of Ellingwood & Cunningham. Senator Brackett declared that it was purely a speculative account he carried with the New York brokerage house, and that everything connected with the transactions would stand the light of day. In this he was supported by Supt. of Insurance Hotchkiss, who has examined the books in question in the course of his investigation of the fire insurance companies. Mr. Hotchkiss said he felt convinced there was nothing about the Brackett transactions which the Senator could not satisfactorily explain.

"So far as the transaction with Ellingwood & Cunningham in 1901 is concerned," said Senator Brackett, "it was a sale of 200 shares of stock for me and paying me the proceeds. The stock had previously been bought through another firm of brokers and paid for. There were some transactions with Ellingwood & Cunningham subsequent to 1901 where, as brokers, they both bought and sold for me. In every case the stocks were bought in the open market at the regular rate, were paid for by me—I do not mean to say they were not carried on margin at that time, but were ultimately paid for by me.

"There was no gift, nor seceret benefit, nor advantage of any kind given to me. It was a plain purchase and sale in each case of stocks that could not be affected by any legislation in New York, the details of which I am willing that any one and every one should know, and which can be proven by checks and records beyond any challenge."

Senator Brackett then gave these details of his transactions with Ellingwood & Cunningham:

"In the year 1900 I purchased some stock from McIntyre & Wardwell, who had an office in the Produce Exchange Building in New York. The firm got in such condition that they did not care to carry my stock any longer. I had purchased it on a margin, and I borrowed sums from such institutions as I could to buy the stock and take it out of their hands. I had 100 shares in my own name and held 200 shares jointly with a friend. Later the joint stock was divided, and I then held 200 shares.

"In the Spring of 1901, I think it was, I sent the stock to Ellengwood & Cunningham through a friend, as they were the only brokers I knew of, and instructed them to sell it. They could not dispose of it at the figure I stipulated and, finally, on Sept. 13, they sold it and the next day sent me a check. The stock was sold at a loss of thousands.

"The stock in question was Electric Storage Battery Company, in which the late William C. Whitney was supposed to be interested at that time. Mr. Whitney had come to Saratoga and was interested in reorganizing the Saratoga Racing Association. Later I bought Steel common at the same brokerage house and I lost considerably by that deal. I tried to recoup and bought Steel bonds. The last transaction I had with Ellingwood & Cunningham was the purchase of Amalgamated Copper.

"I paid cash for what I got, and the stocks I dealt in were in no way connected with legislation at the Capital here. I told Mr. Hotchkiss I would gladly explain all my transactions with the brokerage company in question."

STOCK WENT DOWN ON BAXTER,

So Assembly's ex-Clerk Says—His Stock Deals Personal and Not Improper.

Special to The New York Times.

ELMIRA, N. Y., April 13.—Concerning the revelations in to-day's TIMES that the name of Col. Archie Baxter is found in the stock books of Ellingwood & Cunningham, Col. Baxter said to-day:

"For the last thirty years I have occasionally bought and sold stocks. At the time of the passage of the Transportation bill in question I was Clerk of the Assembly. I rendered no services to any one in relation to the passage of the bill, and never was requested to do so.

"I had no conversation with Mr. Rogers or any one else with reference to the bill or its merits. In fact, I took no interest in the bill in any way whatever. As I now recall it, some weeks after its passage I heard it talked about Albany that the Transportation stock was a good purchase I bought 100 shares on margin, putting up $500 of my money, as I had a perfect right fro mevery viewpoint to do. Unfortunately, the stock went down, and I had to put up more of my own money as a remargin.

"I then regarded the transaction as a purely personal one, of no interest to any one but myself. I saw nothing improper in the matter then, and I see nothing questionable about it now."

GOODSELL'S STOCK TRADES.

Speculated for Years, He Says, and Never on Account of Legislation.

Special to The New York Times.

HIGHLAND FALLS, N. Y., April 13.—The Hon. Louis F. Goodsell, former Senator from this district, at his home Cedar Bluff, said to-night he was willing to tell THE TIMES everything he knew in regard to the story that went to it from Binghamton, in which his name was mentioned in connection with stock transactions with the brokerage firm of Ellingwood & Cunningham of New York.

"It is true," said Mr. Goodsell, "as the article alleges, that I had dealings with the firm, but those dealings were in every way legitimate. I have dealt more or less in legitimate stock operations for years.

"When I have seen something in the market which seemed to offer a particularly good chance of turning a dollar or a hundred, I never failed to take the chance. If the market fell, I held on until it rallied, and usually cleaned up on the right side, for I didn't have to sell.

"As to the particular stock so much has been said about, I did have some of that, but if you will look at the books of the brokers you will find that I bought it, that I paid for it, and that I sold again. I did not begin buying stock when I entered the Senate, for I know of no reason why I should have waited until that time. The stocks I bought included Union Pacific, Central Pacific, Steel, in fact anything that looked like a winner on the market.

"There has been a whole lot said concerning the 'trans' stock being taken by members of the Legislature, but take my word for it, there were a lot of people who were never in the Legislature who took blocks of it, and they live in every county on the Hudson River. Because they bought at exactly the same figure at which I bought doesn't indicate that they were not doing right, though one would infer from the article printed that I was wrong in buying it.

"I have not looked at my old account books in several years, and couldn't tell you whether I made money or lost in the selling of the 'Trans' stock, but my impression is that it was close shaving one way or the other. The brokers said at the outset that it was to be a soarer, and it looked good, but I realized, after having it a short time, that the sooner it was off my hands the better off I would be, and I got rid of it.

"I did not receive one share of stock during my legislative career for any act I did for any person or corporation, either as a member of the Senate or as a member of the several committees on which I had been placed and served.

"I dealt in stocks when I wanted to, did it legitimately, and would do it again if the opportunities presented themselves. I have nothing to hide, and my record will stand all the searchlight that may be turned on it, whether by the legislative committees or a State Department."

LOST MONEY, MALBY SAYS.

His Stock Transactions Legitimate and No Corrupt Legislation Passed House.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Representative George R. Malby of New York emphatically denied to-night that his speculative account with the firm of Ellingwood & Cunningham, from 1900 to 1905, was in the slightest degree subject to criticism. Asked to comment on the published disclosure that he was one of ten State legislative leaders who maintained accounts with that firm, in which G. Tracy Rodgers, keeper of the "yellow dog" fund, was a partner, Mr. Malby said:

"I have not read the story. I can say offhand, however, that if any one wants to make good my losses with the firm of Ellingwood & Cunningham I will give him a check to-day for $20,000.

"I dealt with that firm, as I have with scores of others. I wish to state emphatically in this connection that none of my stock transactions was in stocks in which the State of New York or the City of New York were interested, or over which they had any control. I handled no State or municipal stocks, and my transactions with Ellingwood & Cunningham are no more subject to criticism than those with any other brokerage firm at that time or at the present. Unfortunately, the firm failed and I lost money.

"It has also been published that there was no charge of corruption in insurance legislation during the year 1902, although the remaining years from 1901 to 1905, it is charged, brought forth bills in which there was alleged corruption. The year 1902 happens to be the year that I was Chairman of the Insurance Committee of the Senate, and if anybody can show that any corrupt legislation went through in that years I am willing to defend myself and face the issue.

"The stock transaction issue is met by my statement that I have never dealt in stocks in which the State or Legislature was interested, and my transactions were in no wise different from hundreds of others in which I have been engaged with members of the Exchange from time to time."

GRAFT OF $500,000 RETURNED.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 13.—The return to the State of over $500,000 taken illegally by Republican State officials is one of the results of the investigation instigated by Gov. Harmon, which practically closed to-day. The Investigating Committee has been in session almost since the General Assembly convened.

The committee finished to-night the hearing of the testimony of all the members of the House and adjourned subject to the call of the Chairman. That the Franklin County Grand Jury, which meets next week, will return some indictments as a result of the investigation is the expressed belief of members of the committee.

The only witnesses yet to be heard are Lewis G. Bernard, the Democratic boss of Cincinnati, and John Murphy of the Cincinnati Telephone Company, both of whom, Representative Winters, the floor leader in the House, testified tried to influence his vote on the Elson Telephone bill. The testimony of the members shows that not only lobbyists and others interested in the telephone companies tried to influence them to vote for the Elson bill, but that prominent Republican State officials were also lobbying for the bill.

MORE PITTSBURG ADMISSIONS.

Three Councilmen Take Immunity Bath —Technical Points Overruled.

PITTSBURG, April 13.—Though District Attorney William A. Blakeley did not proceed with the trials of the seven Councilmen whose names were on the Criminal Court calendar to-day, charged with grafting, the hands of the prosecutor of Pittsburg's gigantic graft scandal were strengthened all along the line, and further efforts to defeat the course of the law met with rebuffs.

Three former Councilmen who have been declaring that they would stand pat and fight to the finish, pleaded no defense and received the immunity bath. John Casserly, Isaac Libson, and John Hogue were the ones that decided to make a clean breast of things. Each acknowledged receiving money for his vote in councils.

In the case of John Taylor an effort was made to again attack the eligibility of Harrison Nesbit as foreman of the Grand Jury and, defeated in this, the defense tried to obtain delay on the ground that the bill of particulars was not specific enough. Judge Josiah Cohen, who was on the bench to-day denied this motion also.

Peter Meyer did not answer to his name when it was called, and an attachment was issued for him. William McKelvey and J. A. Travers were not ready to proceed, and a respite for the day was granted.

District Attorney Blakeley will leave Pittsburg at midnight on his way to Albany. He will stop at Harrisburg to obtain the extradition papers from Gov. E. S. Stuart, who received them this morning, and will be at Albany on Friday for which time the hearing on the extradition of Frank N. Hoffstot has been set by Gov. Hughes.

SAYS GRAFT IS TREASON.

"Dishonest Politicians Should Be Exiled," Lecturer Declares.

Thomas F. Woodlock, former editor of The Wall Street Journal, gave the final lecture last night in the course on the relations of the Roman Catholic Church and Socialism at the Cathedral College, Fifty-first Street and Madison Avenue.

Mr. Woodlock insisted that the State is the creation of God, and that the people who gave up religion would soon lose their liberty. He denounced graft as treason against the State and said:

"If men comprehended the morality of public relations as clearly as they do that of business relations graft in politics would be as much abhorred as theft in business.

"If we understand our duty," he said, "the politician suspected of working for his own pocket would be driven from public life, if not into dishonorable exile."

American Hardware's Capital Up.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., April 13.—At a meeting of the Directors of the American Hardware Corporation here to-day it was voted to increase the capital stock from $7,500,000 to $12,500,000. One half of this amount will be distributed to the stockholders, one share to every three shares now held and the remainder will be put in as treasury stock.

BRYAN LETTER DAMPS DEMOCRATS' SPIRITS

He Defends Free Silver Campaign of 1896 in Message to Jefferson Day Banquet.

HARRISON ATTACKS TAFT

New York Congressman Declares That Aldrich Is the Real Master of the Republican Party.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Prominent Democratic Senators were loath to-day to comment on the letter of William Jennings Bryant, sent from Brazil and read at the Jefferson day dinner to-night. A number of Democrats said they did not agree with Mr. Bryan on the money question, but that they thought the chances for Democratic success were too bright to be put in jeopardy now by taking issue with the three times standard bearer of Democracy.

One leader attempted to dissuade newspaper men from seeking at this time the views of Democrats on the interjection of the money question into political affairs.

"What we want now," this leader said, "is to unite the two factions of our party to meet a divided enemy."

Several Democratic Senators are not on good terms with Mr. Bryan. Among these are Messrs. Bailey of Texas and Simmons of North Carolina. They opposed his nomination in the last campaign, and expressed the fear that anything they might say would be misinterpreted. Therefore, both of these Senators declined to talk. Similar replies were received from a number of friends of Mr. Bryan.

On every hand the Democrats appeared to be optimistic of success for the party in the coming Congressional campaigns, and predictions were freely made that the party would be victorious also in 1912.

Mr. Bryan's Letter.

Mr. Bryan's letter was as follows:

"I thank you for the invitation to the Jefferson Day banquet. While I shall not return to the United States in time to attend, I can join with you in spirit the more heartily because of what I have learned by visiting other countries. I have seen everywhere the influence exerted by his teachings. In the nation in which I am just now sojourning I find illustrations of his idea of conquest. He contended that we should conquer the world with our ideals rather than with our arms, and in this sense we are effecting a conquest of Brazil.

"Her Constitution is modeled after ours; she has copied from us the Federal system of government, which united local control of local affairs with national supremacy; her flag, like ours, has a star for each State, and her school system is being made to conform more and more to ours. These victories, too, cement friendship instead of arousing enmity. Hail to Jefferson, the world's schoolmaster, whose views continue their majestic march around the earth.

"But in our own country, as well as abroad, his principles are triumphing. He taught that the art of government is the art of being honest, and each new investigation proves the folly of those who refuse to learn of him. He was the foe of monopoly in every form, and his name is the one which can with most propriety be invoked when the trusts are attacked and when a contest is being waged for the application of the principles of popular government.

"I am so far away from home that I am not fully informed as to the recent events, but I have just read of one Jeffersonian victory, namely, the selection of an investigating committee by the House instead of by the Speaker, and, better still, each party selected its members of the committee. This establishes an important precedent, which, if followed, will make investigations real and effective.

Fight on the Meat Trust.

"I notice also that we seem likely to win a victory against the Meat Trust. Monopoly prices have at last provoked a popular protest, and now that the people are looking for a remedy there is hope that they will accept the Democratic remedy. It is not unnatural that they should use the boycott, even if they punish themselves while they are inflicting punishment on their oppressors; but I am sure they will, in the end, find legislation more satisfactory than abstinence from meat, and join with the Democrats in declaring a private monopoly—not the Meat Trust only, but every private monopoly—indefensible and intolerable.

"But there is another item of news which has just come to my attention. President Taft, in his Lincoln speech at New York, Feb. 12, attributes present high prices mainly to the increase in the production of gold and the consequent enlargement of the volume of money. This unexpected indorsement of our party's proposition in 1896, when we demanded more money as the only remedy for falling prices, is very gratifying. How valuable that admission would have been to us if it had been made during the campaign of that year, when the Republican leaders were denying that the volume of money had any influence on prices, and asserting that it did not matter whether we had much money or little, provided it was all good.

"We may now consider the quantitative theory of money established beyond dispute and proced to the consideration of other questions. But the President and his predecessor have admitted the correctness of the Democratic position on so many questions that further argument is hardly necessary on any subject we may now take judgment against the Republican Party by confession.

"Please present my compliments to the Democrats assembled in memory of the Sage of Monticello. I take it for granted that your gathering will not adjourn without the adoption of a resolution urging the ratification by all the States of the income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution.

"The time is ripe for a return to Jeffersonian principles, and I trust the representatives of our party will make a record which will secure us a majority at the coming Congressional election. With that advantage gained, the Democrats will have an opportunity to outline a programme; and, with a programme in harmony with Jeffersonian ideas, the Democracy will enter the Presidential campaign with promise of success."

Democratic Victory Predicted.

Vigorous attacks on the Republican policy of high protection, condemnation of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, which it was claimed was one of the principal causes of present high prices, strong defense of the Democratic principles of Thomas Jefferson, and loudly applauded predictions of Democratic victory at the coming Congressional elections, were made by the speakers at the banquet to-night. These declarations were greeted with cheers which made the big banquet hall ring and re-echo with their vigor.

With members of both Houses of Congress among the speakers, and with representatives of Democracy from all parts of the United States present, the banquet was an enthusiastic approval of the principles of Jefferson. His "reverence for the individual love of liberty" was praised by Representative Clayton of Alabama, toastmaster of the banquet.

"He loved the uses of Government but abhorred its abuses," he declared.

His writings and teachings in favor of "individualism under highly developed civilization as the antithesis of communism" were praised by the speaker, who spoke of Jefferson's belief in States rights and the separation of the different branches of Government.

"The certainty of Democratic harmony and the restoration of Government to the rule of the Democratic Party," were declared to be due to the "sins of omission and of commission by the Republican Party." Vicarious sacrifice of certain members of the Republican Party, he said, would not be accepted by the people of the country as a sufficient apology for the faults of the party. The Democratic party, he declared, would remain harmonious.

Harrison Criticises Taft.

The first speaker of the evening was Representative Francis Burton Harrison of New York. He declared that for the Democratic Party all signs were harbingers of hope, and that being "united and harmonious, alert and aggressive, Democracy might well celebrate the day as it has not been celebrated in twenty years." He predicted Democratic victory at the coming elections, saying that "the people are ready to turn from a Republican rule which believes in creating prosperity by legislation to a Democratic rule which advocates creating prosperity by labor."

While acknowledging that "the people to-day like and admire President Taft," Mr. Harrison asserted that "instead of demanding a genuine revision of the traiff, on the promise of which he was elected to office, he capitulated to the powerful influences of the old Republican machine. The President was unfortunate in having led a life of political progression along the lines of least resistance."

Declaring that in spite of Roosevelt Republicans, and Taft Republicans, La Follette-Beveridge Republicans, and Republicans bearing the Cannon-Aldrich brand, as well as all the rest of the varieties, "there will not be enough of them to carry the election next November," Mr. Harrison said that President Taft, acting as peacemaker, "will be attacked by both sides. With his right hand," the speaker continued, "he strokes the insurgent cat, while with his left, through his Attorney General, he skins it alive.

"Meanwhile, fellow Democrats," he exhorted, "let us encourage among them the practice of reading men out of the Republican Party and into the Democratic ranks, and may the good days of Democratic harmony endure, world without end."

The speaker declared that "to-day the Republican machine leaders are riding the backs of 90,000,000 American citizens, and that their ringleader is the great apostle of privilege, Nelson W. Aldrich." He said that when the tariff bill was under discussion "Mr. Taft should have turned a deaf ear to the specious pleadings of Senator Aldrich." The latter's statement that he could have saved $300,000,000 of the people's money every year, Mr. Harrison held, was a strong indictment of the Republican Party.

Clark Condemns Tariff.

After the manner of the "One Hoss Shay," the Republican party is going to pieces, according to the speech of Champ Clark of Missouri, Democratic leader in the House of Representatives.

Condemning the Republican Party as "the most extravagant the sun ever shone upon" and calling what he dubbed "the Payne-Aldrich-Smoot Tariff bill" the worst tariff bill ever placed upon the statute books, the speaker declared that "it and its predecessor, the Dingley bill, together with the trusts bred by the high tariff are largely responsible for the high cost of living. If a high tariff does not increase prices," he asked, "why do the tariff barons want a high tariff? The question answers itself."

"The increase of gold," he continued, "has some influence in raising prices it is true, but the high tariff and the trusts are the principal factors in increasing the price of manufactured articles.

"Economy is a humble theme," he said, "affording little opportunity for burnished rhetoric or far-resounding eloquence. But," he added, "it appeals to the average man with great force, especially in this period of high prices of living, constantly growing higher.

"The people this Fall," he said, "are likely to take it into their heads to locate the authors of the vast extravagance which is eating up their substance and to punish them when found—a just and patriotic performance, which will give us a Democratic House of Representatives in the next Congress and both a Democratic President and House of Representatives in 1912."

DEMOCRATS PLAN CAMPAIGN.

League of Clubs Meets at Indianapolis Preceding Jefferson Dinner.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 13.—Preliminary to the Jefferson Day banquet here to-night, leading Democrats from many States discussed the bright prospects for next Fall. Many of the conferences were informal, but at the meeting of the National Democratic League of Clubs it was decided to carry on a vigorous campaign of organization throughout the country. The plan is to organize a Democratic Club in every precinct, ward, township, county, and State in the Union. It is planned also to issue appeals to all Democratic papers to assist in organization and in agitating after clubs are formed.

Some of the leading Democrats, including John W. Kern and Gov. Marshall, are to prepare campaign literature. It was decided that The National Monthly, published by Norman E. Mack, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, should be the official organ of the league.

The following officers were elected: President, W. C. Liller, Indianapolis; First Vice President, John W. Kern, Indianapolis; Second Vice President, Joseph W. Folk, Missouri; Third Vice President, Hoke Smith, Georgia; Fourth Vice President, Woodrow Wilson, New Jersey; Fifth Vice President, F. B. Lynch, Minnesota; Secretary, R. J. Beatty, Ohio; Treasurer, E. S. Clark, Indianapolis.

Addresses were delivered at the meeting by Representative Sulzer, Gov. Marshall, Gov. Shafroth of Colorado, Representative John J. Lentz of Ohio, John W. Kern, James H. Caldwell of Pennsylvania, A. L. Hardy of Missouri, and others.

Gov. Harmon of Ohio sent a letter regretting that he could not attend, in which he said:

> The belief has rapidly spread throughout the country that the leaders of the party which has long succeeded in securing majorities at the polls are not able, even if they are willing, to rescue the Government from the grasp of those who use it to thrive at the expense of the millions of citizens who support it. So the opportunity of our party is at hand.
> We have this advantage: We are free to choose our agents. No rich and powerful combination of self-seekers rules the organization of the Democratic Party to force candidates upon it and control their conduct when elected. It is for us merely a question of care and sagacity in selecting men to carry out our purposes. We seek no advantages for ourselves, which all citizens will not share equally with us. We wish only to justify the existence of our party by making it an agency for good Government by applying the ideas and principles which Thomas Jefferson expounded and exemplified.

At the banquet to-night John W. Kern, Democratic candidate for Vice President in 1908, was toastmaster. Many addresses weer made by party leaders extolling Jefferson as the founder of the Democratic Party, and prophesying that the party two qearys hence would win control of the Nation.

A letter from William J. Bryan was read, and Gov. Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana, Congressman William Sulzer of New York, former Gov. Joseph W. Folk of Missouri, J. J. Lentz of Ohio, Lafayette Pence of New York, and others spoke.

Richmond Democrats Honor Jefferson

A Jeffersonian dinner, given by 250 Democrats of the Richmond County organization, was held at Hugo's Hall, St. George, S. I., last night. Judge John J. Kenney presided as toastmaster, and speeches were made by Congressmen Cyrus Cline of Indiana, Courtney Walker Hamlin of Missouri, and Jefferson Beal of Texas. Magistrate Joseph B. Handy, William S. Vancleave, Frederick Skene, Daniel D. Frisble, and Assemblyman William Allaire Shortt of Richmond County.

NOMINATES GAYNOR FOR THE PRESIDENCY

Sulzer for Governor Also the Choice of John W. Shea at Jefferson Dinner.

MACK PREDICTS VICTORY

Letter from National Democratic Chairman Says Country Is in Revolt Against Republicans.

Mayor Gaynor was nominated for President and Congressman Sulzer for Governor of this State last night by John W. Shea at the National Democratic Club's celebration of the one hundred and sixty-seventh birthday of Thomas Jefferson.

Mr. Shea's declaration that these men were the ones to lead the Democratic Party to State and National victory was made late in the evening, after many of the club's guests had gone, so that the demonstration which followed the mention of their names was not great. It was made after the reading of a letter from National Democratic Chairman Norman E. Mack, predicting a great victory for the Democrats in the State and country both this Fall and in 1912.

Mr. Shea said that in his judgment no one could be found better fitted to represent at Albany the Democracy which Jefferson founded and stood for than Congressman Sulzer. He pictured the country when Jefferson was President, with only 5,000,00 population, and extending from the Atlantic to the Mississippi only.

"It was a larger territory than that covered by New York," said he, "but there were no more people than are now under the Mayor of this city, and there is no better man to restore the supremacy of Democracy, as Jefferson conceived it in the Nation, than the present Mayor of New York."

There was some handclapping, but not the demonstration which followed the reading of National Chairman Mack's letter, declaring that the people were losing faith in the Republican Party.

Says Republicans Are Not Trusted.

This is the letter in part:

> It is hardly necessary for me to tell you that the Democratic Party was never in such splendid shape as it is to-day on the eve of an important Congressional campaign. The feeling throughout the entire country as I found it on my recent trip, when I came in contact with representatives of nearly every election district of the country, is one of distrust of the Republican Party by the people because of the failure of that party to live up to its platform pledges and to the promises contained in the President's speech of acceptance.
>
> The people themselves directly charge the Republican Party and the Administration with failure to keep faith with them in the pre-election promises of a downward revision of the tariff, and directly charge the Republican Party with the upward revision of the tariff and with the high cost of living which has followed in the wake of such action.
>
> Now the people are turning to the Democrats for relief, and by nominating men of high calibre to our Congressional conventions this Fall, we will assure an overwhelming victory for our party in the Congressional election and Democratic control of the House of Representatives.
>
> The by-elections in Massachusetts and in Missouri to fill vacancies in the House of Representatives and the confidence displayed by the people in the Democratic candidates, which resulted in their election by the greatest pluralities ever given candidates in these districts, is indicative of public sentiment.

"Victory Assured," Says Mack.

> There never was such a railying to the Democratic Party as we are now beholding, and it comes at a time when our party is united and harmonious from one end of the country to the other. Nor have we ever before witnessed such disruption and discord in the Republican Party because of the distrust of that party by the people for its failure to carry out its platform pledges.
>
> We are certain to score a signal victory in this year's Congressional elections, and this will but light the way to an even greater victory in the National election of 1912. The Democratic Party never presented as solid a front to the enemy as it does to-day.
>
> Light has been turned into the dark places, and the people now realize as never before that the Republican Party is a party of sham and pretense and the mother of protection and of monopolies and trusts. They look to Democracy to restore to them their heritage of "equal rights to all, special privileges to none."

Equally as much enthusiasm as that aroused by the denunciation of the Republicans by Mr. Mack and his prophecy of victory for Jefferson's party greeted the remarks of Charles S. Hamlin of Massachusetts, one of the leading figures in the Foss campaign. He told how the fight was waged and won.

Tells of Foss's Great Victory.

Mr. Hamlin said he was nominated before Mr. Foss, but had to decline, as he was not a resident of the district. But his aid to Foss was so enthusiastic that he made, he declared, twenty-nine speeches in four days.

Mr. Hamlin said the wonderful Democratic victory in what was perhaps the strongest Republican stronghold in the United States, where a usual Republican majority of 14,000 was changed to a Democratic majority of 6,000, was largely due to two causes, the tariff revision and the address in the district by Senator Lodge.

The people were convinced that the Republican Party had tricked them, Mr. Hamlin said, and that the high cost of living, and increase of 60 per cent. in ten years was directly due to the tariff law which the Republicans had fastened on them. Senator Lodge tried to explain, and could not, Mr. Hamlin declared.

"But he ordered, not persuaded, them to vote the Republican ticket, using the words of command and the party whip, and the people would not stand for it. The Democratic victory was the result."

Other speakers were Congressmen Moss of Missouri and Hitchcock of Nebraska. Judge Warren W. Foster presided.

Neither Richard Croker nor Charles F. Murphy was present, though about 300 other Democrats were. Mr. Murphy was out of the city, it was explained, and Mr. Croker will not arrive from Florida, where he has spent the Winter, until to-day. He comes for the annual election of officers of the club on Monday, and will sail for Europe on April 20.

SCHOOL GAIETIES CAUSE STIR.

Auburn Investigates the Garden of Eden Club and Its Behavior.

AUBURN, April 13.—A prominent citizen recently decided to call unannounced at the clubroom of a girls' high school fraternity known as the Garden of Eden Club, where he found the girls smoking cigarettes. An investigation followed that disclosed scandalous conduct of high school students of both sexes, growing out of the flourishing fraternities.

A group from a boys' fraternity was seen rolling a keg of beer into their rooms. A monologue artist in a local theatre stopped in disgust to call the attention of the audience to the high school boys and girls holding hands.

Gambling at poker and pool tables and dances, at which chaperons were lost, and stiff punch served, were part of the bill of particulars which held the church federation of 1,000 men voters to demand of the Board of Education that the one session a day in the high school be abolished with the fraternities and that two sessions, morning and afternoon, be introduced.

City Judge Drummond, for the federation, said at a special meeting of the Board of Education:

"It is amazing that such a club as the Garden of Eden could exist. I believe if you called a meeting of parents and told them the plain facts the fraternity problem could be solved."

ROCHESTER CAMPAIGN LIVELY

Havens and Aldridge Continue Speechmaking—Colonization Is Denied.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, April 13.—The campaign in the Thirty-second Congressional District was not allowed to lag in interest to-day. James S. Havens, the Democratic candidate, addressed factory workers at noon meetings and spoke to-night to the farmers of Irondequoit at Forest House, where he dwelt particularly upon the moral issue and bossism. George W. Aldridge, the Republican candidate, continued his speechmaking tour of the wards of the city, addressing two large meetings to-night.

One of the developments of the day was an announcement by Dr. Rush Thees, President of the University of Rochester, that he would support the candidacy of James S. Havens.

To-day the Republican County Committee issued a statement in reply to the Democratic County Committee's charges of colonization, saying:

"Mr. Aldridge and the Republican organization have done everything in their power to obtain an honest registration, and will use every effort to have an honest election. It is the duty of the Democratic leaders, if they have in their possession facts which indicate illegal registration, to immediately swear out a warrant."

Mr. Havens's managers are preparing for a great rally in Convention Hall on Friday night, when Congressmen Eugene N. Foss and Charles S. Hamlin of Massachusetts will be the speakers. It was announced to-day that former Judge John D. Lynn will preside. Mr. Lynn was Mr. Havens's most formidable rival for the nomination, and it has been the cry of the Aldridge press that Lynn and the Bryan wing of the party, of which he is the leader, would not support Havens.

The Citizens' Party, which was organized in 1903 to secure better municipal Government and "to protest against the despotic methods of the Republican organization," came out with a strong statement to-day favoring the candidacy of James S. Havens. The leader of the party is James Johnson, former City Controller and candidate for Mayor.

LACKAWANNA RAISES PAY.

All Transportation Men Benefit—Central's Arbitration.

SCRANTON, Penn., April 13.—The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company this afternoon announced a 6 per cent. increase in wages to all its 6,500 employes in the transportation department on the entire system from Hoboken to Buffalo. The 1,500 switchmen are given an increase of 3 cents an hour, the increase taking effect the beginning of this month.

The trainmen, conductors, engineers, and firemen not included in the increase have presented wage demands that are now under advisement.

All chances of a strike of the New York Central trainmen and conductors disappeared yesterday with the receipt of a telegram from P. H. Morrissey, President of the Railway Employes' Investors' Association, the second of the two men selected by the Central officials and the representatives of the men, consenting to act. As the other arbitrator, E. E. Clark of the Inter-State Commerce Commission has agreed to act, the strike vote by the Central men has no effect, both sides having agreed to abide by the decision of the arbitrators.

Clark and Morrissey will come to this city early next week, and in the meantime representatives of the railroad and trainmen will prepare their arguments.

Representatives of the Erie trainmen and conductors stated that they would not ask for a conference with the railroad officials until the New York Central arbitration is over. The Erie men believed that the arbitration of the New York Central men's demands will make it easier for them to reach a settlement.

POTTER WEDS MRS. DEPEW.

Ceremony Delayed Until Captain's Decree of Divorce Was Signed.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., April 13.—After a delay of forty-eight hours, due to legal complications, Mrs. Grace Goodyear Depew and Capt. Ashton Potter were married at the bride's residence here tonight. The wedding was set for Monday night, but it was discovered that, through a delay in the California courts, the final decree of divorce permitting Capt. Potter to wed again, had not been signed. The decree was signed to-day.

Mrs. Potter, a daughter of Robert Goodyear of Buffalo, was formerly the wife of G. Anson Depew, nephew of Senator Depew of New York, from whom she was divorced in January, 1909.

Capt. Potter is a nephew of the late Bishop Potter, and on April 10, 1909, was divorced from his former wife, who was Miss Mary Louise McNutt of San Francisco.

ATTACKS JERSEY LEADERS.

Democratic Party in Traitors' Hands, Says Senator Gebhard.

Special to The New York Times.

BURLINGTON, N. J., April 13.—Repudiating the State leaders, yet fighting for control of the Democratic Party as "villianous traitors to their party and to the people, false leaders who are owned by and seek to control the Democratic Party for the same corporations that is running Republican affairs, and who will knife any honest candidate the Democrats of New Jersey may nominate," Senator W. C. Gebhhard, in a speech before 400 members and guests of the Burlington County Democratic Club at the Jeffersonian dinner here to-night, exploded the political sensation of the hour in this State.

Senator George S. Silzer, Gen. E. Burd Grubb, and other prominent speakers followed in rapid-fire attacks upon the leaders. So thinly veiled were inferences and references that the hearers looked upon th speeches as a direct effort to wrest the reins of th party from the Smith-Nugent ring's control.

Senator Gebhard declared that Democrats were certain of victory in New Jersey next Fall if a clean, honest man is named.

"We don't want another gumshoe candidate," he said. "We want a man who is not afraid to tell the people where he stands on great questions. We want a man wrom whose former political record the people can judge whether he will be honest to the public if elected. With the present State leaders we can't nominate a winning candidate. With these men the fact that a candidate is honest is an insurmountable barrier to their suport.

"I make the charge openly that the Democratic leader in my own county handled the Republican corruption funds against me in the last campaign. Furthermore, this same man came to me and tried to bribe me in the previous session to support legislation injurious to the people. My refusal to listen to him cost me the support of the State leaders he represented.

"If an honest man like Senator George Silzer is nominated for Governor these leaders will sink the knife into him because he is honest and a friend of the people.

"I make these charges in order to purify and save the Democratic Party in New Jersey. I shall stand ready to back them up at any time."

RIVAL DINNERS IN NEWARK.

But the Regular Democrats Whoop It Up for Harmony.

It was nearly midnight when the speech-making got under way at the gathering in Newark, N. J., of more than 1,500 Newark and Essex County Democrats at a dollar dinner in celebration of Jefferson Day and to open formally the Democratic campaign whichis to be waged in an effort to elect a Governod and Assemblymen and State Senators.

"Get together" and "party harmony" were the watchwords of the occasion, notwithstanding that in the Harrigan Association clubhouse in another section of the city there was a meeting of the Harrigan followers, who have fought the regular Democratic organization in Newark and Essex County for the last three years.

Tyler Parmley, Essex County Democratic Chairman, presided at the guest table at the jubilee of the "regulars." Near him were D Cady Herrick of New York, Mayor John K. Sague of Poughkeepsie, Surrogate Isaac Shoenthal of Orange, Mayor Jacob Haussling of Newark, State Senator Harry V. Osborne of Essex County, Col. E. Livingston Price, Dr. Charles F. Kraemer, State Democratic Chairman James R. Nugent, T. A. Adams, President of the First National Bank of New York and a resident of Montclair; Edward W. Townsend of Montclair, ex-Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach of Trenton, and Assemblyman Edward Kenny of Hudson County. The two latter are in tho limelight as Gubernatorial possibilities in the Fall, but last night there was a pronounced boom for the opening of a campaign for Katzenbach, who made a sharp run three years ago when he was beaten by Gov. Fort.

There was also a boom for Dr. Woodrow Wilson, President of Princeton University, for the nomination for United States Senator in 1911.

Mr. Herrick and Mr. Sague devoted themselves almost exclusively to red hot denunciation of Republican mismanagement of National affairs, and in New York and New Jersey, and spoke frequently of the recent Albany scandals. They declared that with the Democratic forces everywhere in a harmony the one certain thing on election day next November would be a Republican overthrow of unprecedented scope.

ROOSEVELT CERTAIN HONESTY WILL WIN

Talks with Mr. Phelan About San Francisco Politics—Invites Mr. Heney.

HE LEAVES PORTO MAURIZIO

Acclaimed All Along the Way to Venice—Elaborate Entertainment Programme in Vienna.

By JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.
Former Assistant Secretary of State.
Correspondent of The New York Times and Chicago Tribune.

Copyright, 1910, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

MILAN, April 13. — Col. Roosevelt's deep interest in the progress of moral reform in the United States was shown to-day. During the height of a spontaneous demonstration on the part of the entire population of Porto Maurizzio in connection with his departure for Venice, en route to Vienna, and while a mob of enthusiastic persons surged around the railroad station, Mr. Roosevelt sat in a room reserved for distinguished visitors discussing the corruption in San Francisco politics with ex-Mayor Phelan of that city.

I learned later from Mr. Phelan that Mr. Roosevelt expressed deep interest in the San Francisco situation, and that he especially regretted Francis J. Heney's defeat last Autumn, but, despite the result, he was not in the least discouraged by this blow at reform. He feels that the merciless attack upon wrong, as typified in Mr. Heney's work, must continue. There may be combinations or corporations which wish lawless wealth to escape the penalty for corruption; there may be lawless labor which wishes to escape the responsibility for violence—each of these can conquer at certain times, yet Mr. Roosevelt is sure that in the long run the honest man, whether wage earner or man of means, will have his innings in city, State, and Nation.

Mr. Roosevelt was also interested to know that the Southern Pacific Company is playing no part in trying to control politics in California. He felt strongly that in the interest of the community no big corporation should be permitted to control politics or take any part therein. Of course, this means that all citizens must see on their own initiative that no injustice is done to corporations.

ABOARD THE ROOSEVELT TRAIN ON THE WAY TO VENICE, April 13.—The country through which Col. Roosevelt and his son passed to-day, on the road from Porto Maurizio to Venice, was pleasing to the eye, and the journey, of itself delightful, was made doubly enjoyable by the welcome which the ex-President received at every stop.

At all the stations crowds collected to cheer, and little knots of Americans pressed forward to greet Col. Roosevelt and shake him by the hand.

Many of them reiterated the exclamation: "You must be our President again." To this the Colonel made no reply, but he had a pleasant word for all.

MILAN, April 13.—The American Consul here, Charles M. Caughy, met Mr. Roosevelt at Genoa and accompanied him to Milan, where the American colony and many residents of the city received him with enthusiastic acclamations.

PORTO MAURIZIO, April 13.—Mr. Roosevelt and Kermit Roosevelt left here at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon by train for Venice, where they are due to arrive at 2 o'clock to-morrow morning. They will remain there until 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when the journey to Vienna will be resumed. Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel Roosevelt will remain here.

The ex-President and his son traveled to-day in a special car, placed at their disposal by the Italian Government. The popular demonstration upon the departure of Mr. Roosevelt all but exceeded in impressiveness that which had marked his arrival. The Mayor had placarded the town with a proclamation thanking the distinguished American for his visit, and referring to him in the most complimentary terms. Throughout the streets flaming posters bore the message "Come back soon!"

An hour before the train started the Mayor, the Prefect of Police, and the City Fathers went to the Carow villa, and escorted Mr. Roosevelt's carriage to the railway station amid a veritable rain of flowers. At the station a battalion of infantry, headed by a band, was drawn up and stood at salute as Mr. Roosevelt stepped from the carriage, bade good-bye to those who had accompanied him, and entered the car. As the train pulled out Mr. Roosevelt stood on the car platform waving his hat, while the band played "The Star-Spangled Banner" and the crowd shouted "Long live Roosevelt!"

Prior to the departure of Mr. Roosevelt ex-Mayor Phelan of San Francisco had a long interview with him. Through Mr. Phelan Mr. Roosevelt extended an invitation to Francis J. Heney to visit him soon after he reaches the United States.

ROOSEVELT RECEPTION PLANS.

Luncheon, Parade, Reception, and Dinner Tentatively Arranged.

The Executive Committee of the Roosevelt Reception Committee, appointed by Mayor Gaynor, met yesterday afternoon in the board room in the Mutual Life Building and drew up tentative plans for an elaborate celebration. It was announced positively that the ex-President will arrive in this city on Saturday, June 18.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Chairman of the general committee, presided at the meeting. Many suggestions were received and tentatively adopted which show that the celebration will be much larger than was originally planned.

The ex-President will be met down the bay by the committee on a large steamer. He will be transferred from his ship to it and taken uptown to a luncheon. This probably will be followed by a large land parade similar to that of the Hudson-Fulton celebration, with a reviewing stand either at Forty-second Street and Fifth Avenue or at Madison Square. After the parade there will be a reception, and a dinner is being talked of for the evening.

"We intend to make the celebration as National as possible," Capt. Arthur F. Cosby, formerly of the Rough Riders, Secretary of the committee, said yesterday. "We have received requests from organizations of all kinds from all over the country for permission to join in the celebration and take part in the parade. We will get up some form of invitation in the near future to meet this demand.

"There will be Rough Riders, military, fraternal, patriotic, political, and social organizations, and every manner of society and club in line. People of the whole country are taking an interest in the arrangements."

BIG VIENNA PROGRAMME.

Mr. Roosevelt Will Be Kept Very Busy During His Two Days' Stay.

VIENNA, April 13.—Royal audiences, receptions, official visits, luncheons, banquets, and soirées will follow each other in unbroken succession during Mr. Roosevelt's forty-eight hours in the Austrian capital.

The ex-President will arrive here at 8 o'clock next Friday morning and will be met at the railway station by Herr von Müller, Principal Secretary of the Foreign Office, representing the Austrian Government; American Kerens and others of the American Embassy, and the civic authorities. The Court landau will be waiting, and in this the ex-President will be conveyed to the Hotel Kranz, where a suite of rooms for his occupancy has been newly decorated and furnished.

In the course of the morning Mr. Roosevelt will make a formal call upon Baron von Aehrenthal, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon he will be received in audience by Emperor Francis Joseph. From the palace Mr. Roosevelt will go to the Capuchin Church, where he will place wreaths upon the tombs of Empress Elizabeth and Crown Prince Rudolph.

The rest of the afternoon will be occupied with the reception at the American Embassy, a visit to the military riding school, and an inspection of the Hussars quartered in this city. The day will conclude with a dinner in honor of Mr. Roosevelt given by the officials of the Foreign Office.

On Saturday morning an early start will be made for an automobile excursion to Count Wilczek's castle, Kreuzenstein, one of the most famous eleventh century castles in Europe. There will be luncheon with Ahmbassador Kerens, who at the same time will entertain Foreign Minister von Achrenthal, Baron Hengelmuller von Hengervar, Austrian Ambassador at Washington, and the Baroness; Henry White, ex-American Ambassador to France; American Consul General Charles Denby, and the officials of the American Embassy.

The luncheon will be followed by a visit to the International Sporting Exhibition, where Mr. Roosevelt will be escorted by Prince Furstenberg, the President of the Exhibition Society. The Court dinner at the Schönbrunn Palace has been fixed for 6 o'clock that evening, and later Margrave von Pallavicini will give a grand soirée at his palace in Josefs-Platz, at which function Mr. Roosevelt will meet the most distinguished members of Vienna society.

INCOME TAX ISSUE EVADED.

Assembly Hastily Adjourns When Matter Is Reached on Calendar.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 13.—Confronted with the necessity of going on record as favoring or opposing the proposed amendment to the United States Constitution empowering the Federal Government to levy a tax without prior apportionment among the various States, on incomes "from whatever source derived," the legislative leaders sought and obtained a breathing spell by to-day forcing a hurried adjournment of the Assembly.

A concurrent resolution ratifying the resolution adopted by Congress, which authorizes the income tax levy, was on the third reading of the calendar in the lower house. The resolution was introduced by Assemblyman Andrew F. Murray of New York. It was the middle of the afternoon when the Murray resolution was reached. Mr. Muray and Daniel D. Frisbie, minority leader on the Assembly, had both prepared long speeches in support of the resolution. The eDmocrats favor the Federal income tax. Some Republicans do, too, and both Mr. Murray and Mr. Frisbie claim that they had votes enough to pass it, though both express doubt as to whether they will have them when the resolution is reached again. This probably will be some time next week.

Majority Leader Merritt and Assemblyman Jesse S. Phillips, both of whom are powerful members of the House machine, urged that the resolution go over until to-morrow. Col. Oliver really saved the day by moving an adjournment, which was carried.

In the Senate the income tax amendment has not yet been considered.

MISQUOTED, SAYS HUGHES.

Disclaims Words Attributed to Him in Speech to Correspondents.

ALBANY, April 13.—The following statement was issued to-day from the Executive Chamber:

"Gov. Hughes's attention was called to-day to newspaper publications purporting to give verbatim extracts of his speech before the Legislative Correspondents' Association last Thursday night. The versions published have been incomplete, inaccurate, and unauthorized. For instance this morning he finds the following words attributed to him: 'From Samuel J. Tilden to Frank W. Higgins the government has been disreputable and indecent.' Gov. Hughes did not use this language.

"The Governor would have had no objection to the publication of the speech as he made it if an accurate report of the whole speech were available, so that it could be received and understood by the public exactly as it was received and understood by those who heard it. But, relying upon the conditions, Gov. Hughes omitted the usual precaution of having his speech taken by stenographers, and a complete and accurate reproduction is now impossible. The Governor therefore regrets that attempts should be made to quote from his speech as though it had been so taken, and disclaims the alleged verbatim extracts which have appeared."

ARE YOU Going Deaf?

I have made a discovery in the treatment of head noises and deafness that does away with the necessity of passing instruments through the nostrils into the ear tubes. Experience has shown me that the passage of the instruments into the ear tubes is painful, and that the improvement to the hearing resulting from such measures lasts but a short time. The soreness caused by the passage of such instruments usually further increases the swelling and adds to the deafness.

How important my method of treatment is will be shown in the case of Mr. Brown.

When Mr. Brown first consulted me he said: "My hearing has been bad since the Battle of Gettysburg in 1863. Several years after the battle I began to notice noises in my ears. The sounds in my right ear were like the tapping of a bell, and the noise in my left ear was like bees buzzing. My hearing got so bad that people had to speak very loud to me, and I would have to ask them two or three times over to find out what they were saying. You can judge how deaf I was when I tell you that in order to hear my little alarm clock to tell whether it was running I had to press it right up close to my ear."

Mr. Brown was placed under my method of treatment, and reports that his hearing has so far improved that he can now hear his alarm clock tick, which is in the kitchen, while lying in bed, a distance of thirty feet. The noises which constantly troubled him are gradually disappearing. He says that he hears better now than he has since the Battle of Gettysburg. Mr. Brown is 65 years of age, and he resides at No. 140 West Forty-ninth Street, New York City. The case of Mr. Brown is cited as showing what my method of treatment will often accomplish in cases of deafness of long standing, and in persons advanced in years.

This is who I am and what I have done: I graduated in medicine in New York in 1879. I was the prize winner of my class. I won in competitive examination the position of Physician to Bellevue Hospital, where I served in 1879 and 1880.

I have made a specialty of diseases of the nose, throat, and ear for thirty years. I decided the best way I could tell the people who I was and what I had done was to advertise in the daily papers.

The following interview with Professor Loomis will explain what he thought of me:

(N. Y. World, Sept. 2, 1894.)

"Prof. Loomis, of the University of New York, the great specialist, said, in alluding to medical men who advertise: 'Dr. McCoy, for instance, is an able man, well educated, a thorough scientist and a first-class physician. He is a graduate of Bellevue Hospital. He advertises, does an immense business and is doing much good.'"

If you think my training and experience should make me a good ear doctor, I should be pleased to have you visit my offices. It will cost you nothing for an examination and advice. If your ears have been so neglected that treatment will not restore your hearing, I have the best instrument ever invented to make deaf people hear. It is called the Baker Microphone. I will be pleased to give you an opportunity to test this little device free.

BROAD CHURCHMEN WIN.

Elect Candidates to the General Convention—Bishop Lawrence's Address.

BOSTON, April 13.—The broad, or liberal, church element elected most of its candidates for deputies to the triennial general convention, to be held at Cincinnati in October, at to-day's session of the one hundred and twenty-fifth annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts.

Balloting for provisional deputies to the general convention will take place to-morrow. Last year's standing committee or Governing Board of the diocese was re-elected without opposition.

The high cost of living became a topic of discussion when a committee on salaries of the clergy submitted a report in which the opinion was expressed that these salaries were often far from being commensurate with the increased cost of living. The convention recommended that the parishes take up the question of clerical salaries

In his annual address the Right Rev. William Lawrence, Bishop of Massachusetts, said he did not see his way clear to give official sanction to the reservation of the consecrated elements in the holy communion for the sick. He thought that in reservation there was danger of irreverence and superstition. The Bishop said that the juice of the grape was not wine and should not be used in the holy communion.

Bishop Lawrence stated that it was not necessary to receive the sacrament fasting. He announced that the fund for the erection of a cathedral in Boston amounted to slightly over $1,000,000, and there were prospects of further additions.

TELLS HOW WIFE WAS SLAIN.

Detective Gives Details of August Petersen's Alleged Confession to the Police.

In the trial of August Petersen for the murder of his wife, Detective Van Wagenen, who brought the man back from Mobile, Ala., told the jury yesterday the story of the murder as Petersen is said to have confessed it to the police.

On the night of Feb. 2 Petersen returned to his little flat at 178 West Ninety-fourth Street, to find a man making a hasty rear exit, while his wife sat on the edge of the bed laughing at him. She seemed to have been drinking. In a fit of anger he struck her twice with the lamplighter he was carrying, and stalked out of the room. He went back later to find his wife dead. He buried the body beneath the flooring, forcing it down below the boards, treading on it feverishly in terror over what he had done.

Judge Foster will sit all to-night, if necessary, to finish the case, in order that the court may be free for the trial of Albert Wolter on Monday.

PLATT INTERESTS HOLD ON.

Denied That Mrs. Harriman Seeks to Oust Them from Express Company.

Rumors that Mrs. Harriman, who as the owner of more than 20,000 shares of the stock of the United States Express Company, now holds the balance of power, had cast her lot with the Stockholders' Committee which has been fighting the Platt interests, were denied by attorneys for both the Hatt and Banister Committee and the Dudley interests yesterday. After the death of E. H. Harriman it developed that the stock previously held by the American and Wells Fargo Express Companies, which had been sold ostensibly to Frank H. Platt, a Director of the United States Express Company, had in reality been purchased by E. H. Harriman.

The Hatt and Banister Committee, which for three years had been fighting to oust the Platt management or to have an election called, controls an actual majority of the stock, but not the two-thirds necessary to force an election. The 20,000 shares owned by the Harriman estate are the key to the situation. In the absence of Mrs. Harriman's principal adviser, Judge Lovett, it is not expected that anything will be done toward pledging the Harriman shares in the contest for an election. The suit brought in Gloversville, asking the dissolution of the company or the transfer of its management to the majority shareholders, has not been decided yet, both sides having two weeks in which to submit briefs. The majority shareholders hope that the court will compel the present management, which has been self-perpetuating for a generation, to call an election. If this is not done, and if Mrs. Harriman votes her shares with the present management, the present Directorate will elect a successor to the late Thomas C. Platt.

HARTRIDGE MAY FACE A PERJURY CHARGE

Jury Disallows His $93,000 Thaw Fee and Judge Holt Holds Trial Records for Investigation.

DISBARMENT THREATENS

Court Thinks Some of the Lawyer's Disbursements Were Intended to Thwart Justice.

A jury of eleven men in the United States Circuit Court returned a verdict for the defendant yesterday in the suit instituted by Clifford W. Hartridge against Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw to recover $93,000 which the lawyer contended was the balance due him for counsel fees and disbursements in connection with the first trial of Harry K. Thaw for the murder of Stanford White. The twelfth juror disappeared some time after the trial began and the case continued for the last three weeks with only eleven men in the jury box.

Immediately on the announcement of the verdict, and when he had summarily denied a motion by Hartridge's counsel to set the verdict aside as against the weight of the evidence, Judge Holt, presiding, made the unusual move of ordering the record of the trial and the exhibits impounded for presentation to the District Attorney and the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association.

The reason of this order the court stated frankly to be the alternative of perjury during the trial of the case in stating some of the disbursements which Hartridge said he made, or else unprofessional conduct in making disbursements of such character as a part of the task of conducting the defense of a person accused of crime.

Following the severe arraignment which Judge Holt made of Hartridge in his charge to the jury, this further pronouncement created a deep impression in the Federal Building. The impression prevails that the matter will be pushed vigorously along the lines indicated by the court, particularly by reason of the fact that Abram S. Rose of the firm of Kellogg & Rose, counsel for Mrs. Thaw, was designated by Judge Holt a special officer of the United States Circuit Court to take the matter up with the District Attorney and the Bar Association.

The disbursements that made all the trouble were shown in items of his bill of particulars, which, as further elucidated by him on the witness stand, represented payments made to women of the Tenderloin and others of similar character, to keep them from telling to the prosecuting authorities stories detrimental to Harry Thaw's case. Hartridge's services in this connection figures up work for 180 nights in the Tenderloin, and he included in his bill charges for the services of his own stenographer to whom he paid $20 a week regularly, ranging from $12 to $20 a night for taking the evidence of these women and similar services.

The case went to the jury on Tuesday afternoon, and it returned its sealed verdict for the defendant yesterday morning. William R. Wilder, counsel for Hartridge, made the usual motion to dismiss the verdict which Judge Holt denied, after which the Judge continued:

"Before closing the trial I wish to refer to the subject of the charges made in the plaintiff's bill of particulars for money paid to various women. If some of the payments charged in the bill were not made, there are reasons why an investigation should be made to determine whether grounds for a prosecution for perjury exist in this case.

"If all the payments charged in this bill of particulars were made, there is ground for an investigation to determine whether the offense of obstructing the course of justice has been committed.

"In any case, the facts developed on this trial call for a thorough investigation to determine whether the plaintiff has been guilty of professional misconduct calling for action by the court which admitted him to practice law.

"I therefore direct that the papers and exhibits in this case be impounded and left with the clerk and that they be submitted to the District Attorney for consideration whether a prosecution for any criminal offense should be brought, and to the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association for consideration whether any proceedings for professional misconduct should be brought, and I appoint Mr. Rose an officer of this court to do whatever is necessary to carry these directions into effect."

Neither Mrs. Thaw nor her son Harry, who has been in attendance at the trial, was in court when the verdict was rendered. Hartridge sat through it impassively and shortly after the court adjourned for the day he gave out to the newspapers a long statement in the course of which he said:

"When I first went into this case I was as much or more interested in Thaw in a friendly way than as his attorney. The first thing he asked me to do was to protect him along certain lines, which, up to that time, I had known nothing about. I continued all through the case trying to guard and protect him on those lines.

"A few weeks after the shooting his mother sent for me. I subsequently represented her, and I felt, knowing all I then did, an additional sympathy for her and a feeling that she should be spared as much as possible of the stories about her son.

"I was constantly urged by Thaw and subsequently by Mrs. William Thaw to protect the whole family, as the evidence in Mrs. Thaw's letters shows distinctly that she knew I was doing this and that I was expending large sums of money in so doing, for which there could be no vouchers and for which I could not be asked to render an account."

Hartridge went on to explain that he had rendered detailed statements of his expenditures at the end of 1906 and later on, about the close of the first trial, which statements, he said, were accepted without question. He continued:

"Had I a brother or near relative that I was working for I could not have put more brain or heart into the matter. If I did any work that technically is usually done by detectives or other employes it was because I found that the work could not be done in this case by any one but myself.

"If I have erred in any way with these people, it was that I thought of nothing from the time I went into the case until the disagreement of the jury after the first trial, but their interests. They are now doing to me what, in one way or another they have done with all the lawyers and doctors that they have had anything to do with."

District Attorney Whitman said yesterday afternoon that he had received a communication from Judge Holt regarding the Hartridge case, and that he turned it over to Assistant District Attorney McCormick, who will confer with United States Attorney Wise and Abram J. Rose

SAYS HE'S BEEN KICKED OUT.

Hein Sues His Father-in-Law Partner as Sequel to Divorce Action.

Isa Willard Hein, whose wife, Edna Valentine Hein, won her divorce action against him in the Supreme Court last week, has begun suit against his father-in-law, Washington Valentine, for an accounting of the firm of Valentine Brothers, of which Hein contends he is a partner. He alleges that Valentine said to him:

"Unless you let Edna get her divorce without trouble I'll kick you out of the firm."

This, Hein alleges, has been done. Supreme Court Justice Blanchard reserved decision yesterday on Hein's application for a receiver and an accounting.

ASKS HOUSE INQUIRY INTO INFECTED MILK

Resolution Calls for Investigation of Spread of Tuberculosis and Typhoid by This Means.

COLD STORAGE INQUIRY, TOO

Senate Faces Action on Heyburn's Resolution to Investigate Amount of Food So Stored and Its Quality.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—A resolution containing a number of startling statements concerning the spread of tuberculosis and typhoid because of germ-infected milk, cream, and butter has been offered in the House by Representative Herbert Parsons of New York. The resolution asks for an immediate investigation by the House Committee on Agriculture of the spread of these diseases, and directs that this committee shall recommend to the House legislation necessary to combat the diseases, especially in so far as they may be laid at the door of inter-State shipments of dairy products.

The preamble to the resolution recites that the Department of Agriculture has recently ascertained that the tuberculosis bacilli may thrive in butter for a period of sixty days and that the germs may live practically the same length of time in milk.

"It appears," says the preamble, "that the alarming prevalence of tuberculosis in the human family in all parts of the United States and in the District of Columbia and the prevalence of typhoid and other diseases which endanger the public health, are due to a considerable extent to the consumption of milk and cream obtained from diseased cows and to the consumption of butter produced from milk and cream which contains tuberculosis and typhoid bacilli.

"More than one sample out of every twenty of commercial or market milk from various dairies supplying milk to the City of Washington were found to be infected with tuberculosis bacilli."

It is stated that the investigation of the Bureau of Animal Industry has shown that of a large proportion of herds supplying milk to Washington about 17 per cent. are infected with tuberculosis.

$23,000,000 a Year Loss.

"The bureau estimates the annual loss from white plague among dairy cattle at $23,000,000," continues the Parsons resolution. "To overcome the great losses before mentioned, is worth considerable trouble and expense. The benefits to be derived from the eradication of tuberculosis from farm animals are so great and so obvious that the necessary expenditures, even though they must be heavy, may be regarded as a highly profitable investment."

The bureau report says:

> Milk is so often infected with tubercle bacilli that, unless we know it to be derived from cows that are certainly free from tuberculosis, it is not safe to use it in a raw state. Tubercle bacilli in milk are transferred to cream, butter, and cheese made from it, and may occur in these products in greater concentration than in the milk from which they are derived.
>
> The vitality of the typhoid bacilli has been investigated both in butter and in milk. On the 151st day after the manufacture of butter from milk infected with typhoid germs living colonies of these bacilli developed on plates that were made from the butter, proving that these bacilli retain their vitality and are ready to multiply whenever opportunity presents for 151 days.

The Committee on Agriculture, if the resolution is approved, will start an investigation of the entire subject and recommend legislation to the House to stamp the prevalence of the diseases which are admittedly causing thousands of deaths annually.

Another investigation bearing on the question of health and pure food will be begun by the Senate if a resolution reported from the Committee on Manufactures by Senator Heyburn this afternoon is passed. Last week, it will be recalled, Mr. Lodge for the Select Committee on the Cost of Living reported in favor of a bill prohibiting the inter-State shipment of food that had been in cold storage over a certain length of time.

Senate Hearings on Cold Storage.

The bill was referred to Mr. Heyburn's committee, with the result that he brought in a resolution to-day authorizing the committee to sit during the sessions of the Senate and have hearings to ascertain the quantity of meat, eggs, and other food held in cold storage and to discover what harm, if any, results from keeping food in cold storage. As the resolution called for the expenditure of money, it was referred to the Committee on Audit and Control.

Senator Lodge presented a statement by Dr. H. W. Wiley, Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, which said:

"There is no excuse for detaining any article of food in cold storage for a period longer than nine months. Whenever the storage of a product is continued long enough to interfere with the output of next season's crop, it has been carried to a point beyond the limits of reasonable economy and practical hygiene."

Dr. Wiley adds that it is perfectly legitimate to carry over the supplus of times of great production of food to times when the production is diminshed, or has ceased altogether, so long as there is no appreciable deterioration. He says that the storage of strictly seasonal products should be prohibited by law, and that even canned goods, which are a benefit to the people, should not be carried over longer than the ending of one season and the beginning of the next.

Dr. Wiley named a number of articles that were benefited by storage, and gave a long list of tables showing the effect of storage upon other products.

SWEEPING PENSION BILL.

Provides Pay for All Surviving Volunteer Officers and Many Enlisted Men.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—A pension bill of sweeping provisions under which all surviving volunteer officers of the United States Army who served six months or more would receive retired pay according to length of service, and all honorably discharged enlisted men over seventy years of age and suffering a certain degree of disability would receive a straight pension of $30 a month, was reported to the House to-day by Representative Prince of Illinois, from the Committee on Military Affairs.

In recommending the measure the committee's report says that although the volunteer troops "formed 96 per cent. of the armies of the United States and achieved 96 per cent. of the historic results," the regular officers have received all the honors and rewards of the Government and the volunteer officers nothing.

The scale of retired pay for volunteer officers, as fixed by the bill, is one-third of the initial active pay of corresponding regular officers, for those who served two years or more, while for those of less time of service the pay is in proportion. Officers who lost an eye or limb in the line of duty or incurred disability as prisoners of war would receive the full benefits of the act without regard to length of service.

No officer who served more than six months would receive less than $400 per annum, and no officer might receive more than two-thirds of the present pay of a Captain of the regular army. A private soldier over seventy years of age would get the $30 per month provided he served more than ninety days and his physical disability than niety days and his physical is such as to "require the frequent and periodical care and attention of another person."

The report of the committees includes an estimate from the Secretary of the Interior, which fixes the cost of the first year's operation of the proposed law at $9,264,012.

DIDN'T LIKE THE FOOD SERVED AT BELLEVUE

House Surgeon McGrath and Dr. L. H. Rogers Suspended for Talking to Reporters About It.

STAFF THREATENS TO QUIT

Generally Admitted That, to Put It Mildly, the Fare Is Not as Good as It Ought to Be.

The authorities in charge of Bellevue Hospital were alarmed for a while yesterday afternoon following a report that a majority of the sixty physicians, comprising the medical staff of the hospital, were seriously considering tendering their resignations as a result of the suspension of Dr. J. F. McGrath, house surgeon, and Dr. L. H. Rogers, the senior surgeon of the gynaecological ward, by Dr. W. H. Smith, the new Superintendent of Bellevue. The suspension of Drs. McGrath and Rogers followed their admission to Dr. Smith that they were in part responsible for certain stories printed a few weeks ago, stating that the food served to the medical staff was of an inferior quality.

Both Dr. McGrath and Dr. Rogers are popular with the other members of the staff, and it was said that the staff generally agreed with what they had said about the food. Most of the other physicians also did not consider that the two doctors were guilty of any impropriety when they made their complaint public through the newspapers instead of going to Dr. Smith first about it.

The stories in which the food served at the table of the medical staff was so severely criticised were published about two weeks ago. Dr. Smith said last night that the first he knew about the complaints was when he read them in the newspapers. He added that he considered the giving out of the stories a grave violation of the rules, and he had determined to find out who was responsible for their publication. No names were mentioned in the stories.

For the last two weeks Dr. Smith has been quietly investigating. Failing to find out what he wanted to know from the reporters he decided to go straight to the doctors themselves. Yesterday he had Drs. McGrath and Rogers before him and put the matter up to them. The young physicians promptly admitted that they were partly responsible for the stories, and Dr. Smith immediately suspended them pending action by the Board of Trustees.

Some members of the medical staff, it was said afterward, were indignant at the outcome, and did not hesitate to express their disapproval of Dr. Smith's course. Then it was that the report that the sixty young doctors in Bellevue were considering resigning in a body. There were 1,008 patients in Bellevue yesterday, and had these young doctors walked out this great number of ill and afflicted people would have been left without medical attention at least for a while.

Dr. Smith talked freely last night of what had happened. He admitted that he had heard the rumors about the doctors being on the verge of resigning, but he was certain that no such action would be taken.

"McGrath and Rogers," said Dr. Smith, "were suspended because they had violated a rule of the hospital which they agreed to abide by when the entered Bellevue. This rule is that Bellevue physicians must not talk with interviewers or others on matters pertaining to the management of the hospital."

It was said by a physician, not an interne, connected with Bellevue, last night, that any doctor who was dissatisfied with his berth in Bellevue was at liberty to resign whenever he saw fit. If the entire sixty went out, this doctor added, their places would be quickly filled and the work of Bellevue would go right on as if nothing had happened.

None of the internes would talk of the matter last night. The impression was that even those who had most seriously considered the advisability of resigning had cooled down and that the McGrath-Rogers incident, so far as the doctors were concerned, was to all purposes at an end. This same doctor said it was known that other Bellevue doctors besides McGrath and Rogers had talked about the food. If they are identified they, too, will be suspended.

SHIP SUBSIDY DEFENSE.

Penton Tells Investigating Committee Taft and Roosevelt Spoke for It.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Referring to the Grand Jury presentment against him for libel as a comic opera indictment, and declaring that the Merchant Marine League of the United States had never spent five cents on any one in Washington for any purpose, and that its record was extraordinarily clean, John A. Penton of Cleveland, Ohio, Secretary of the League, was to-day's star witness at the ship subsidy investigation. He was called sharply to account by counsel for Representative Steenerson (who accused him of libel,) for speaking disrespectively of the processes of the law, and the remark was withdrawn.

Mr. Penton told the committee that the list of those who had made speeches, at the instance of the League, for it or to it, included President Taft, ex-President Roosevelt, ex-Vice President Fairbanks, Speaker Cannon, ex-Gov. Herrick of Ohio, ex-Senator Foraker, and a host of others. The committee adjourned until Monday, when Penton and John M. Maxwell, former editor of the American Flag, the league's organ, will be ready to take the witness stand.

"I have never endeavored to become acquainted with members of Congress for the purpose of attempting to influence them," said Mr. Penton, "never attempted to go to their houses; never had any communication with any shipbuilding company, or officers of any organization operating ships, that had any legislation that might be benefited by this legislation. Yet I do not know why I should not have done so. During the consideration of the tariff bill in Congress everybody interested in anything from tin whistles to baby carriages, were in Washington daily seeking concessions."

Mr. Penton said he wrote the article in the American Flag, which figures so conspicuously in the libel proceedings brought against him by Steenerson and in the Congressional investigation, and that it was an answer to Steenerson's letter calling the League an organization of persons who expected to get big contracts under the proposed legislation. Penton said he stood by his answer.

The Penton reply, as published in the league's organ Dec. 1 last, gives to Steenerson "some of the honor and credit of our present humiliating naval position," says Steenerson was either uninformed or malicious and "guilty of deliberate and malicious falsification," and called him an enemy to his country, along with other sharp characterizations.

A bequest of $50,000 in cash was made to his daughter, Mrs. Emily Morris Gallatin, and the remainder to his widow, Mrs. Annie L. Morris.

COMMISSION REBUKES LONG ISLAND ROAD

Laxity Found in Investigations of People Killed While Walking Along the Tracks.

VICTIMS LEGALLY INTRUDERS

But Service Board Thinks Indifference on the Part of the Railroad Is Not Becoming.

The Public Service Commission sent a letter yesterday to President Ralph Peters of the Long Island Railroad censuring it for its laxity in investigating the killing of persons walking along its tracks. The letter is the result of an investigation which Commissioner Bassett made into nine killings on the Long Island Railroad tracks near New York, for which the road could offer no explanation. The employes called as witnesses developed a lack of knowledge about all of these fatal accidents.

In a report to the commission Mr. Bassett points out that, while the victims were technically trespassers and left no recovery for their heirs against the company, such indifference as the Long Island Road had exhibited would undoubtedly injure the company's own interests and cause popular indignation. The Commissioner remarks that the officers of the company were found to be of the impression that the City Magistrates would not hold persons arrested for trespassing on the railroad's tracks, but that his inquiry had disclosed that no such arrests have been made in recent years, and this he thinks justifes his opinion that if the railroad would make an earnest effort to have the law enforced the Magistrates would co-operate.

The letter sent to the railroad company declares that its failure to produce any explanation of the accidents "constitutes an especially serious reproach to the management of your company." The general problem involved in these Long Island Railroad deaths is one which has given the railroads much to think about. In the case of the Long Island the trespassers who became accident victims have been nearly all working people, who find the tracks of the company a convenient short cut from their homes to their places of employment. One or two victims were obviously tramps.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, which controls the Long Island Road, has been devoting much time to the railroad tramp nuisance, linked, as it is, to that of handling the workman trespasser, and on some parts of its system has undertaken a campaign of education to procure the assistance of local authorities in enforcing the anti-trespass section of the railroad law. But to the Long Island such efforts appear not to have extended. The evidence taken by Commissioner Bassett showed, not only that the law against trespassing was considered a dead letter, but that in not one of the nine cases of unexplained killings during December, January, and February was any report made to the officers of the road by the crew of the train that ran over the victim. More than this, any possible traces of the accident were removed from the engines before they were examined, for such examination of engines after the discovery of a body as was made failed to reveal the slightest evidence that a killing had occurred.

The Two Most Famous Piano Concerns— Steinway and Sons and The Aeolian Company— Pay Each Other the Highest Possible Tribute

Recently Steinway and Sons decided that the Pianola was the one piano player for their instrument.

This decision was made after long investigation—the most expert investigation—of the entire field of piano players.

Then followed the combination of the two instruments—the Steinway Piano and the Pianola—known today as the Steinway Pianola Piano. And sold exclusively by The Aeolian Company, makers and sole owners of the Pianola.

Steinway and Sons, in adopting the Pianola, paid their highest tribute to the makers of this pre-eminent piano player.

But an equally great tribute to the Steinway Piano is shown in the responsive act of The Aeolian Company.

For never before has this company permitted the Pianola to be built into a piano not made in its own factories—the most extensive piano factories in the world—where quality pianos of all grades are made.

The Aeolian Company's Pianos

Among the pianos made by The Aeolian Company, are:—

THE WEBER—the choice of most of the famous pianists now living. An instrument of rare tonal quality, a piano of the first rank.

THE STECK—internationally famous for its high character—claiming patronage and preference among musicians the world over.

THE WHEELOCK—a moderate-priced piano, widely known in the musical world and accepted because of its splendid and enduring musical qualities.

THE STUYVESANT—lower-priced even than the Wheelock, the Stuyvesant is notably superior to those other pianos which sell at the same price.

THE CHILTON—an example of "quality at low cost." The Chilton gives the very utmost at the lowest price possible in a piano worthy the name.

Better values than are here represented could be offered by no other maker. And such terms of payment may be arranged as will give scope to any income, however modest.

Nowhere can a piano be purchased to greater advantage than of The Aeolian Company.

Concerning Pianolas and Pianola Pianos

Very frequently the name "Pianola" is applied to piano players generally. And Pianola Pianos are as often confused with the ordinary player pianos.

The facts are:

Pianolas are exclusively the product of The Aeolian Company. Always they've represented the greatest and latest achievements in their world.

The Pianola is attachable to any piano. When hand playing is desired, it is only necessary to remove it from the keyboard.

The Pianola Piano is a specially constructed upright piano with the Pianola built into it. The advantage of this is greater convenience, and economy of space.

No other piano player so readily lends itself to the individuality of the operator. Due principally to those wonderfully human-like Pianola features, the Metrostyle and Themodist.

The Metrostyle is a device, exclusive with the Pianola, which permits the correct playing of any composition, by anyone.

It does more. It assures an artistic performance—often the composer's own interpretation. And its operation is simplicity itself.

Perhaps no greater invention than the Metrostyle will ever be given the world of music. Rivalling it only, in effect, is the Themodist—its companion device.

It is the Themodist that eliminates all possibilities of the Pianola being adjudged "mechanical."

Its work is to bring out the melody, subdue the accompaniment and accent the proper notes, individually or in groups.

Briefly, the Themodist provides governable touch—the one vital element that is lacking in the ordinary piano player.

Investigate and Be Sure

Whether your interest lies in pianos, or piano players, you should visit Aeolian Hall.

Visit others' show-rooms, too. Investigate thoroughly the merits of all pianos, and the other piano players.

It is likely that such investigation would be discouraged by some. But we urge it in our mutual interests.

We do not urge your decision, however, where our pianos or the Pianola is concerned.

In fact, so convincing are our demonstrations that no room is left for further sales arguments.

Moreover, you are at liberty to judge the merits of the Pianola solely by the results of your own performance with it, if you so desire. And suitable terms of payment are simple of arrangement.

KATZ NOT INVOLVED IN CLARK ASSAULT

District Attorney Admits He Was Wrong in Suspecting Him of Complicity in It.

WITNESS NOT BLACKJACKED

Tells of Getting a Fat Commission for His Part in Placing the Windsor Loan.

District Attorney Whitman admitted yesterday that he had been mistaken in charging Charles Katz with complicity in the assault upon Walter L. Clark, who turned State's evidence for the Windsor Trust cases, in which both men were indicted.

Clark was to have testified on Monday in the trial of Donald Persch when he appeared cut and bruised, telling a story of two thugs coming upon him in the darkness Saturday evening—an apparent fulfillment of the threat to put "something over the plate on Clark before Monday," which Assistant District Attorney Nott said he overheard Katz make on Friday afternoon. The case was adjourned for the day. Mr. Whitman gave out a sharp statement, and on Tuesday Katz was arrested.

"Although the coincidences in this case are somewhat startling, I have satisfied myself that this defendant was not connected with this assault," said Mr. Whitman in the Tombs Court yesterday. "I not only recommend but I ask the court on the motion of the District Attorney to discharge him, as I believe he is not guilty of the charge made against him, for which my office is responsible."

"It is a great blessing to the City of New York that we have a District Attorney so large that when he finds that an error has been made, on his own motion he asks for the defendant's discharge," said Lawyer Steuer for Mr. Katz, and so the case ended in pleasant speech.

Instead of having been blackjacked, it appears now that Clark simply received an old-fashioned thrashing. It was the sequel to a jollification in which Clark had made some unpleasant remarks to another man in the party of six. The father of one of the young men involved told Mr. Whitman yesterday that his son would testify before the Grand Jury in case the investigation is continued.

Clark was on the stand all yesterday in the trial of Persch for his share in the alleged plot which placed upon the market the Heinze copper stock that had been left with the Windsor Trust Company as collateral for a $50,000 loan. Final arrangements were made for the passage of the loan at the bank, which when Clark reported them were pronounced "fine and dandy" by Persch. The deal went through, Joyce geeting the money and Sherwood departing with the coveted stock and the collateral note.

"Joyce paid me $2,000 as my commission for placing the loan for him," said Clark with a reminiscent smile, and described how the first profits were divided. "I slipped Persch an extra $250 above what I gave to Katz."

"And what did Persch say to that?" asked Mr. Nott.

"He said, 'Poor Katz.'"

He then described how the proceeds of the whole transaction were divided so far as he was concerned.

"The very next day—that was Aug. 3—Persch gave me a check for $488, my third of the first 400 shares, and he told me that I would get about $10,000 more when Sherwood was 'through.' On Aug. 2 I received his check for $10,000 on the Carnegie Trust Company."

These checks were placed in evidence and Clark passed to the mercies of Lawyer McIntyre, who launched into the cross-examination.

Clark said that, having been separated from his wife, he was now living with a Mrs. McKenzie at 235 West 110th Street. He had also lived for one month with an actress named Sadie Weston, on whose complaint, he admitted, he had been indicted for stealing her jewelry.

"And for this testimony immunity has been promised to you on this indictment, too?"

"No promise," said Clark, "but I do hope for favor."

"And didn't you tell Sadie Weston that you would swear the thing on Katz, Persch, and Sherwood, helping to put them away, that you might go free!"

He was not allowed to answer. He then told of his shifting acreer as a curb broker, admitting that he did not know all about it, but that he was "keen enough to take care of himself on the Street."

"As a curb broker, out of your experience, didn't you know that when securities are pledged on a year's note they may be sold and rebought before its expiration?" asked Mr. McIntyre, sounding for the first time a note in his defense.

Clark was not allowed to answer. He then described again the preparation for the Windsor transaction. Mr. McIntyre was unsuccessful in his repeated efforts to get CSlark to admit that he had suggested it to Persch.

"And what did President Young of the Windsor Trust Company play?"

"I didn't know then and don't know now what part he played. I simply understood that Katz, Persch, and I were to get the money through Sherwood from Fields and lend it to Heinze or Joyce."

He admitted that at first his effort was to present Heinze an ostensible principal, but that the Windsor had refused to deal with him.

"Of course you preferred to do only what was legitimate, to keep your skirts clean," suggested Mr. McIntyre.

"Of course."

"And yet you went through with it?"

"I did," said Clark, "but I did not like the looks of it."

Clark will be on the stand the greater part of to-day.

LINERS RACE FROM JAMAICA.

Only Two Minutes' Difference in Passage of the Clyde and Bluecher.

The Royal Mail Steam Packet Clyde and the Hamburg-American liner Bluecher finished an exciting race from Kingston, Jamaica, to this port yesterday, passing Sandy Hook with only two minutes' difference in their time of passage. Each made it in days 22 hours and a few minutes, a record.

The American tourists on the Clyde had friends on the Bluecher, and when they met at dinner in the new Myrtle Bank Hotel, Kingston, on Friday night wagers were made that the German liner would beat the British ship. Capt. A. P. Dix said that more than $1,000 was wagered.

The Clyde sailed at 8 A. M., and her opponent left two hours later, and it was nip and tuck all the way. Passengers on both ships sent down bottles of beer to the firemen to encourage them to greater efforts. The first day the Clyde was thirty-two miles ahead, the next thirty-one, and the last day thirty-three miles, which was practically the start she had of the Bluecher leaving Kingston.

During the trip the wireless operators were kept busy sending messages between the vessels. For a few hours on Tuesday it looked as if the British steamship would run away from her rival, but the German liner redoubled her efforts.

The Clyde passed at 7:37 A. M. and the Bluecher at 9:35 A. M. Sanderson & Son, agents of the Royal Mail Line, sent a cable to Kingston giving the time of the liners passing the Hook to settle wagers made by Americans who stayed at the hotel.

END OF TONG WAR IN SIGHT.

Judge Foster Arranges Peace Conference Between Rival Societies.

It looked yesterday as though the end of the tong war in Chinatown was in sight. Terence J. McManus, counsel for the Four Brothers, or See Sing Tong, called on Judge Warren W. Foster of General Sessions and said the leaders of the tong were willing to attend a peace conference and would agree to sign any peace compact which would be acceptable to the On Leong Tong.

McManus said that Assistant United States District Attorney D. Frank Lloyd, who is counsel for the On Leong Tong, told him that the leaders of the tong wished to avoid any further killing, and were anxious for Judge Foster to preside over a peace conference. After his talk with McManus Judge Foster announced that a conference may be held on Monday or Tuesday next.

A few days ago when he first was asked by the lawyers for the tongs to arrange a peace conference as he did in 1905, Judge Foster was told that, while the On Leong leaders were anxious for such a conference, the Four Brothers' leaders would not sign a peace compact until they had avenged the death of two members, who were killed by On Leong men on Sunday in Chinatown.

Sam Lock, head of the Four Brothers, went with McManus to Judge Foster's chambers yesterday and assured the Judge that his tong men would abide by any agreement which may be reached.

EPICTETUS AND RAT CATCHING

Discussed by the Mayor with a Specialist in Both.

Charles M. Frey, the classical rat catcher, who wrote to the Mayor recently about being kept away from his business to do jury duty, called on Mayor Gaynor yesterday and had another talk with him. The Mayor said afterward that they discussed literature, philosophy, and the most approved methods of catching rats.

Mr. Frey asked the Mayor why Plutarch had made no mention in his writings of Epictetus, they being contemporaries, and the Mayor reminded the rat-catcher that the great teacher had written nothing, his words having been set down by one of his disciples long after his death. The Mayor promised to send Frey a copy of a recent edition of Petrarch's letters to Cicero, which he had read only a few days ago.

Before Frey departed the two discussed the jury duty controversy and the rat-catcher told the Mayor that he believed he would have had no trouble in being excused if the Judge "had not been such a dude."

"Why, when the little Judge walked down the corridor of the Court House he looked just like a dude, his clothes were cut so fine," said the victim, "and one day he had to adjourn court because he had a toothache."

Miss Hurry Is to Become Mrs. Swift.

A marriage license was issued at the City Clerk's office yesterday to Miss Elizabeth Maria Hurry of 242 Lexington Avenue and Lawrence Swift, a broker, of 40 East Thirtieth Street. The bridegroom is the son of William J. Swift and the bride's father is Randolph Hurry of the law firm of Hurry & Dutton of 76 William Street, which used to be Hurry & Gallup. The wedding will take place on April 21.

ATTACK INCOME TAX IN THE LEGISLATURE

Leading Lawyers of New York Submit Memoranda Controverting Senator Root's Opinion.

FEAR AN ABUSE OF POWER

Messrs. Choate, Guthrie, Milburn, Morawitz, and Fox Unite in the Argument—Stetson Files a Paper.

A memorandum prepared by prominent New York lawyers in opposition to the proposed income tax amendment to the Constitution of the United States has just been submitted to the State Legislature. The lawyers take issue with Senator Root, who advocates the income tax, and reply to some of his contentions made in a recent rejoinder to Gov. Hughes, who opposes the amendment.

Those who have submitted the memorandum are Joseph H. Choate, William D. Guthrie, Victor Morawitz, Austen G. Fox, John G. Milburn, and Francis Lynde Stetson. Mr. Stetson has submitted a separate memorandum in which he concurs with the other lawyers in some of their objections to the proposed amendment, but says he would not oppose an income tax amendment provided it were put in proper form.

Mr. Choate and his associates contend not only that the proposed taxing power of the National Government would give it permission to levy a tax on State and municipal securities, but that such an amendment would remove the protection against a possible abuse of the taxing power contained in the rule of apportionment which was added to the Constitution by the Constitutional Convention. They say that while certain Senators and economists contend that the clause in the proposed amendment referring to the tax levy "from whatever source derived" may safely be disregarded and treated as wholly negligible and meaningless, and that it would be the duty of the courts to construe and apply the amendment as if this particular clause had not been inserted, that such a contention is in direct conflict with one of the fundamental and best settled rules of constitutional construction. They quote from a decision of the Supreme Court written by Chief Justice Marshall which says that no clause in the Constitution was intended to be without effect, and from another to the same effect by Chief Justice Taney, and add:

"In the light of those canons of construction, which have never been questioned in any case, we are of the opinion that it is extremely unlikely that the Supreme Court of the United States would hold that the clause 'from whatever source derived' was meaningless and ineffective, that the words were not employed in their natural sense, that the Congress and the people did not intend what they said, or that the amendment did not confer power to tax incomes derived from State and municipal bonds or the salaries of State officials. It is certainly difficult to perceive how the courts could logically reach the conclusion that incomes from State bonds and the salaries of State officials would not be taxable under the proposed amendment, except by holding that such incomes were not derived from any source."

Continuing, the authors of the memorandum say that the Sixteenth Amendment was proposed as part of a programme to procure the passage of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law. Referring to the proportion New York would pay in the event of such a tax being levied as proposed instead of by apportionment, Mr. Choate and his fellow-drafters of the memorandum say that should the old checks be done away with ten or twelve States would be made to bear nine-tenths of the expense of the Government and that the cost of improvements, waste, and extravagance by Congress is sure to follow.

"We should be blind indeed if we did not appreciate the reality of the danger when we see the total expenditures of the National Government exceeding $1,000,000,000 a year," say the lawyers, "when we are told candidly by well-informed members of the United States Senate that at least $300,000,000 is wasted annually in extravagant administration, and when we hear the clamor for hundreds of millions more to be spent in irrigation, conservation, National highways, canals, and the innumerable schemes and fads which tempt and delude some sections of the country into the belief that local values can be enormously increased for the benefit, mostly of speculators, at the expense of the National Government."

By exempting incomes, possibly under $100,000, the lawyers go on to say that a comparatively few wealthy men, constituting everywhere the minority, could be obliged to bear the whole burden of taxation. They argue that if a direct tax were now levied and duly apportioned among the States according to population, as required by the Constitution, the smaller and poorer States would pay comparatively little and the more populous and richer States would pay what would seem to be their full share of the taxation by the National Government.

It is also pointed out that if New York State wished to levy an income tax after the adoption of the proposed amendment it would be practically impossible, owing to the fact that a Federal tax would take precedence.

In his separate memorandum Mr. Stetson says that he concurs with his associates in all they have to say regarding the construction of the clause "from whatever source derived," and adds:

"The obligations and responsibilities of each State within its own jurisdiction are such that the public official representative of the State of New York, sworn to maintain the Constitution of the State equally with that of the United States, may well follow the Chief Executive of the State in declining to support a proposition to expose the State to serious peril of the resources necessary for the maintenance and due exercise of its sovereign rights."

CELLAS FIGHT EXTRADITION.

St. Louis Men Deny Connection with Jersey Grain and Stock Exchange.

Louis A. and Angelo Cella of St. Louis who were indicted in Washington for being interested in the Standard Grain and Stock Exchange of Jersey City, denied vigorously yesterday, when they came before United States Commissioner Shields for examination, that they had any connection with that institution. The hearing was upon an application for extradition to Washington.

A lot of technical objections were made by Howard Taylor, counsel for the Cellas, but they were overruled, and finally Detective Lieut. McConville of Police Headquarters, who procured much of the evidence on which the Washington indictments were found, was called to the stand. McConville, however, could not make the identification necessary, but Clement M. Delaney, a former employe of the Standard Grain and Stock Exchange, did.

Delaney said he had seen Angelo often since October, 1909, when he, Delaney, went to work for the Grain and Stock Exchange, and that almost every day until January of this year Cella was at the office between 11 o'clock in the morning and 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Neither Delaney nor Thomas Hayes of Rochester, a former correspondent of the Standard Grain and Stock Exchange, could identify Louis Cella, although Hayes added his identification to that of Delaney of Angelo.

The Government rested yesterday and an adjournment was taken until to-morrow afternoon, when the defense will put in its case.

Try Again to Sell Yerkes Mansion.

Charles C. Burlingham, receiver of the Yerkes estate, who tried unsuccessfully to get a bid of $1,400,000 for the Fifth Avenue mansion of the late traction man, asked Judge Ward, in the United States Circuit Court, yesterday, what he should do. Judge Ward instructed the receiver to offer the mansion for sale again without any upset price, and named the Union Trust Company as an additional repository for any funds received from the sale of the house or its contents.

PRISON IN FLAMES; SIX FIREMEN DIE

Gasoline Explosion Cuts Them Off While Fighting New Haven County Jail Fire.

FIVE OTHERS BADLY HURT

288 Prisoners March Out in Perfect Order and Are Taken to Police Stations—Militia Called Out.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 13.—Trapped by metal doors and barred windows six firemen who were fighting flames in a workshop were caught by a back draft and burned to death during the partial destruction of the New Haven County Jail to-day. Three of their comrades were saved through the heroism of other firemen who were outside. The bodies of the six men were found late to-day after the débris cooled. Many other firemen were fearfully burned, but remained at work.

The dead are:

CAPT. C. L. CHAPMAN.
LIEUT. WILLIAM J. DOHERTY.
JOHN BUCKLEY, ladderman.
JAMES T. CULLEN, hoseman.
JAMES MORTELL, No. 4 Engine Company.
THOMAS J. McGRATH, No. 4 Engine Company.

The following are seriously injured:

A. E. WILCOX, ladderman.
THOMAS J. VAUGH, hoseman.
JOHN E. HUSSEY, hoseman.
CAPT. CHARLES H. O'NEILL.
CORNELIUS SHUGRUE, ladderman.

Six of the men were fighting their way through the cellroom of the jail into the workshop, when an explosion of a gasoline tank caused the back draft, and slammed behind them the iron doors separating the two buildings. Three of the men were hemmed in a corner and burned to death, while the other three made their way to a barred window, to which they clung, with streams of water playing on them from the outside. Soon after they reached the window the roof fell in. Ladders were reared and the men taken out. The remaining dead firemen were caught by the same back draft as they were working at the other end of the building, and were carried down by the roof when it fell.

Shugrue, who was found lying at the foot of the wall of the workshop, told how Doherty, Cullen, and Mortell met their death. When they found themselves hemmed in by the closing of the doors they made for the cellar in search of air. With the flames already catching their clothing, they searched the cellar for a place to escape, but found none.

"It's up to the roof, boys," said one of the men, and the four crawled upstairs again. By this time the building was a mass of flames. Shugrue was the first to reach the roof, and, holding his head in his coat, reached down to Lieut. Doherty to pull him up. He held the Lieutenant's wrist, but the others, exhausted by their efforts to reach the upper stories, were unable to help. Shugrue held on as long as he could and then let go. Doherty dropped into the flames. The other two he could not see. Shugrue crawled to the edge of the roof and jumped, landing at the foot of the building, where he was found two hours later. Vaugh, who was caught in the building, was rescued by James Cronogue. The latter crawled into the building, and putting his helmet over Vaugh's face, pulled him out.

The fire was discovered by a prisoner, and the 175 men in the workshop were sent to their cells. When it was seen that there was danger of the fire spreading to the main building the 246 male and 42 female inmates were marshaled on the lawn in perfect order, and then taken to the police stations and the Foot Guard Armory. By authority of Gov. Weeks three companies of the Second Regiment, Connecticut National Guard, were sent to the fire, and took charge of the jail grounds and patrolled the surrounding streets. At no time was there any excitement, many of the prisoners not knowing the extent of the fire until they saw the flames from the outside. Yale University men deserted their classrooms to watch the fire.

Late to-day the firemen's bodies were found among the twisted girders and charred beams. To-night the prisoners, under military escort, were returned to the jail.

The buildings destroyed were two three-story brick workshops and several adjoining sheds and two dwelling houses on Hudson Street.

The fire is thought to have been caused by crossed electric light wires. The loss of the New England Chair Company, for which the prisoners do contract work, is estimated at $135,000, fully insured, and the loss on the buildings of the jail is $35,000, with full insurance.

The shops, which were conducted by the chair company, were old buildings made of wood, and ranging in height from one story to a main structure three stories high. One of the three-story L's extended to the northeast corner of the jail, and here it was that the explosion occurred which weakened a very heavy party wall. At the time of the explosion a mass of flames was roaring aloft fully 150 feet high, and the burning brands were scattered over a wide area.

ASTOR WANTS NEW HEARING.

Gets a Writ of Certiorari in Fight Over Damages to His Property.

William Waldorf Astor obtained yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum a writ of certiorari against William E. Stillings, George C. Norton, and Lewis A. Abrams, Commissioners to appraise the damages to his property bounded by River Avenue, Cromwell Avenue, 153d and 161st Streets. The application was based on the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution, Mr. Astor alleging that he is being deprived of his property without due process of law. The Commissioners twice have denied his application for damages.

In 1893 the Department of Parks changed the grade of River Avenue so that the road along the Astor property was several feet above his tract. In 1905, when the cost of the change of grade was assessed, Astor put in no claim, but later a special act of the Legislature was passed which gave him the right to sue. He then put in a claim for $100,000 damages.

The Corporation Counsel moved to dismiss the claim on the ground that the statute was unconstitutional because it removed the city from the protection of the Statute of Limitations, also contending that the award, if any, would have to be paid out of the general fund, since the assessments against the benefited property had been settled.

The Commissioners threw out the claim and were sustained by the Supreme Court, but the Appellate Division canceled the report and ordered the Commissioners to rehear the case. The second hearing before the Commissioners was begun in 1908, and December last they again decided that Astor could not collect, even though Astor had reduced his claim to $40,500.

Wild's Orientals

One of the most distinctive of "Wild's Orientals" is the Kurdistan Mosul, made by Persian nomads. Our far Eastern experts seized the opportunity to purchase a large quantity of these desirable specimens of Oriental rug making, at a remarkably low figure.

So we announce for this week a special sale of these rugs at unusually low prices.

—from $12.50 to $25.00 each.

Ranging in width from 2 ft. 4 to 4 ft. 9, in length 5 ft. to 10 ft. 9.

The Mosul has the close, heavy weave, the silky texture which gives a feel of luxury—the rich blues, reds, yellowish browns and greens that harmonize with any scheme of decoration.

It is an uncommon opportunity to furnish your summer home.

FINDS CITY HELD UP NEAR A HARLEM SPAN

Mayor Says Rent for Bronx Approach to Madison Avenue Bridge Is a Gross Swindle.

TRAFFIC MAY BE STOPPED

Rental $21,500 a Year for Five Years on Land Worth $60,000—Gaynor Refuses to Vote for It.

It is possible that traffic over the temporary Madison Avenue bridge over the Harlem River, including the 135th Street crosstown cars, may be stopped for a while. Mayor Gaynor and President of the Board of Aldermen Mitchel made remarks yesterday about Bradley L. Eaton and E. L. Barnard, owners of the property now being used for one of the approaches to the temporary bridge, saying that the rental the city has been compelled to pay for it has been exorbitant. The Mayor refused to vote for a renewal of the lease at the old rental. The owners seem to have not the slightest idea of lowering it. Mayor Gaynor threatened condemnation proceedings.

The city is building a new Madison Avenue bridge over the Harlem River. It will not be ready until next year. When it was decided to build the new bridge the old structure was shifted southward along the Harlem River a few hundred feet, the shift throwing it out of connection with its old street approaches. The city then sought to rent private lands on both sides of the river that could be used for approaches to the temporary bridge.

On Nov. 25, 1905, the city leased from B. L. Eaton and E. L. Barnard, Directors of Church E. Gates & Co., lumber dealers, at Mott Avenue and 138th Street, a strip of land thirty feet wide, running from Mott Avenue to the temporary bridge, and through the middle of the lumber yard, for $21,500 a year. This approach takes in about six and one-half lots, and is estimated by the city to be worth about $60,000. Hence the property has already been twice bought in rents, according to the city's estimates.

The land rented for the approach on the Manhattan side of the river was not so great. It was got for a rental of $11,000.

City in a Tight Place.

At the meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission yesterday Bridge Commissioner Martin noted that the leases on the property covered by the two approaches would expire this May, that the new Madison Avenue Bridge could not be finished until next year, and though the rent money on the property was excessive, he thought the city had better pay it again. The property owners on the Manhattan side would not lease for less than a year, he said, and Mr. Eaton and Mr. Barnard, owners of the approach on the Bronx side, would not reduce the rent, though they hadn't refused to lease for six months.

Mr. Martin said he thought that about $8,500 would be a fair rental for the Eaton and Barnard property, but that the city, not being able to exercise any choice in the selection of the land, had paid it year by year, though under protest. A bridge on the north and south of the temporary structure prevented its being moved to any other location. Mr. Martin remarked that if the city did not arrange for the new leases pretty soon the owners of the property might claim a full year' rent, and that if the matter got into court, traffic on the bridge might be stopped. That would be a serious matter, he pointed out, because of the 135th Street crosstown cars, which are used by many Harlem and Bronx residents.

Deputy Controller Mathewson said that he had investigated the rental of the properties needed, and that he thought the payment of the old price was the best the city could do under the circumstances.

"I will not vote for this," declared Mayor Gaynor. "I would rather see you put out, bag and baggage, Mr. Commissioner. It is a gross swindle, nothing but a gross swindle. I don't believe any court would make us pay such a price. I favor condemnation, rather than pay such a price. I don't believe they will cut off the cars. We have some rights, too. If they are going to try to close up the bridge, they will have to use some force, and we can use force, too."

Mitchel Calls It a Hold-Up.

"There has been an extension of time granted to those at work on the bridge, has there not?" asked Mr. Mitchel.

"Until next month," said Commissioner Martin.

"Was there a penalty prescribed for failure to complete the work on time?" asked Mr. Mitchel.

"Yes," answered Mr. Martin, "but no provision was made to collect for the cost of this extension of the leases on these temporary bridge approaches when the extension was granted the contractor."

Mr. Mitchel then had his say about the prices required of the city for the approaches, particularly the $21,500 asked by the owners of the property on the Bronx side of the Harlem River. He said Church E. Gates & Co. always drove hard bargains with the city. "This is an unconscionable hold-up on the part of so-called respectable people," he said. "We may have to renew this lease, but we should make it clear that we do not approve of paying $21,500 per annum rental for property worth $60,000."

Ultimately the matter of re-leasing the property for both approaches was referred to a committee made up of the Controller, President of the Board of Aldermen, and Chairman Frank Dowling of the Aldermanic Finance Committee.

Bradley L. Eaton, Treasurer of Church E. Gates & Co., and E. L. Barnard, a Director, who owns property on the other side of the river used for the bridge approach, were not visibly disturbed by the remarks of Mayor Gaynor and Mr. Mitchel.

"The strip of land the city wanted for its approach," they said, "runs through our lumber yard. It passes within a few feet of our offices here, and the noise and dirt the cars and trucks make is particularly annoying. The danger to our lumber, which is piled on both sides of this strip, from cigar and cigarette stumps thrown out of the trolley cars is great. We have raised our insurance. We never cover it altogether with insurance, and if it burned we should stand to lose $50,000 or more.

"We had no wild desire that the city take our land for its approach. We did not make any overtures."

NOT HARRIMAN'S SUCCESSOR.

Hawley Says He Has No Desire to be So Regarded.

CHICAGO, April 13.—"I have no ambitions and no aspirations, and I certainly do not aspire to be known or regarded as the successor of Edward H. Harriman in the railroad world."

This was the reply that Edwin Hawley of New York made last night to a query as to his purpose in acquiring control of railroad systems aggregating over 15,000 miles of lines.

Mr. Hawley arrived in Chicago last night on a special train to meet President George W. Stevens of the Chesapeake & Ohio road and other officials with whom he will make an inspection trip over the Chicago, Cincinnati & Louisville and the Chesapeake & Ohio roads.

Mr. Hawley and the President of the Chesapeake & Ohio confirmed the report that the latter road is contemplating the purchase of the Chicago, Cincinnati & Louisville road and a merger of that line with the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Hocking Valley. The trip over the Cincinnati line will begin to-day.

$1,500 FOR CROMWELL SWORD

Weapon Dated 1650 Brings Top Price at Yerkes Sale—Total Returns $2,207,866.

The sword of Oliver Cromwell, which was not catalogued, was the most important sale of yesterday afternoon at the Yerkes mansion, where the American Art Association disposed of the last of the household belongings, and went to E. H. Litchfield of Brooklyn for $1,500. The sword had been locked in a safe, and was brought to light after the other articles had been scheduled. It was formerly in the Museum of Warwickshire, England. It is decorated with medallions, the pommel corresponding. The broad blade is paneled, and bears the arms and motto of the Commonwealth of England. The sword is dated 1650. There were several competitors for it.

An Italian rapier brought one of the higher prices of the day, $940. It had a flat blade, with inscriptions in the grooves on either side, and the pommel and guard decorated with trophies in relief. Mr. Litchfield, who has a collection of armor, paid $400 for a suit of armor, German Gothic, early sixteenth century. He also paid $390 for a pair of German pistols, ornamented with inlays of engraved and carved ivory. There were the original wooden rammers.

A mammoth double lock of the German Renaissance period, wrought polished steel, with tooled ornamentation and two keys, bearing the name Hanus George Lampp, of the sixteenth century, brought $410. A lot of eleven Gothic keys, early English, Italian, and German, brought $310. George W. Young, the husband of Mme. Nordica, made a number of purchases, among others buying twelve Longfellow plates, painted by A. Baulenny, with figure subjects from the author's works, for $90.

The returns for the afternoon were $17,841. Otto Bernet took the place of Mr. Kirby at the auctioneer's desk for the latter part of the sale.

The final sale of the Charles T. Yerkes collection was held last evening, a lot of books, which brought $2,634, bringing the total returns for the big sale up to $2,207,866. This was for the four evenings' sale of valuable pictures and one afternoon's sale of rugs and tapestries at Mendelssohn Hall, and three afternoon and two evening sales at the house, 864 Fifth Avenue, at which pieces of sculpture, less important pictures, books, household furnishings and embellishments were sold.

Replying to the petition of Receiver Charles C. Burlingham of the Yerkes estate, Judge Ward of the United States Circuit Court yesterday decided that no bids having been received for the Yerkes mansion, 864 Fifth Avenue, corner of Sixty-eighth Street, at the upset price of $1,400,000, fixed at the time of the previous offer of the place for sale, that it should be sold without restrictions on April 20. All the moneys received from the proceeds of the sale of paintings and household furnishings Judge Ward further decided should be placed with the Union Trust Company pending a disposition of the proceeds under orders of the Court.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Kippered Herring in Tins Are Held Not Dutiable as "Fish in Tins."

Kippered herring, imported in tins, according to a decision handed down yesterday by the Board of General Appraisers, are dutiable under the provision in the new tariff law for "kippered herring," rather than as "fish in tins," as was claimed by the Collector of Customs. Under previous tariff laws no provision was made for kippered herring, and Congress in preparing the latest act made a provision for the same because kippered herring had been the subject of numerous controversies both before the board and Circuit Courts.

The herring were imported by F. B. Vandergrift & Co. of Philadelphia, and the Collector of Customs assessed a duty of 30 per cent. ad valorem on the merchandise under the paragraph for "all other fish (except shellfish,)" in tin packages. The importers claimed that the importation was dutiable as "herring, kippered," at the rate of ½ cent per pound. As far as the facts in the case are concerned, the testimony, according to the decision of the General Appraiser, shows that kippered herring are not imported in any other way than packed in tins.

In sustaining the importer's protest, General Appraiser Chamberlain stated:

"That Congress did not intend that kippered herring in tins should pay a duty of 30 per cent. ad valorem as fish in tins is made manifest by the fact that the provision for kippered herring under such a construction would be a nullity, kippered herring not being imported in any other manner than in tins."

REPLIES TO GERVILLE-REACHE

Hammerstein Has Contract with Contralto for Three More Seasons.

In answer to the announcement made on Tuesday by Mme. Gerville-Reache to the effect that she would not be a member of the Manhattan Opera Company next season, Oscar Hammerstein said last night that he had a contract with the contralto for three more seasons.

"It is absurd," he said, "that a contralto should ask me to reserve exclusive and special rôles for her next season. I don't even know about my répertoire yet, and I certainly cannot reserve special rôles for any artist. However, Mme. Gerville-Reache is engaged to sing with me at the Manhattan Opera House for three more seasons."

Says Husband's Divorce Is Invalid.

Supreme Court Justice Blanchard heard an application yesterday to set aside the divorce granted on Feb. 23, 1904, to Louis Schwartz, a fruit dealer, from Dora Schwartz. It appears that Schwartz lived with his wife after obtaining the decree, her attorney asserted through ignorance, because she refused to recognize any divorce other than a rabbinical one as valid. Schwartz left his wife on March 10, and produced the decree of divorce when arrested for non-support. Decision was reserved.

URGES ECONOMY IN THE GOVERNMENT

Ex-Gov. Herrick of Ohio Tells Metal Tradesmen Extravagance Is Our Greatest Peril.

A CHAMPION FOR CANNON

Congressman Humphrey Declares the Speaker Stands Between the Treasury and Rogues.

An attack on the extravagance of Governmental administration, a prediction that the day will soon come when this country will face a grave crisis in lack of production sufficient to meet the consumption, and a spirited defense of Speaker Cannon of the House of Representatives enlivened the twelfth annual dinner of the National Metal Trades Association last night at the Hotel Astor.

Myron T. Herrick, ex-Governor of Ohio, sounded a note of alarm for the future of taxation in this country unless the administration of government is reformed in accordance with the view of President Taft.

He said that in calling attention to the great extravagance in the administration of the Government he did not wish to be placed in the light of attacking the present Administration or any other particular Administration, but to emphasize the fact that the time is ripe for placing the Government on a basis such as that adopted by the large corporations of the country.

President William C. Brown of the New York Central preceded Mr. Herrick, and it was he who predicted the coming crisis in the matter of supply and demand, and suggested a remedy in awakening the farmers of the country to the necessity of adopting modern methods of farming to increase production on the area which is now devoted to the growing of crops.

The Labor Troubles.

Mr. Brown also spoke of the labor troubles his railroad lines have been having of late, and told of his efforts to bring about the arbitration of the dispute between the railroad employes and the roads of which he is the head. He said that he and his fellow-officials of the New York Central were just closing negotiations with the employes of that road which will involve an increase of $9,000,000 a year in the payrolls.

But the subject he wished most to bring to the attention of the Metal Trades, he said, was the problem of the increased cost of living. It was a subject, he said, of greater importance just now to the business men of the country than any other question. He said that the increased cost of living had been brought about by the fact that consumption is rapidly overtaking production in the United States.

"An alarm should be sounded from coast to coast and from Canada to the Gulf to arouse the farmers to their responsibility and to their country's necessity," said President Brown. "Experimental farms should be established all over the country, for unless we increase production we will soon face a day when we will be unable to meet the demand for those things which sustain life."

It was ex-Gov. Herrick who unexpectedly called forth the defense of Speaker Cannon.

Gov. Herrick's Speech.

"New York has been a striking example of a city operated by political rather than business methods," said ex-Gov. Herrick. "With a yearly revenue from taxation and other ordinary sources of $150,000,000 and with 60,000 employes, this city, until quite recently, did not know how much it owed, while by placing the business of the city on a basis of favoritism rather than competition a loss has been entailed estimated from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 a year; and, had I not read Mr. Cannon's admirable report to the Chamber of Commerce the other day, I would have asked for a certified accountant's report before bidding on its bonds.

"At the present time, however, New York, which was an example of the system which the awakened conscience of the country now condemns, bids fair to be a conspicuous example in the correction of vicious methods. This result is due primarily to the aroused interest of the people in municipal affairs.

"The experience of New York is not unique. The bonded indebtedness of American cities as a whole is increasing much more rapidly than municipal assets, and the taxes for operating expenses are becoming more burdensome each year. In 1902 the percentage of the revenue of all the cities in the country to their debt was 37.3. By 1909 this percentage had decreased to 25.9.

"The net public debt of forty-nine cities, including New York, increased 47.71 per cent. from 1899 to 1900, while during the same period, the increase in the assessed valuation of all taxable property in these cities advanced but 12.66 per cent. In cities above 300,000 in population, the municipal expenditures increased 20 per cent. per capita from 1902 to 1907. If this increase continues, the pressure of taxation will soon become intolerable and credit exhausted.

"Earnest efforts have been made by Presidents Roosevelt and Taft to bring about needed reforms in the Government's business methods. Members of Congress, however, seem callous to the waste and extravagance that permeate the departments. It is with the greatest reluctance that Congress approves of any change that may involve a decrease in patronage.

"President Taft has proposed to reduce the eighteen pension agencies to one central agency. The discussion that took place when this matter came up in the House of Representatives indicates an unfriendly attitude of Congress toward measures of this sort. Therefore the responsibility in this case, as in most others, rests on Congress.

"Senator Aldrich gives it as his opinion that the National Government could save $300,000,000 a year if it were conducted on a business basis and managed as cleverly and efficiently as a large corporation.

"Consider what this annual waste of $300,000,000 means. It is 40 per cent. of the whole cost of running the Government. It is equal to the total value of all of our exports of iron, agricultural implements, mineral oils, and cotton. It is $33,000,000 more than all the dividends paid to all the stockholders of all the railroads in the United States. It is $30,000,000 more than the value of the entire meat product of the Chicago packing houses, and it is 25 per cent. more than the combined total wages paid in the iron and steel, textile and lumber industries of the whole country.

"With these startling figures before us, why not support Taft in his appeal for economy? Why not muckrake, probe, and regulate public expenditures for a while? To correct these manifest evils would lift a great burden from a patient, long-suffering people.

44,000 New Laws in 1909.

"It has been stated that 44,000 new laws last year were added to the statutes by Congress and the State Legislatures—laws to regulate everybody and everything except the public expenditures of the lawmakers themselves and of the various departments of the Government. The great majority of the men sitting in our legislative bodies are lawyers, whose natural tendency is to attempt to remedy every ill by statute.

"The oversight of business enterprises by the Government has placed on the Government payrolls a vast number of new officials; it has necessitated the establishment of new departments, the keeping of a mass of records, and the compilation of a great quantity of statistics. All this has been done with no serious attempt to reform the antiquated expensive methods prevailing in all departments of the Government.

"The people have been so intent upon placing the corporations under governmental control that they have overlooked the additional burden they are putting on their own shoulders by placing this work in the hands of officials who, handicapped by bad methods, are rendered powerless to do little more than swell the payrolls.

"It goes without saying that predatory corporations either should be brought within the law or put out of business. It is doubtless true that salutary laws have been passed regulating other corporations, but we should also apply ourselves, as a condition precedent to the Government's further controlling and managing these corporations, to reforming the administration of government. Otherwise the burden of taxation will become unbearable, intolerable, and in the reaction which will surely follow, much of the good of the progressive legislation of recent years will be undone."

Congressman William E. Humphrey of Washington State said that he agreed with Mr. Herrick as to the extravagances in Governmental bureaus.

"But Congress is not more extravagant than the American people demand," said Mr. Humphrey. "Speaker Cannon has for years stood and borne not only his own sins but those of every coward in Congress. He has for years more than stood between the Treasury and the looters of the Treasury. He has stood for economy, yet he has been the most vilified man in public life.

"Depose Speaker Cannon and you will have an era of extravagance in this country compared with which the present extravagance is economy. The indiscriminate vilification of men in public life makes a cloak for scoundrels and makes men who value their reputations hesitate to enter public life. Reputation is no protection against the attacks of hired assassins who assail it."

Mr. Humphrey apologized to the diners for his digression from the theme he had chosen—the building of battleships and the question of shipping and shipbuilding in this country.

Prof. Dexter S. Kimball of the Department of Machinery and Construction in Sibley College, Cornell University, also spoke.

The toastmaster was Howard P. Eells. Some 300 members of the association attended the dinner. They represented a combined investment of $500,000,000 in the various branches of the metal trades and an employing capacity of 100,000 men. The twelfth annual convention of the association began yesterday at the Astor and will continue to-day.

WALSH WILL PROBATED.

Personal Estate of Miner Valued at $3,600,000 in Petition of Executor.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The personal estate of the late Thomas F. Walsh is valued at $3,600,000 by the petition of the American Security and Trust Company, his executor, filed to-day for the probate of his will. Only the assessed valuation of his real estate is given in the petition. This places his realty holdings in Washington at $1,519,279, but a conservative estimate of its market value would be about $2,500,000.

Stocks and bonds were held by Mr. Walsh to the extent of $3,200,000, and he had on deposit in local banks $300,000. His household effects are valued at $50,000 and there are debts due him to the extent of $50,000.

With the consent of the widow and daughter, beneficiaries of his estate, the court admitted the will to probate.

Excavators Prefer Conference to Strike

The expected strike of the Excavators' Union against the members of the Contractors' Protective Association, which was to bring out thousands of men this week did not develop. Instead of striking the union asked for a conference with a committee of the employers over the demands. The employers will consent "without prejudice."

Chester Billings & Son Fail for $500,000.
Jewelry Firm, 70 Years Old, Had Long Struggled to Avert Bankruptcy.
Assets Will Cover Debts.
Trustees Named to Conduct the Concern's Affairs Are Forced to File a Petition in Bankrupty.

Chester Billings & Son, dealers in diamonds and jewelry at Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, one of the oldest houses in the trade, whose business has been established seventy years, made an assignment late yesterday afternoon to John S. Darey, the Secretary of the corporation, and about the same time a petition in bankruptcy was filed against the corporation in the United States District Court.

The liabilities are reported to be $500,000 and assets are estimated between $500,000 and $1,000,000........The business was started in 1840 by Randel & Baremore........ The business was formerly downtown, at 58 Nassau Street, and was removed uptown to 353 Fifth Avenue in 1905........They formerly did a very large business up to the panic of October, 1907, but since then business has been considerably less........In June, 1908, the affairs of the corporation were placed in the hands of three trustees to liquidate the business.

Bruhl Bros. & Henius Buy Out Older Jewelry House.

The oldest jewelry firm in the city, Chester Billings & Son, has been absorbed by the second oldest, Bruhl Bros. & Henius, of 15, 17 and 19 Maiden Lane, which was established eight years later. The Billings house........had an established reputation for carrying precious stones of exceptional purity and enjoyed the patronage of some of the wealthiest families of the city........In the depression of trade which followed the crash, it (Chester Billings & Son) was forced to deposit the best portion of its stock with the Fidelity Trust Company, the Knickerbocker Trust Company and the American National Exchange Bank as collateral for loans.

The firm failed last month, and yesterday Bruhl Bros. & Henius bought its stock from the trustees in bankruptcy, John C. Van Cleaf, Vice-President of the National Park Bank; Uzel H. McCarter, President of the Fidelity Trust Company of Newark, and August Oppenheimer, of Oppenheimer & Veilt.

The price paid for the stock of the Billings house could not be learned last night, but it was said that it was so large that a liquidation of the assets at a heavy discount would be immediately necessary.

As soon as the goods have been sold off the store will disappear from Fifth Avenue, as the premises have been sublet.

Talks on Teeth

BY

G. GORDON MARTIN

(INCORPORATED)

The Toothless Person.

Any person with one or two teeth left in their mouth had no alternative but plates before the Martinolar Method of supplying missing teeth without plates or ordinary bridge work was discovered and applied by us.

They were literally between two fires:—could not eat without teeth—could not eat with those false plates that they could buy.

The plate wearer rolls his food around in his mouth and mashes it up, but he can't grind it up. With Martinolar Teeth he can grind it up exactly as he would if he had natural teeth. No plates to destroy his speech—no ordinary bridge work to torture him and make his gums sore.

The Martinolar Method of restoring missing teeth bears the same relation to the old-fashioned false teeth that the electric light bears to the tallow dip as an illuminant. No comparison between the two.

The Martinolar Method has revolutionized the science of dentistry and brought health and happiness to thousands of people who have had their work done for them by us. The method is one that calls for no pain or discomfort while the patient is in the chair.

Do not imagine that you are going to be operated upon or that there is any cutting or boring into the gums. Nothing of that kind is connected with it.

During the past seven years we have treated twenty thousand cases and we have to say that we can get letters of recommendation from nearly every single case, if it were not for the fact that so many people object to having their names used in a testimonial. We can refer, however, to hundreds of people who will give us as strong a testimony as follows. Will you kindly read this letter?

Messrs. G. Gordon Martin, Inc.,

Gentlemen—The writer takes great pleasure in stating to you that the work done for him is vastly more satisfactory than he imagined it could be possible. I have had absolutely no trouble since the completion of the work, and my mouth has been in better condition than at any time during the past ten years.

Should it be desirable to you to refer any of your prospective patients to me, I would be pleased to show them what you have done for me, and at the same time recommend the work in every particular. Very truly yours,
S. D. CONWELL.

If you will call we will be pleased to make a careful diagnosis of your case free of any charge and explain the method. If it is impossible for you to call at the present time do the next best thing and send for our book, "Martinolar Dentistry," which explains the method in detail and which is one of the most valuable treatises on teeth ever compiled. Sent free upon request.

AMERICANS EXCEL AT FRENCH SALON

Works of Artists from This Country Command Much Admiration.

AN ATTRACTIVE EXHIBITION

Nothing Epoch-Making, but the Standard High—Lucien Simon's Paintings Regarded as Masterpieces.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 13.—Americans have reason to be proud of the showing made by their countrymen and country women in the Salon of the Beaux Arts, which was inaugurated to-day. Both they and the English artists, considering their relative numbers, command as much admiration in the section of painting as the French themselves.

The American painters whose works are most conspicuously meritorious are James J. Shannon, R. A., of London; Miss Elizabeth Nourse, Miss Florence Upton, Eugene Paul Ullman, Myron Barlow, Frederick Frieseke, Miss Ethel Mars, and Julian Rolshoven.

The exhibition is pronounced by the most experienced artists to be of greater general excellence than that of last year. There is, however, an almost total absence of American sculpture exhibits.

PARIS, April 13.—Although this year's Salon of the Société Nationale des Beaux Arts, inaugurated to-day by President Fallières, maintains the high standard of the past, the general verdict is that it contains nothing epoch-making. Nevertheless there is a great variety of subjects and marked excellence in the paintings, which are arranged with such skill as continually to afford delightful surprises. This makes the exhibition a most attractive one, while it is also unusually meritorious.

In places of honor the critics put the work of Lucien Simon, whose large canvases, "The Pursuit" and "The Bath," they regard as classing him as a veritable master. They also accord high praise to La Touche, Delacroix, Blanche Le Villain, Levy-Dhurmer, Aman-Jean, Cottet, and Lhermitte, whose paintings are characteristic and of high value. Especial praise is bestowed upon the "Portrait of a Woman" by the American-born artist James J. Shannon, R. A., which is declared to excel Blanche's fine portraits of the Duchess of Rutland and her son.

Among other much admired works of Americans are Myron Barlow's delicate genre studies, Alexander Harrison's bold sea views, Walter Gay's and Elizabeth Nourse's interiors, and Julius H. Stuart's portraits and scenes in Venice.

Numerous topical pictures, including scenes of the recent flood in Paris, are exhibited, and there are a sardonic caricature of Mme. Steinheil by Jean Veber and a large historical canvas by Thébenet glowingly representing Louis Blériot, the French aviator, landing at Dover after his flight over the English Channel. Beyond Rodin's busts in bronze the sculpture exhibit is not remarkable in quality. W. D. Jewett is the only American sculptor exhibiting.

In the division of miniatures, etchings, and drawings American artists, including Donald MacLaughlin and J. J. Mumford, have prominent positions.

AMOY TO HONOR AMERICANS.

Various Entertainments Arranged for Sailors—Exchange of Loving Cups.

AMOY, April 13.—A programme has been arranged for the entertainment of the officers and men of the United States Asiatic fleet, which is due here to-morrow.

On Friday morning official calls will be exchanged and in the afternoon American Consul Arnold will give a reception to the officers of the fleet and Chinese officials here. On Saturday there will be a ball game and the presentation to the fleet of a loving cup by the American colony. This will be followed by a reception which Admiral Ching, Adviser to the Chinese Naval Department, will give to the American officers and foreign residents. On this occasion Prince Ching will receive from Rear Admiral Hubbard, Commander in Chief of the Asiatic fleet, the loving cup presented to the Chinese navy by the second squadron of the American Atlantic fleet in commemoration of the visit of the American battleships to Amoy in the Autumn of 1908.

The Chinese officials on Monday will entertain their American guests at luncheon at Nampoto Temple, and that evening Juan Mencarini, Commissioner of Customs, will give a garden party to the American officers and sailors. The fleet will sail on Tuesday.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

BERLIN, April 13.—The imperial unearned increment tax bill was published to-day and differs in many particulars from the forecast of the measure that was printed. The bill abolishes all taxes of this class now imposed by municipalities and substitutes a general tax, the revenue from which is divided into three parts, 40 per cent. returning to the municipalities, 10 per cent. going to the States, and 50 per cent. being retained by the Imperial Government.

COLON, April 13.—The United States auxiliary cruiser Prairie, which left Philadelphia on April 7, arrived here this morning. The cruiser will take home the marines who have been in service around Nicaragua. The British cruiser Scylla arrived to-day from Bocas del Toro.

POSTUM.

BLACK AND RICH

Is the Way Postum Should Be.

A liquid food that will help a person break a bad habit is worth knowing of. The president of one of the state associations of the W. C. T. U., who naturally does not want her name given, writes as follows:

"Whenever I was obliged to go without coffee for breakfast a dull, distracting headache would come on before noon. I discovered that, in reality, the nerves were crying out for their accustomed stimulant.

"At evening dinner I had been taught by experience that I must refrain from coffee or pass a sleepless night. While visiting a physician and his wife I was served with a most excellent beverage at their dainty and elegant table, and, upon inquiry, discovered that this charming beverage was Postum and that the family had been greatly benefited by leaving off coffee and using Postum.

"I was so in love with it, and so pleased with the glimpse of freedom from my one bondage of habit and so thoroughly convinced that I ought to break with my captor, that upon my return home I at once began the use of Postum and have continued it ever since.

"I don't know what sick headache is now, and my nerves are steady and I sleep sound, generally eight hours. I used to become bilious frequently and require physic; now seldom ever have that experience.

"I have learned that long boiling is absolutely essential to furnish good Postum. That makes it clear, black and rich as any Mocha and Java blend. Please withhold my name, but you may use the letter for the good it may do."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

QUEBEC'S ACT UNFRIENDLY.

Opinion in Washington—May Prejudice the Treaty Negotiations.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The announcement that the Province of Quebec will prohibit the exportation of pulp wood to the United States was received here with surprise and regret. At the State Department it was said that the prospect of closer commercial relations and of a trade treaty with the Dominion had been thought to be sufficiently encouraging to deter any of the Provinces from imposing prohibitory restrictions at this time. The result of such summary action as is proposed will, it is felt, interfere seriously with the realization of the suggested trade treaty.

The proposed increase of stumpage dues and license fees is not questioned, but the intention to prohibit the exportation of pulp wood is regarded in some quarters as closely approaching an unfriendly act.

There are 6,000 square miles of Crown lands in the Province of Quebec, of which American interests—the International Paper Company and the Berlin Mills Company—lease or rent more than half. An adjudication of their rights under the new order of things will be a question for the State Department to take up.

QUEBEC, April 13.—It was learned to-day on the highest authority that the interests of those United States lumbermen who have pulp wood cut but not delivered will be protected by the Provincial Government in the order-in-council which is to be passed within a few days prohibiting the exportation of pulp wood to the United States. The new law prohibiting exportation will apply only to pupip wood cut on and after next May 1.

Regarding a report from Washington that the President may impose retaliatory duties on the Province, it is understood that the Government has taken this matter into consideration and is fully prepared for any action which Washington may take.

LORD ROSEBERY'S PLAN.

How He Would Reform the Upper House—Fine Speech by Churchill.

LONDON, April 13.—Lord Rosebery, in the House of Lords to-day, submitted his plan for the reform of that chamber. He proposes that in future the House shall consist of Lords of Parliament, chosen in part of the peers themselves, in part by nomination by the Crown, and in part elective from the outside, and of others sitting by virtue of their offices and qualifications, the term of tenure for all to be the same. No date has yet been fixed for the discussion of the proposal.

The Parliamentary debate on Premier Asquith's veto resolutions, which will close to-morrow, has been somewhat overshadowed by the interest excited by the revelation of the share of Sir Robert Anderson, ex-Chief of the Criminal Investigation Department, in the political events of 1887 and the determined efforts the Irish members are making in the House of Commons to obtain a Governmental investigation of the affair, with a view to depriving Sir Robert of his pension of $4,500 yearly, on the ground that his action was a breach of official confidence.

Sir Robert has admitted the authorship of the famous "Parnellism and Crime" series of articles which appeared in The Times in 1887, and which culminated in the publication of the Pigott forgery.

The debate on the veto resolutions, however, has been a notable one, and has attracted many prominent visitors to the House, including Queen Alexandra, who made her first appearance in the House since her coronation.

The Right Hon. Winston Churchill, Secretary of the Home Office, made perhaps the most remarkable speech of the debate yesterday, which in the opinion of both sides of the House has greatly enhanced his reputation. Premier Asquith is expected to make an important pronouncement of the Government's policy in winding up the debate to-morrow, and he will also announce the Government's "guillotine" resolution for dealing with the Budget.

RUSSIAN PRIESTS CENSURED.

They Are Told Not to Discuss Politics When They Greet the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 30.—A sharp communication has been addressed to the reactionary Holy Synod by the Ministry of the Imperial Court, apropos of the practice of the clergy, from Archbishops down to humble village priests, of mixing politics with religion when called upon to greet the Emperor in their spiritual capacity.

In his journeys about Russia the Emperor is customarily met at all halts by the local clergy, who celebrate a short service, and his patience is said to have been repeatedly tried by their admonitions as to the proper administration of the realm, usually including references to the happy days before the constitution and prayerful allusions to baneful enemies of the autocracy.

The synod is now instructed to see that in future priests in their greetings to the Emperor make no reference to political affairs nor presume to pass upon matters concerning the temporal administration of the country.

CZAR ORDERS LENIENCY.

The Death Penalty to be Limited as Much as Possible.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 13.—Premier Stolypin, in a speech in the Duma to-night, announced that the Emperor had personally ordered that the death penalty and administrative measures for the preservation of order should be limited as much as possible. The exceptional measures which it was found necessary to enforce during the revolutionary days had now been relaxed in nearly every part of the empire.

The Premier referred to the recent attack made by robbers on the Treasury at Kizliar, Ciscaucasia, where seventeen men were killed, including several of the military guard, and said that such occurrences as this showed that the iron hand was still necessary in some parts of the country, and would be applied rigorously to protect the citizens from bombs and brigandage.

With reference to an interpellation regarding the settlement of the naval staff question, M. Stolypin declared that nobody in authority wished to infringe or limit the rights of the Duma.

SUMMIT NOT LIKE COOK'S PICTURES

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, April 13.—The Fairbanks Mount McKinley expedition which reached the summit of the peak started to follow the route Dr. Cook said he took, but was obliged to abandon it as it is impassable. Thomas Lloyd, the leader, declared to-day that no trace of Cook's camps was found.

Mr. Lloyd has placed his crude notes of the journey in the hands of a committee of the Order of Pioneers of Alaska, which will arrange for their publication. The party took photographs of the summit and of points along the trail. They also established the trail so well that it can be followed by other parties next Summer.

Aneroid measurements taken by the party place the height of the mountain at 20,500 feet.

Ten men were in the party that left Fairbanks with dog teams in December. It was the theory of the leaders that the ascent would be less dangerous in early Spring than later, when the snow began to melt. This theory was confirmed by the experience of the expedition.

The expedition, on reaching the base of the mountain, went into camp, waited for better weather, and planned the ascent. All were familiar with the great mountain. None of the men has a scientific education, and they took no special apparatus except cameras and a barometer. They were equipped for prospecting and traveled as light as possible and with the food supply of an Alaskan miner.

After the ascent was begun the first camp was made at the line of the willows, the second at 2,000 feet, the third at 10,000 feet, the fourth at 16,000 feet. From this camp the dash to the top was made. Four dogs went to the third camp and one to the fourth. Snowshoes were used most of the way, and much time was consumed in carrying supplies to the fourth camp, travel over the steep ice compelling light loads and several trips. In several places crevasses were crossed on bridges of poles brought from the timbered slopes below.

The party did not set out to prove or disprove Dr. Cook's story, but to climb the mountain. They found the summits utterly unlike those pictured in Cook's book. On the rock peak they left an American flag measuring six by twelve feet attached to a fourteen-foot staff buttressed in rock. The flag was visible for a long distance on the north side of the mountain. The view from the summit was obscured by clouds at lower levels. The building of the monument about the flagstaff was difficult because of the rarefied atmosphere.

The snow was generally firm and the crevasses that were filled with snow were easy to cross except in a few instances. Later in the season avalanches and treacherous crevasses would have impeded progress.

The explorers discovered a magnificent unnamed peak 16,000 feet high, and a new pass through the mountain range which shortens the distance to the coast by seventy-five miles. The pass is flanked by majestic perpendicular walls.

Daniel Patterson, W. R. Taylor, and Charles McGonnigle remained at Kalishna, and only Mr. Lloyd came to Fairbanks. The Pioneers' committee took steps to verify Mr. Lloyd's story before stamping it as genuine. Even now the committee is disinclined to surrender Mr. Lloyd's notes, although satisfied that they amply prove the story. The return of Mr. Lloyd from the mountain in nine days was due to the excellence of the trail made by the party while ascending the mountain.

BRADLEY ASKS WHERE COOK IS.

Feels Like "an Outsider" in Not Having Heard from Him.

John R. Bradley, who financed Dr. Frederick A. Cook's last polar expedition, registered at the Hotel Netherland yesterday with his wife and daughter, to remain until May 1, when Mr. Bradley expects to start for the West for a six months' hunting trip.

"The weather was too warm down South," said Mr. Bradley, "so I decided to come up to New York and get ready for my hunting trip. It seems strange that just when I arrive something should bob up in regard to Dr. Cook, and the failure of the Fairbanks expedition to find that brass tube on Mount McKinley is reported.

"I consider myself now an outsider, for I have not seen or heard from Dr. Cook since the first of last November. I often wonder where he is keeping himself, and why he remains in hiding. I was surprised to learn from friends of his, who were in communication with him during his Southern trip, that he still intended to try and reverse the decision of the Copenhagen scientists.

"Of course I never was mixed up in the scaling of Mount McKinley. I thoroughly believe that the members of the Fairbanks expedition reached the summit, as the party was made up of Alaska pioneers who know their country. Still, their feat shows that the mountain could have been climbed, although they say that they discovered no trace of Dr. Cook having been there.

"Prof. Parker's expedition, if successful, will add proof to the results of the Fairbanks expedition, and I understand that still another expedition, financed by a man who still believes in Dr. Cook, will start the ascent about June 1. By next September we should all be convinced as to just what the summit looks like, even if Dr. Cook's brass tube is not found."

WILL DECIDE PROCTER GIFT.

Princeton's Future Attitude Depends on Election of a Trustee To-day.

Much interest is felt among Princeton men here in the election at Princeton today of a life trustee of the university. Two of the candidates are residents of this city. It is understood that the Board of Trustees, consisting of twenty-three life members, five alumni members, the Governor of New Jersey, and the President of the university, is evenly divided over the outcome of the Procter offer of $050,000, and the choice of a trustee today, it is thought, will provide a majority one way or the other.

The candidates are Parker B. Handy, '79, and C. Ledyard Blair, '90, of this city, and Dr. J. M. T. Finney, '84, of Baltimore. While Messrs. Handy and Blair are not on record in the Procter matter, Dr. Finney has repeatedly declared his approval of Dr. Wilson's stand against the acceptance of the gift under the conditions named.

WANTS TO PAY FRANCHISE TAX

Receiver Joline Asks Mayor to Adjudicate Amount Metropolitan Owes.

Adrian H. Joline, one of the receivers of the Metropolitan Street Railroad Company, and Arthur H. Masten, his counsel, called on the Mayor at City Hall yesterday and asked him to take up the adjudication of the franchise taxes which the company owes the city. They declared that they are anxious to come to a settlement. They admit that they owe $2,000,000, but the city's claim is in the neighborhood of $5,000,000.

The Mayor promised to take the matter up at once. He has already brought about a settlement of the indebtedness of the Third Avenue Railroad and the Consolidated Gas Company and its subsidiaries.

REFUSES WATER FRONT LEASE

Offer for Harlem River Property Too Low for Commissioner Tomkins.

Dock Commissioner Tomkins denied yesterday the application of John H. Buterly for a lease of the water front on the Manhattan shore of the Harlem River between 202d and 206th Streets at a yearly rental of $1,000. A short time ago the Commissioner was offered 10 cents a square foot a year for part of this space. At this rate the whole parcel should rent for $16,000 a year.

The Commissioner held a hearing yesterday on the application of the Pennsylvania Railroad for a twenty-five-year renewal of its privileges at the foot of Cortlandt Street on the North River. There was no objection and the Commissioner took the matter under advisement.

WANTED TO KILL BRIAND.

Workman Tried to Force His Way Into the French Premier's Hotel.

SAINT-ETIENNE, France, April 13.—A workman named Duplanil, who was armed with a brace of revolvers and a knife and declared that he wished to kill Premier Briand, was arrested to-day as he attempted to force his way into the hotel where the Premier is stopping.

Duplanil is believed to have become crazed by drink. After his detention he said he was hounded by spirits, which urged him to slay M. Briand. It is learned that he had been following M. Briand since Sunday, when he mingled with the manifestants at Saint Chamond.

The Premier is continuing in this district the electoral campaign which he opened at Saint Chamond, where he encountered unfriendly demonstrations by Anarchists and revolutionary groups.

PARIS, April 13.—A sensation was caused in the Palace of Justice to-day when an Anarchist in revenge fired four shots at M. Flory, the President of the court, which found the man guilty a year ago.

M. Flory was not hit by the bullets, and the Anarchist was arrested.

TERRIFIED BY BLACK HAND.

New York Italian Says He Was Pursued Across the Atlantic.

CHERBOURG, April 13.—The police say that when the steamer Philadelphia docked on Sunday an Italian, who described himself as Francesco Difeo, a banker of New York City, rushed in terror to the police station declaring that he was pursued by two members of a Black Hand gang which had threatened him in the United States. The two men, he said, were passengers on the Philadelphia, and dogged his steps until he finally took refuge in his stateroom, from which he did not emerge until the steamer reached her pier.

Difeo refused to leave here for Paris until assured that the suspects were not on the same car with him. He claimed to have fled from New York to escape the Black Hand, as he was convinced that death would be his portion if he remained in the United States.

No arrest has been made.

The name of Francesco Difeo does not appear in the New York City Directory, nor did Italian bankers here recognize it last night. The name was not on the outgoing passenger lists.

AUSTRALIAN LABORITES WIN.

Have Working Majorities in Both Houses of Parliament.

SYDNEY, April 13.—Elections for members of Parliament were held throughout Australia to-day.

The returns already received assure working majorities for the Labor Party in both houses. The voting was heavy.

Intense interest was taken in the elections because for the first time a coalition party opposed the Labor Party.

New American Embassy in Berlin.

BERLIN, April 13.—Ambassador Hill has found a new home for the American Embassy at 16 Rauchstrasse, in the fashionable Tiergarten section. It is a commodious three-story residence, and will afford room under one roof for the offices of the embassy, the private quarters of the Ambassador, and the embassy records. Mr. Hill will move to Rauchstrasse on Oct. 1. The house is surrounded by small but well laid out grounds, and overlooks the Spree.

ANTIS APPEAL TO TAFT.

Not Pleased with His Plan to Address the Suffragists.

The announcement that President Taft will address the opening meeting of the woman suffrage convention in Washington on Thursday has brought forth a letter of protest from the New York State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, whose headquarters are in the Engineers' Building at 29 West Thirty-ninth Street. A letter bearing the signatures of nine members of the association reached President Taft yesterday, having been placed in his hands by Senator Root. Mrs. Root is an active member of the association.

The letter says:

> It is with great regret that the women belonging to the New York State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage have heard that you are to address the advocates of woman suffrage at their opening meeting this week. Although you have publicly declared that this action is not to be taken as indorsing the movement, it is impossible to disabuse the minds of the general public from accepting your presence there as your sanction at least.
>
> After many years of agitation, which has latterly been increasingly active, the Woman Suffrage Associations have succeeded in enlisting the interest of only a very small minority of the women of the country.
>
> I understand that a petition signed by 1,000,000 names, more or less, of men and women is to be presented to Congress. This has been the work of years all over the country, and yet there are about 30,000,000 of women alone. There is no general demand among women for the suffrage, and we who are actively opposed to woman suffrage, and who claim to represent that large body of women who by temperament and habit are passive opponents, feel that in seeking to coerce this majority the minority who advocate the measure are not within the bounds of proper procedure.
> In enlisting your interest in their meeting, therefore, they are enabled to appear before the public as having secured your sympathy and so to advertise it, and we would ask that you speak clearly on this point in your address.

The signers of the protest are Mrs. Francis M. Scott, President of the State Association; Mrs. Fritz Achelis, First Vice President; Mrs. William A. Putnam, Vice President; Mrs. Francis S. Bangs, Treasurer; Lilian Bayard Taylor Kiliani, International Secretary; Alida Blake Hazard, Chairman of the Press Committee; Mrs. John A. Church, Membership Committee; Mrs. George Phillips, Secretary; Miss Alice Hill Chittenden, Chairman Legislative Committee.

CHARGES MONOPOLY IN STOCK ENGRAVING

Head of Rival Concern Says New York Exchange Backs American Bank Note Company.

MEMBERS OWN IT, HE SAYS

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 13.—George H. Kendall, President of the New York Banknote Company, who appeared before the Assembly Ways and Means Committee to-day, cited the experience of his company in dealing with the New York Stock Exchange in relation to the furnishing of stock certificates as a reason for the passage of the Toombs resolution providing for an investigation of Wall Street speculation by a legislative committee.

He made the charge that the Stock Listing Committee of the Exchange would not list a stock unless the certificates were supplied by the American Banknote Company. He added that the American and subsidiary companies were owned by members of the Stock Exchange, and that prices charged by it were double the amount which would yield an ordinary profit. He read four letters, two of which he said he sent to the Stock Exchange and two purporting to be replies. The Stock Exchange in one of the letters said that the New York Banknote Company's work had been found to be unsatisfactory.

Mr. Kendall asserted that the loss to the stock-buying public through the monopoly held by the American Company was about $5,000 a day, or $1,500,000 a year.

"At one time," Mr. Kendall said, "my company received through George J. Gould an order to furnish the certificates for the Western Union Company. The Exchange served notice that after a certain time certificates must be those supplied by the American Bank Note Company. Mr. Gould replied that if the Exchange insisted he would withdraw all his companies and place them in the Consolidated Exchange. That brought the Stock Exchange to terms.

"I have what I consider as a proof of my charges in the correspondence between the Stock Exchange managers and myself. I notified the Stock Exchange that I intended to let the public know to what treatment I was subjected. They replied that they did not care to enter a newspaper controversy with me and declared that my statement in all respects was not true. In what little work we have done, the Exchange has made trouble for us. For instance in the case of the Western Union if we finished the certificates in brown they would demand that we do the work over again in green, or vice versa. However in spite of this we were able to make a neat profit at about 40 per cent. the cost charged by the American Company."

"How long has this been going on?" Assemblyman James Oliver asked.

"For several years," Mr. Kendall replied.

"Why didn't you call the attention of Gov. Hughes's commission to this last year?"

"I did, and they acted on it as you will see by their report."

"This monopoly, Mr. Kendall declared, was a matter the Legislature should investigate.

Mr. Toombs, who pleaded for the adoption of the resolution, said the Governor's commission which investigated Wall Street conditions, was in no position to do justice to the situation. "Those who depend upon the Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange to reform that organization," he said, "are raising false hopes within themselves."

Some of the reforms which Mr. Toombs declared should be enacted into law are these:

All the Exchanges should be incorporated.

In the case of a corner Exchange, Governors should be compelled to fix a settlement price, in order to save innocent purchasers from injury or ruin.

Members of Stock Exchanges should be compelled to have their books audited four times a year by certified public accountants and the results of these examinations made public in some effective way.

The listing requirements and practices of Stock Exchanges should be controlled in some degree by law and subject to review by the courts in every detail which is not now the case.

Brokers should be penalized by law for reporting a sale on an order by a customer when the sale is not actually made, and the trading on Stock Exchanges should be done on the basis of a reasonably small unit.

The hypothecating, loaning, and other uses of customers' securities held by brokers should be rigidly restrained and precautionary restrictions should be placed on the use of banking funds and speculation by big financial interests.

The practices of organizers and promoters, the reorganizers and the receivers of corpoations should have closer supervision than exists under the present laws.

The American Banknote Company, according to the records of the Secretary of State at Albany, was incorporated in 1858 with a capital of $5,000 cash, nine Trustees, and 100 shares of stock. Twenty-one years later by a consolidation agreement the company absorbed the ational Banknote Company and the Continental Banknote Company, with $100,000 capital and 72,000 shares of stock.

In 1906 the corporation increased its capital to $10,000,000, when it was reorganized by William Nelson Cromwell, the lawyer. Edmund C. Converse, the banker, was elected President. Between 1902 and 1906 several of the Directors, including Mr. Converse, Mr. Cromwell, its attorney, and F. L. Hine, gathered in as much of the stock of the concern as possible. They paid, it is said, Louis H. Porter, a son of Timothy H. Porter, the founder of the company, $60 a share for his 3,000 shares, and a similarily low price for some 5,000 shares held by estates in and around Boston. Shortly after this, it is said, American Banknote stock was quoted at $90 a share.

After Mr. Cromwell and his associates had gathered up the bulk of the loose stock, articles of incorporation were filed at Albany, and the concern became known by its present title, the United Bank Note Corporation. Although the papers of incorporation were filed on Feb. 20, 1906, it was not until two months later that the names of some of the real Directors became known. Seven certified to the payment of one-half of the company's capital stock as "$600,000 in money and $4,400,000 in property." These Directors were E. C. Converse, Warren L. Green, Francis L. Potts, Charles A. Moore, William Nelson Cromwell, F. L. Hine, and Andrew V. Stout. Under date of Dec. 12, 1905, the plan of recapitalization of the American Bank Note Company had been put out by a committee composed of Messrs. Cromwell, Converse, Hine, Freeland, and Green, with Sullivan & Cromwell as attorneys.

The new stock pays 4 per cent. on the common and 6 per cent. on the preferred. On April 2, 1909, the corporation published a statement which showed a surplus of $3,422,740. The Directors of the corporation are E. C. Converse, Warren L. Green, James R. Ford, Charles A. Moore, William Nelson Cromwell, J. R. De Lamar, F. S. Smithers, Francis L. Hine, John Mason Little, F. L. Potts, A. V. Stout, W. Nesbitt, and Senator W. Murray Crane. George H. Danforth is the Secretary, and Charles L. Lee the Treasurer.

Mr. Cromwell began to take an active interest in the affairs of the American Bank Note Company in 1902. He has the backing of President Converse and the latter's relatives, J. McDonough and Warren L Green, Mr. Hine, and Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, who inherited a financial interest in the company. Mr. Green, it is said, draws a salary at present as President of the old American Bank Note Company.

ALIEN FLOOD POURS IN.

Nearly 5,000 Immigrants Arriving Yesterday Had to be Kept on Ships.

The influx of aliens at Ellis Island in the last several days has reached such a point that the passengers on three ships arriving in New York yesterday were held on the respective vessels, it being impossible to handle them on the island.

The vessels held up were the Caronia, with 1,817 passengers from Liverpool; the Oceanic, with 1,080 passengers from Southampton, and the President Lincoln, with 1,786 passengers from Hamburg, a total of 4,683, who will be obliged to wait until to-day before being examined for admission.

On the island are 5,666 aliens, 1,550 having arrived from the Mediterranean on the Duc d'Aosta, 909 from Bremen on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, 2,316 from Naples on the Berlin, and 891 from Copenhagen on the Oscar II. The week bids fair to be almost a record breaker in the number of aliens arriving and being handled by the immigration authorities.

HAINS WANTS A NEW TRIAL.

Convicted Army Captain Will Serve Notice of Appeal To-day.

Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., who is serving a term of nine years in Sing Sing for the murder of William E. Annis, through his attorney, Eugene N. L. Young of Long Island City, will serve notice of appeal to-day from the conviction and sentence of the court in an application for a new trial on District Attorney Frederick C. De Witt and County Clerk Martin Mager of Queens County.

This decision was arrived at after a conference in Mr. Young's office yesterday, at which Gen. Peter C. Hains, father of the convict, was present.

GIRL HELD ON A CABLEGRAM.

Her Father in Holland Wired That She Was to Meet a Married Man Here.

Wilhelmina Kerling, a Dutch girl, is being held by the immigration officials pending an investigation into the circumstances surrounding her coming to this country. The girl was a first cabin passenger on the White Star liner Oceanic, which arrived yesterday from Southampton. A few days before that, the Netherlands Consular office in New York received this message:

> Agreeing with the Foreign Office, I beg that you will see and protect my daughter, Wilhelmina Kerling, sailing as Wilhelmina Van Loon on the steamship Oceanic to meet one van der Sloton, a married man.

The immigration officials were notified and the Inspectors who boarded the vessel yesterday morning were armed with special instructions not only to detain the young woman, but to find out all they could about the man. W. P. Montyn, representing the Netherlands, was on hand. He furnished the officials with the information that Miss Kerling was coming under the name of Wilhelmina de Klerek, and it was under that name that she was found.

She is about 22 years old, well educated, and speaks English, German, and French. She tearfully admitted that she was the person sought, but indignantly denied that she was coming here to meet any man. She said her mother knew that she was sailing, and added that she would never return to Holland. Her talk led the officials to believe that she had had a dispute with her mother. She said she was a governess and wanted employment here.

Her case will be considered by a Board of Special Inquiry, and it is probable that she will be allowed to land.

MUTE RECEPTION AT WALDORF

Sixty Deaf and Dumb Persons the Guests of Miss M. M. Tracy.

More than sixty deaf and dumb persons gathered in the Astor Gallery of the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday at the invitation of Miss M. M. Tracy of 136 Fifth Avenue. Most of the guests had solved the problem of conversation by learning to read the lips.

Altogether it was strange in its aspect to see fashionably gowned women and well-dressed men talking to each other in the natural way, yet without the broad sound of articulation. There were no finger alphabet, no trumpets, tubes, or other apparatus in evidence, but everything quite natural, except the silenced voices.

Not only did the guests enjoy conversing with one another, but they were entertained by two lip-reading contests, the competition in which was spirited, but noiseless. First of all fifteen proverbs were read by Edward B. Nitchie, then came a travel contest for proper names.

It was said at the hotel that this was the first reception of its kind ever held there.

Assisting Miss Tracy in receiving were Miss Grace H. Simonson, Miss Juliet D. Clark, Miss Gertrude Cliff Goodsped, Miss Florence Taylor, and Miss Mary Caswell Joy. Others present were Mrs. J. Clifford Richardson, Mrs. A. H. Holly, Mrs. J. F. Hammond, Mrs. E. C. Gilbert, and Miss A. J. Safford.

Adolph Lewisohn Buys "Frugal Meal."

Adolph Lewisohn yesterday purchased from Knoedler & Co., art dealers, Joseph Israel's painting "The Frugal Meal," which was purchased at the Yerkes sale by Knoedler for $19,000. Just what Mr. Lewisohn paid for the painting could not be learned. It is to be placed in his new home in West Fifty-seventh Street.

TEACHER SUSPENDED; PULLED A BOY'S HAIR

Though She Didn't Pull It Half Hard Enough, Says Johnnie McCarthy's Mother.

AND JOHNNIE NODS ASSENT

Board of Education Rent by the Question—Votes $2.50 for School Baseball Umpires.

Whether or not Miss Mary E. Tibbitts, a teacher in Public School 65, in South Woodlawn, Queens, pulled little Johnny McCarthy's hair hard enough to hurt him, and if so, whether she should be dismissed, or suspended without pay for six months occupied the attention of the Board of Education almost throughout its meeting yesterday. The pulling of Johnnie's hair occurred about a year ago. Miss Tibbitts was tried and found guilty of having inflicted corporal punishment, and the local School Board recommended her dismissal. The Elementary School Board changed this to a suspension without pay.

Several of the Commissioners seemed to think that Miss Tibbitts had been guilty of cruelty. Mrs. John G. McCarthy, Johnnie's mother, was of a different opinion.z

"She didn't pull it half hard enough," asserted the mother at Miss Tibbitts's trial. "Why, I do more than that to him myself."

Johnnie, who was present, assented by a vigorous nod. When he was called upon to testify he said that she "pulled my hair a little bit." When he was asked if it hurt him, he replied "Naw."

Nevertheless, Commissioner Alrick H. Man of Queens insisted that Miss Tibbitts was "a dangerous teacher to have in the schools."

"Why, I wouldn't permit a child of mine to attend a class over which she presided," exclaimed he. "It i sa well known fact that children try to avoid her, either by skipping her classes altogether or by going into a lower grade to avoid this teacher with an uncontrollable temper."

Commissioner Joseph E. Cosgrove of Brooklyn defended Miss Tibbitts.

"This is only a case of slight hair pulling," he exclaimed. "The bo ywasn't hurt a bit, as he himself testified. Miss Tibbitts was standing beside his desk with her back to him when she heard a noise and turned around to see him sliding down his seat and trying to hide behin danother boy. She reached down, and, taking hold of his hair, lifted him back into his seat. That is all there is to it."

Commissioner Abraham Stern, also of Brooklyn, said that he thought that the decision of the local board should be sustained, but suggested that if it seemed desirable to exercise clemency Miss Tibbitts be suspended without pay until Sept. 1 next, and at that time be transferred to another school. Commissioner Arthur S. Summers of Brooklyn said the whole scheme was one of the grossest attempts to persecute a teacher that he had ever heard of.

Everybody in the board took a hand in the discussion. Commissioner Cosgrove and Commissioner Man rose in their seats and pointed their fingers at each other very much as if they would like to use their fists. President Egerton L. Winthrop, Jr., rapped for order and at last managed to put a vote. The Commisisoners avenged Johnnie by a vote of 22 to 10, and Miss Tibbitts will be suspended.

The only other resolution which caused any discussion was one providing for the payment of $2.50 a day to the men who coached the schoolboys in their athletic practice and acted as umpires at their baseball games and other sports. Commissioner Metz, with his usual alertness when it comes to a question of spending the city's money, wanted to know "all about it." He said he'd gladly umpire a ball game any day for nothing, but the Commissioners decided to grant the $2.50 a day.

City Superintendent Maxwell sent a letter yesterday to the blind pupils in the public schools inclosing a note from Senator Gore. The blind Senator of Oklahoma sent greeting and a message of hope to the little people afflicted as he is, and Supt. Maxwell closed his letter with the words:

"Please bear in mind that these are the words of one who, despite the loss of sight, has raised himself to a high position of honor and usefulness."

Mayor Orders Police Sergeant on Trial

Another policeman fell a victim to Mayor Gaynor's watchfulness over the department yesterday, when Sergt. John Wilson was suspended and ordered on trial on charges of frequenting a saloon at Jay and York Streets, Brooklyn. The charges grew out of an investigation conducted by Deputy Commissioner Reynolds at the Mayor's direction.

BRINGS BRYAN'S LLAMAS.

Pets Arrive on Bluecher—Tourists Met Cook in the Andes.

The Hamburg-American liner Blücher arrived yesterday after the first cruise ever made by a passenger vessel to South America. She was away eighty-one days, and her three hundred passengers went as far as the Strait of Magellan, visiting many out of the way places.

It was a souvenir-laden crowd that landed yesterday morning. Every passenger carried bows and arrows used by Patogonians, models of canoes, articles of domestic use, parrots, monkeys, and other things gathered in strange lands.

Gould C. Dietz of Omaha brought the strangest collection. He had a Siamese cat, a monkey, and two llamas. The last two he is taking out West for William J. Bryan. Mr. Deitz and Mr. Bryan, who are friends, met in Buenos Ayres, the Mayor of which city presented Mr. Bryan with the llamas. As Mr. Bryan was to wander far afield before returning, he asked Mr. Deitz to bring his pets home.

The great event on the Blücher was when she crossed the equator. Neptune came on board, and to the great enjoyment of everybody one hundred and fifty men were "shaved" and ducked by his attendants in a big tank rigged on deck.

The passengers were received in Montevideo by President Plaudio Williman of Uruguay. At Punta Arenas they were welcomed on the Pourquois Pas, commanded by Dr. Jean M. Charcot, the antarctic explorer. For twelve days the Blücher was at anchor at Buenos Ayres while her passengers made the trip across the Andes to Valparaiso and Santiago de Chile.

While on that trip they met with Dr. Cook, who was traveling as "Dr. Craig." The explorer did not court attention and denied his identity. Mr. Deitz took a snapshot of "Craig," but was unable to find it among his effects on the pier.

MARITIME CANDIDATE QUITS.

Dalzell Tells His Supporters Publicity Is Bad for the Exchange.

The election contest at the Maritime Exchange is off. Fred B. Dalzell, the independent candidate, who was induced by his friends to run as an opponent of Charles R. Norman, the regular nominee, announced yesterday afternoon that he would withdraw from the race. The withdrawal of their candidate for President took the "insurgents" on the board by surprise. They had been campaigning vigorously on his behalf, and felt sure he would win, but he told them he had changed his mind.

The excitement and attendant publicity he did not believe was good for the board, he said, and the other candidates had persuaded him not to stick.

As the time for making nominations has expired, it is too late to put up another candidate to take Mr. Dalzell's place. Those who favored his candidacy were the younger and more active members, who thought that Mr. Norman had had the office long enough, and did not like his Standard Oil affiliations.

SURROGATE SCORES LAWYER.

Evidence in Will Contest Shows Dayton Made Love to the Testator.

Surrogate Thomas reserved decision yesterday on the suit of Mrs. Gertrude A. Forman to set aside the will of her aunt, Mrs. Caroline Amelia Brundage, and allowed counsel two weeks to submit briefs. Concerning Mrs. Brundage's friendship for young lawyers, the Surrogate said:

"The evidence would seem to indicate that Silas A. H. Dayton obtained a great deal of money from Mrs. Brundage by coarse, shameless, and absurd endearments entirely discreditable to his integrity and showing her to have been a foolish old woman, but I do not see how that invalidates her will."

Mary Cooley, a maid, testified that Mrs. Brundage told her that she expected to marry George S. McDonald, Dayton's law partner, and said she had given him first $10,000 and then $5,000 to get a divorce that he might marry her. Mrs. Brundage, the maid said, took to drinking when McDonald told her he had married another woman. Preparations for her wedding to McDonald had gone so far, the maid said, that Mrs. Brundage was arranging for a wedding breakfast at the St. Regis Hotel.

The will left $20,000 to St. Luke's Hospital, $7,000 and jewelry to St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal Church, $10,000 to the Rev. Dr. Nathan A. Seagle, its pastor, and various sums to charitable and philanthropic purposes. If the will is set aside the estate of $250,000 will be divided between Mrs. Forman and William H. Young, a nephew, who is not contesting the document.

WASN'T TRYING TO SMUGGLE.

So Government Releases Rangel's $10,000 Jewels It Had Held Up.

After a long hearing before Deputy Surveyor Smyth and M. Percy Andrews at the Custom House yesterday the jewelry taken from Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Rangel on their arrival Tuesday on the steamship Allianca was returned to them.

No proof of intent to smuggle was produced, while there was proof that they had declared the jewels as "en route" to France. An order was issued for the passing of the Rangel baggage, and it will be put on the French liner Provence, upon which the Rangels will continue their journey.

Rangel said that he and his wife reside for a time each year in Paris. He is a dealer in jewelry and antiques in Quito, Peru, where he had purchased $10,000 worth of old jewelry, including a ruby-studded cross from the Archbishop there.

A $1,000 pearl necklace he said he had given to his wife. He got it in a trade in Lima. A bracelet set with diamonds, the diamond rings his wife wore, and other rings he proved were wedding presents.

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS ON HILLTOP

Yankees and Red Sox Play First Game Here—Giants Start Schedule at Boston.

WHERE THE TEAMS PLAY TO-DAY.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Boston at New York—3:30 P. M.
Cleveland at Detroit.
Philadelphia at Washington.
St. Louis at Chicago.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

New York at Boston.
Brooklyn at Philadelphia.
Pittsburg at St. Louis.
Chicago at Cincinnati.

The day has arrived. The baseball season of 1910 will open in eight major league cities to-day, assuming, of course, that the weather will be fine. Right here at home activity in the busy marts of trade will slow down this afternoon about 3 o'clock and citizens will lay aside the heavy responsibilities of life and chock the Subway to American League Park, where, on the breeze-swept hilltop, the Yankees, tuned to concert pitch by Manager Stallings in sunny Georgia, will bid the Boston Red Sox welcome. Patsy Donovan has succeeded Fred Lake as manager of the Bostons, and they promise to show more speed than they did last year when at one period they threw a scare into the Detroits and became a factor in the league race. This same Red Sox troupe played a series with the Giants at the Polo Grounds at the end of last season. Remember?

The game to-day will begin at 3:30 o'clock. The flags will wave in the air which wafts over from the Hudson, the brass band will play tunes with which you can keep time by stamping your feet, and then a loud gong will clang, an umpire will step forth and announce the batteries, and with all the power of his inflated lungs will yell something which, translated into English, means "Play ball." Hal Chase will make his début as Captain of the team.

The Gaints went to Boston yesterday, and to-day will open the season in that city against the Boston Nationals. Fred Tenney will tell the story of this battle in to-morrow's TIMES. The Brooklyns, after a finel touching up at Washington Park, went to Philadelphia last night, and to-day will open the season against the Philadelphia Club, of which Horace Fogel is now President.

In half of the National and American League circuits the season will start, the most promising in the history of the game, the managers say. This evening, when the sun drops into the rosy glow over the western hills, at every spot where the telegraph wire reaches the country over will be gathered little groups of folks anxiously waiting to hear if Hal Chase set off any fireworks at first, or if Mathewson still has the same old whip, or if Hans Wagner or Ty Cobb peeled the cover off the ball. Halley's comet will no longer be a prominent topic of conversation. After to-day the country will sit up and ask in loud tones, "Who's going to pitch?"

At the season's start it is the expected prediction of every manager that his team has been strengthened. The New York Americans believe that the changes in the infield and behind the bat will add great strength to the Yankees. Much is expected of Lou Criger, the old Boston and St. Louis backstop, who will be the first string catcher on the Hilltop this season. Earl Gardner will be at second and Eddie Foster, a diminutive Eastern Leaguer, will probably get the shot stop berth. These changes will undoubtedly improve the fighting abilities of the Yankees, although the team is in a sort of experimental stage. Manager Stallings will avoid the many shifts which tended to break up the harmony of the team last season. It looks like a better infield, and there is a promising squad of pitchers to pick from. Jim Vaughn, Russel Ford, Frill, and many other new men have been added to the old staff, which still includes Doyle, Manning, Warhop, Quinn, and Hughes, and much is expected from the pitching brigade this season because the presence of Criger behind the bat is calculated to help the twirlers.

Brooklyn goes against Philadelphia in that city to-day with much confidence. With Bill Dahlen at the helm the team has worked out well in the South, and is determined to make a better showing that last season.

The Giants have shown excellent form for so early in the season, and Manager McGraw looks to them to be well up in the pennant race at the end of the season. The veteran pitching staff is as good as ever, and several promising youngsters have been added to it. To strengthen the outfield Becker of Boston has been added, and he and Devore, Murray, and Seymour, who is in better shape than last year, should supply hard-hitting fielders. The catching staff has not been changed, but improvement in form is looked for in the old men, Schlei and Meyers, and also in the new men, Wilson and Snodgrass. With McGraw in charge on the coaching line New York is always a factor in the scoring.

The Giants, overburdened with young players who have not reached major league calibre, are now being weeded out. Before going to Boston yesterday Manager McGraw released six men, but it is probable that there is a string to all of them, which will be pulled back to New York if any of them shows sufficient ability. Pitcher Keiber, First Baseman Spencer, and Outfielder Shaw were sent to the Toronto Club, which is managed by McGraw's old pal, Joe Kelly. Catcher Curtis and Outfielder Kommers go to Montreal, and Indian Williams will go to New Bedford to learn more about the paleface game.

New York University easily defeated College of the City of New York on Ohio Field yesterday afternoon by a score of 9 to 3. The game was New York University's from the first, Griffen striking out three men in succession in the first inning. When New York University went to bat, Fitzelle went to second base on a fly muffed by Hatch. Sadofsky's hit brought him home. Brennan's hit and some frenzied fielding on College of the City of New York's part resulted in his getting home with Sadofsky.

College of the City of New York was next to score. They got 2 runs in the third inning, when Rosalsky's hit brought in Kieran and Brown off bases. The New York University boys made up for this, however, in their half of the same inning. By a succession of hits Fitzelle reached third base, Sadofsky second, and Yule third. Lawrence's sacrifice brought Fitzelle home. Then Brown tried to put out Sadofsky at third, but overthrew the base, and Yule and Sadofsky scored. College of the City of New York secured a run in the fifth, Miller going home on Fisher's error. In the same inning Brennan made a home run for New York University, and brought in Sadofsky also.

New York University tallied her last run in the sixth, when Lapides scored home on Griffen's hit. Griffen struck out a total of 15 men. The score:

CURTI WINS GOLD MEDAL IN FENCING

New York A.C. Member Captures First Honors in Three Weapon Tourney.

Before a fashionable and enthusiastic gathering of spectators in the gymnasium of the New York Athletic Club last evening, V. P. Curti, a New York Athletic Club fencer, won the handsome gold medal offered by President Grame M. Hammond of the National Fencers' League of America, at the annual three-weapon tournament. Four contestats took part in the finals, which was a round robin tournament. The men first fenced with foils, duelling swords, and sabres. The contestans were V. R. Curti, New York Athletic Club; G. W. Postgate, New York Turn Verein; Paul Meylen, New York Fencers' Club, and A. Strauss, New York Turn Verein.

Curti practically won the tournament in the first event for foils, when he got three wins, while each of his opponents got but one. This gave him a lead which the others could not overcome. Curti showed his best form with the foils, his attack being swift and accurate, and his defense was such that he won his bout by a good margin. He met greater opposition with the duelling swords, however, and Postgate gave him a hard battle, which resulted in a tie four different times, necessitating extra bouts. Postgate finally defeated Curti after the hadrest-fought bout of the evening.

The bouts with the sabres furnished the excitement of the evening, and in this feature of the tournament Strauss seemed to have an advantage. Curto by a brilliant rally in the last bout defeated Strauss and won the tournament. The summaries:

Princeton, 8; Villa Nova, 2.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 13.—Although Princeton defeated Villa Nova in baseball here to-day by the score of 8 to 2, the game was not so one-sided as the score would indicate. In the seventh inning Dawson reached first on Monahan's error, S. V. White advanced him to second on a sacrifice hit, and he came home on Ballin's two-base hit. Bard knocked out a two-bagger, but went out at third on Cunningham's fielder's choice, and Cunningham came in on Warwick's home run. The Tigers made two more runs in the eighth inning. The Tigers played a steady game in contrast to Villa Nova's poor fielding. A one-handed catch by Read and a sensational catch by Bard in deep centrefield were the features. The score:

COLUMBIA DEFEATS PENN.

College Players Pile Up Fourteen Errors—Locals Win, 8 to 7.

The intercollegiate championship baseball game yesterday between Columbia and Pennsylvania on South Field was a comedy of errors, each team being credited with seven misplays. The Quaker students led up to the sixth inning, when the locals tied the score and made the winning tally in the ninth inning with only one man out, the final score being 8 to 7 in favor of Columbia.

The contest was poorly played, the collegians being off in their work in the field and at the bat, while the general all-around play was very ragged. The score:

WOMEN TO WALK WITH "FANS"

Strike Sympathizers to Parade with Philadelphia Baseball Rooters.

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—It was announced by Assistant Supt. of Police O'Leary this afternoon that a street parade planned to be held to-morrow in Broad Street in celebration of the opening of the championship baseball season will be permitted notwithstanding the ban placed on street demonstrations by the authorities because of the violence attending the gathering of crowds during the street car strike in this city. The parade will be permitted, however, only on the stipulation that the marchers must be baseball rooters exclusively and that strikers and their known sympathizers must be excluded. In what manner the police will be able to separate rooters from strike sympathizers was not announced.

Since the beginning of the strike, nearly nine weeks ago, several requests from strikers and their sympathizers for parade permits have been refused by the police, and several attempts to march without such permits resulted in disorders.

It was announced this afternoon by those who have organized the women relatives of the strikers into auxiliary unions that the women will parade with the rooters to-morrow with or without the permission of the police.

In consequence he is stopping at Willoughby to-night, having made only twenty miles since leaving Cleveland at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Two Kinds of Men Buy Automobiles---

First—The man who hopes to get a good car for the smallest price and is willing to take a chance on getting his money's worth.

Second—The man who wants the BEST in cars and KNOWS the best can't be had for less than a certain price.

There are only very few American built cars in the "best" class. They are not new makes. They are cars that have won their reputations by consistently making good year after year—each year's model improving on the year's before.

For twelve years the Oldsmobile has held its place in the best class of American automobiles.

It had made its reputation long before most of the cars now on the market had ever been thought of.

It has kept its reputation and place because it is made on sane, safe lines—and built of materials—from spoke to engine—that cannot possibly be excelled in any car in any country.

The Oldsmobile has always been noted as a dependable car under all conditions—on long runs or short trips. That is why the terms Reliability and Roadability have justly been coupled with Oldsmobility.

It is a willing car—always ready to do what you ask of it—and never asking from you a vacation in the "repair shops."

And yet the 1910 Oldsmobile sells at a price $2,000 and $3,000 less than the other cars in its class—the best class!

The man who really wants one of the best cars should stop in at our show-rooms, Broadway and 51st Street, and see for himself the 1910 Oldsmobiles in their different models—Four and Six Cylinder.

A very critical examination and test (not merely a demonstration) will prove the car's qualities. Therefore, our invitation, though conventional—is sincere.

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, APRIL 14, 1910.

MR. ROOSEVELT AS PEACEMAKER.

The reports that reach us from Washington as to the probable intention of Mr. Roosevelt to discuss with the crowned heads of Germany and Great Britain the restriction of armaments are as yet unauthoritative, but every sensible student of the present situation of nations may well hope that they are correct. To use the influence which his remarkable career has given to him in all proper furtherance of peace and diminution of the burden and awful harm of war would be a noble undertaking, testifying to lofty aspirations faithfully pursued.

Probably no American could address the King of England or the German Emperor with such weight as Mr. Roosevelt. The actual President could not, for his utterances would not have the freedom of personal intercourse and independence. Mr. Roosevelt enjoys the prestige of the Presidency without its limitations. His public record is distinguished and has been in entire harmony with the project now attributed to him. While in office he was a strenuous advocate of general disarmament and as strenuous in insisting on reinforcing the navy of his own country so long as restriction or reduction could not be generally secured. Our representatives at The Hague Conference of three years ago were instructed by him to do all in their power to obtain an agreement as to diminution of preparations for war, and they followed their instructions with zeal and energy. Mr. Roosevelt in his official and unofficial utterances urged this plan as the only one that could really forward practically the cause of peace. These utterances received special influence and significance from the fact that their author was the complete opposite of a "peace-at-any-price" man, was in profession and in practice a defender of the right and duty of each country to maintain readiness for war proportioned to the readiness of others until the general scale could be changed.

With the German Emperor Mr. Roosevelt's standing is peculiarly favorable for the discussion of this subject. Not only have they much in common in temperament and ideals and methods, but there exists between them the sympathy of actual friendship developed by correspondence. With the King of England he maintains less intimate personal relations, but will meet him with the advantage of the close friendship of the two peoples and their inherent community of sentiment and purpose. Of course, it is not to be denied that the situation of the realms over which these two monarchs preside is a difficult one, in which the reduction of armaments or even the cessation of their increase necessarily encounters tremendous obstacles. On the one hand England holds that she must be impregnable by sea, for her very national existence depends on it. On the other hand Germany finds it very hard to be asked to abandon on the sea the manifestation of that national strength that has made her army the greatest in the world and her commerce the most progressive of the century, and to consent to this abandonment at a moment that the naval force of England is more powerful than her own. That in a few words is the real situation with which any one, Emperor or King or distinguished citizen who enters on the discussion of the restriction of armaments, must be prepared to deal. If England is to consent to the limitation of her naval power she must have some adequate guarantee that she will be safe with her present power. If the guarantee takes the form of limitation of German naval power Germany is asked permanently to put up with subordinate position.

The possible way out that has been suggested is a general international insurance, so to speak, and it may be this which Mr. Roosevelt has in mind. Whatever his conception of future policy may be, the fact remains that the use of his influence in any way that is feasible will be an honorable thing for him to undertake, and will add to the esteem in which he is held abroad and at home.

COURTS-MARTIAL FOR HAZERS.

We hope President Taft will veto the bill passed by the Lower House yesterday after its approval by the Senate, providing that hazers at West Point be dignified by a trial by court-martial. Congress did enough when it graduated the degrees of punishment visited upon this offense. Secretary of War Dickinson on Feb. 17 explained to the Senate Committee on Military Affairs that this measure would hurt the efficiency of the Military Academy, which demands that the head of the school should not surrender his executive discretion in plain matters of discipline. Brig. Gen. Barry, who is a good disciplinarian, would succeed Supt. Scott "with his wings clipped," as Congressman Stevens declared yesterday. The present able head of the Military Academy is unequivocally opposed to the bill. Secretary Dickinson testifies that the military school in which he was trained expelled without courts-martial and without injustice. That is the approved practice at the Naval Academy.

The objection to this bill is that it places the fate of offending cadets in the hands of officers not responsible for the conduct of the United States Military Academy.

"MORE OR LESS ROYAL."

The Vatican household would be well advised, we think, if it could be content to consider the Papal audience denied to Mr. Roosevelt as a closed incident. Nothing is gained, quite the reverse, by repeated outgivings and explanations. The world very promptly made up its mind about the matter, and, in this country, at least, public opinion is not likely to be changed by anything that can now be said. The one conspicuous fact was that a Papal audience had been denied to an ex-President of the United States. The first conclusion was that this mistake, for obviously it was a mistake, was due to the want of tact of the Papal Secretary, Merry Del Val. The latest statement from the Vatican makes it plain that this conclusion must be revised. It now appears that the exclusion of Mr. Roosevelt from the privilege of an audience was intended. At least we can make nothing else out of the authoritative statement in explanation of the Vatican's policy that "it did not wish Mr. Roosevelt to bracket the Pope with other more or less royal personages he will boast of having hunted in Europe after his African hunt."

The use of such language concerning ex-President Roosevelt, who counts among his warm friends many prelates of the Roman Catholic Church in the United States, who has always shown great consideration for the Church and much interest in its work, may call for some explanation, and search for an explanation might not be a long one. There can no longer be any question of tact; the intent is quite unmistakable. But, in the judgment and appreciation of the Vatican, which of the high personages Mr. Roosevelt intends to visit are "more" and which are "less" royal? The ex-President, we believe, is to visit the Emperor Francis Joseph at Vienna, the Emperor William at Berlin, King Edward at London, and President Fallieres at Paris. Of course, the President of the French Republic is neither "more" nor "less" royal; he is not royal at all. The discrimination in respect to the degree of royalty must apply to one of the other three. Which is it?

LA FOLLETTISM.

There has not been in many months such a glowing argument on the merits of the railway question as that which Senator La Follette has just delivered on the floor of the Senate. It would be cruel to expect any man to carry such a head of steam as that without relief at the safety valve, and nobody could wish that the Senator should explode as the result of suppression of language and ideas. He must feel much calmer, and nobody is any the worse. In fact, many are a great deal better for the hearty laugh which he gave them. He thought he was tragic, but nobody could hope to be so humorous as he by his intense seriousness on a subject which is as funny as a farce, if the Senator only knew it. He is most at his ease when he knows least what he is talking about.

The text is the greed and malice of the railways and their oppression of the people. The awful example is the New York & New Haven Road's monopoly achieved through the wicked device of a holding company. Senator La Follette is the Lochinvar from the West who rescued helpless Massachusetts from the grasp of the octopus after two Attorneys General had abandoned her. Will it be believed that Massachusetts did not want to be rescued, and that the Attorney General of the hapless State, in his latest report, that for the current year, officially declared that there was "no merit" in the pending proceedings against the monopoly, and that he abandoned the prosecution as the Federal Attorney General had already abandoned his? Nobody can wonder that Senator La Follette was enraged by such recreancy and base betrayal of popular trust. The gratitude of Massachusetts at being rescued from nothing can only be imagined.

The Senator's denunciation of President Taft and Attorney General Wickersham and Gov. Draper and the Senators who drafted the bill which he debated and the committee that reported it—villains all—was alone worth the expenditure that purveyed his eloquence to the world which he left wondering what it was all about. He cannot be blamed for not furnishing a few more facts. He had done enough for glory and left the narrative to his humble admirers. The New York & New Haven, in pursuance of its business, bought 110,000 shares of the Boston & Maine. Massachusetts thought it was as angry at this open organization of a monopoly as the Senator thought he was. But Massachusetts came to see that the New York & New Haven was its champion instead of its enemy, and passed a law ratifying what it had forbidden and which it had sought to prosecute without finding any offense at law, not even a specially enacted law. In between there was a campaign as hot as the Senator's speech, and a hunt for the 110,000 shares as exciting as any game of "button, button, who's got the button?" Connecticut and Massachusetts quarreled with each other, there were tons of briefs and uncounted lawyers' fees. The local statesmen tried hard enough, but they disappeared from the scene long ago. Everybody is satisfied except Senator La Follette.

Frivolous people do say that in Wisconsin there are no more Republicans and Democrats, but only those who are for or against La Follette. These are mere envious backbiters. There is nobody against La Follette. Everybody is in favor of the funniest Senator who ever foamed at the mouth about nothing. It is not to be expected that his remarks should have any effect on the pending bill. They were delivered for the purpose of being franked through the mails for use by his constituents in lighting fires without matches by the use of his burning words. Let him speak again and often. It is the best hope of the Administration's railway bill. Who can tell who will vote for it if the Senator opposes it some more?

FITTING THE OTHER SHOE.

The muckrakers fitted a shoe to the captains of industry which gave them pains in their feet, and which they declared was a misfit. The other shoe of the pair remains to be fitted, and last night at the dinner of the National Metal Trades, ex-Gov. Myron T. Herrick suggested a wearer. Everybody knows that the people have to thank the Legislatures for relief from oppression by monopolies which would still be ravaging this fair land except for the excellence of the laws that have resolved them into their constitutent elements. Now Mr. Herrick suggests that there is need of somebody to rescue the people from the waste of their funds by those appointed to expend them. "Why not support Taft in his appeal for economy? Why not muckrake, probe, and regulate public expenditures for a while? To correct these manifest evils would lift a great burden from a patient, long-suffering people.

True enough Senator Aldrich has declared that the waste of the Federal Government is more than all the dividends of all the railways, or more than several leading classes of our exports taken together. But instead of reforming these conditions, the officials most to blame are asking for other tasks. The Post Office has not altered its business methods since 1835, and is run as a political annex. Yet it is seeking to be entrusted with the people's savings, although unable to manage itself without a deficit on a strictly business undertaking. Instead of muckraking those who break the laws why not pay more attention to the misdeeds of those who make and execute the laws? The Governor's question cannot be called premature, or unnecessary. There's a baker's dozen of investigations under discussion in this State alone, there are several other States doing the same on a more moderate scale, and the demand is greater than the supply of statistics regarding the cities with the same job to do. Gov. Herrick's remarks will help the good work along.

WILLIAM G. SUMNER.

Prof. William G. Sumner lectured to nine college generations. Upon the oldest and the youngest of these generations his lectures at Yale made an indelible impression. President Hadley said, upon the retirement of Prof. Sumner in 1908, that he was "one of those rare men who were born with a genius for teaching." Extolling the preceptorial system of Princeton, President Woodrow Wilson said in his last annual report that "a rare occasional man here and there may spread the contagion of mind and spirit, which is the real power of the teacher, by means of lectures and formal classroom exercises, if he be a man of exceptional genius and possess a personality which only his presence and speech are needed to interpret." Such a man was Prof. Sumner of Yale.

Prof. Sumner's classes were always too large to permit of close personal association between pupil and teacher and its peculiar benefits. But he could charge with his personality the minds of his auditors from the lecture platform. Not one who had once listened to him could thereafter read his frequent outgivings to the press and to journals of political and social science without hearing again that castiron voice and seeing the sturdy figure, the embodiment of conviction in expressing thoughts of deep wisdom and originality.

Prof. Sumner could not solve satisfactorily all his problems respecting the customs of society and what social classes owe to each other. He confessed that he could see "no force in modern society which can cope with the power of capital handled by talent," and believed that "we have no democracy now." Yet it was his prayer that we might "maintain our inherited institutions in their fullest simplicity and integrity." His masculine soul was filled with pity for womanhood, which had "the struggle for existence to contend with and also maternity." He never said that nine-tenths of marriages were failures. He did say that not more than 10 per cent. of them fully realize their ideal, chiefly because the responsibilities of marriage bear more heavily upon the wife than upon the husband. Himself at one time a clergyman, he rejoiced that "the clergy have ceased to preach theology," and that the Church no longer resisted investigation of the truth of history and nature. Until his health broke down his joy was in his power to work, and he would not be comforted when age forbade his giving to the world the complete results of his life studies. He regarded the fragments of what did assume a permanent and monumental form as "the sum of what I have accomplished." But they were not the sum. Several thousands of men now living are practicing his doctrine and carrying forward his work.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Lawyer Faces a Dilemma. A fairer charge than that addressed by Judge Holt to the Hartridge jury was probably never delivered, but it could have left no more doubt in the minds of the jurors than of the public what the verdict would have to be if the law and the facts received due consideration. Such consideration they evidently did receive, since the decision was that Mr. Hartridge had already been paid at least as much as he had earned and was not to receive a cent more.

This is, in effect, an answer to the inquiry of Mrs. Thaw's counsel: "Is a license to practice law a license to loot?" As the reply is negative it is satisfactory, so far as it goes, but, before dismissing the jury, Judge Holt made some remarks that admirably completed his charge, and at the same time emphasized the important truth that the case did not, or at least should not, end with the rendering of the verdict. As the Judge pointed out with beautiful clearness, Mr. Hartridge either made or he did not make the expenditures listed in his amazing bill. If he did not, he is guilty of perjury; if he did, he laid himself open to prosecution for obstructing the course of justice.

This is an embarrassing dilemma, or it would be if perjury, as our criminal procedure has developed, had not long since become an offense practically unpunishable, and if for an even longer time the lawyers who take criminal cases had not forgotten their obligations as officers of the court and come to assume that their one duty is to get their client off, no less when he is guilty than when he is innocent. That, in the performance of this supposed duty, they habitually do more than see to it that all of the prisoner's legal rights are observed and that the State proves its accusations against him, is perfectly well known to anybody who has been privileged to converse with representatives of this branch of the profession. They do not hesitate, after a trial is over, to admit having exercised all their ingenuity in behalf of a man of whose guilt they had no doubt, and they wax in fortune and repute in direct proportion with their success in winning immunity for crime, or, in other words, in obstructing the course of justice.

Laymen have never been able to understand how honest lawyers could do this, and their dubiety as to its rightness will be confirmed by Judge Holt's suggestion that an action will lie against a lawyer who does it.

Money Does Make a Difference. It is unfortunate that in the revocation of the decree of banishment pronounced against Mr. Romanes, not a few observers of current events will think they see confirmation of the theory that there is one law for the rich and one for the poor. For such a conclusion, too, there is seeming support in this instance in the unquestionable fact that, if Mr. Romanes had been poor and friendless, he would certainly have been sent back on the steamer by which he came. Such has been the fate of many sufferers from his disease and from others, and often the circumstances attending the deportations have been pathetic to a much greater degree than they would have been had the bar raised against him not been lowered.

As it happens, however, the possession of friends and money makes it safe to let a consumptive alien come into the country, while an immigrant who lacks both, or whose only friends are as poor as himself, is not only likely soon to become a public charge, but almost as probably he will be a centre of infection in whatever crowded tenement he takes his hopeless refuge. His exclusion is perfectly well justified, therefore, on the ground of self-protection, while the well-to-do sufferer from the same malady can safely be admitted, and in common humanity should be, if he knows or thinks that his chances of recovery will be greater here than at home.

And it is not only with the arriving immigrant that money counts as concerns tuberculosis. When the man of wealth or in comfortable circumstances discovers that he has been attacked by that disease he can, nowadays, view the fact almost with composure, for he may confidently expect to be cured. It is not that he can get better doctors, for he cannot, but that he can take a long course of treatment, and one which, while not very expensive in itself, almost inevitably necessitates the abandonment of all productive activities. It is this compulsion that so often makes the diagnosis of consumption little less than a sentence of death for the poor man. He must work as long as he can to support himself and those dependent on him, and by the time he gives up it is too late for effective treatment, or else the failure of his scanty savings forces him away from the sanatorium he may have been fortunate enough to enter before his cure has been completed or even well started.

With a better appreciation of public interest and economy, all this will be changed, but for the present poverty and consumption form a terrible combination for its victims and all around them.

Technicality Raised in Vain. Relief mingled with more than a little of surprise will be caused by the news that the indictments found against the Pittsburg grafters will stand, in spite of the fact that the foreman of the Grand Jury by which they were found lacked the qualification of being a duly qualified elector in the State of Pennsylvania.

This is just the sort of empty and irrelevant technicality that has so often been raised in defense of men with money and influence when they were charged with crime, and such pleas have so often proved effective in postponing their punishment or preventing it altogether, that the general expectation probably was that the court before which this one was presented would also feel obliged to declare that the Pittsburg Grand Jury was illegally organized and its actions void. But Judge Frazer has taken a different course. He decides that while the law as to electors might be applicable, it is not necessarily so and he refuses to apply it on the ground that to do so, especially after indictments have been found, "would be to open the door to endless confusion and cause unnecessary delay in the administration of justice."

That has a most refreshing sound, and for once the old contention that the law is common sense has been vindicated.

A SUFFRAGIST BARRISTER.

Says Mrs. Johnston-Wood Practices Arts of Legal Fence.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An almost endless discussion could be carried on by Mrs. Johnston-Wood, and any other person who felt inclined to take up her side of the suffrage controversy, if the matter is to be carried into the citation of special cases or the review of ancient laws and conditions. I endeavored to demonstrate, and think I succeeded,

First—That in common law the husband and father had been and still is recognized as responsible before the law for the support of his wife and family; and that changing conditions had modified this attitude until

Second, many discriminations had been made in favor of women through the recognition of the fact that she is entitled to protection at the hands of society through the accident of her sex;

Third—That these changes had been brought about through legislation resulting from the presence of public opinion, and without the aid of the ballot in the hands of women; and Fourth—That consequently the necessity for Woman Suffrage to alter any existing conditions could not be used as an argument in its favor.

Mrs. Johnston-Wood is, I believe, a practicing lawyer, and therefore naturally she turns to the weapons she is accustomed to use in pleading a case. We all know that there is no cause so weak that some decisions cannot be found which can be used to bolster it up and twisted into some kind of favorable argument. It is the obligation of judge or jury, as the case may be, to separate the false from the true, and to decide as justly as is humanly possible for right and truth. In the present controversy, as in the larger one of Woman Suffrage, the decision is in the hands of the people, whose consciences in the end make our laws. So far the people do not want Woman Suffrage. After years of agitation, trouble, and expense only one million names have been obtained for the much talked of "Congressional petition." There are about ninety millions of people in this country, and out of that number enough adults to make the million names look foolish, even if every one could be verified at the moment, which is impossible, as they have been gathered for months, even years.

There are something like forty thousand members of different suffrage societies in this State, but there are several millions of adult residents, and it is not necessary to recall the constant and active efforts that have been made to create an influential and numerous Woman Suffrage party. My figures do not pretend to be exact, for absolute exactitude is impossible.

So far as I am concerned, this letter finishes the argument with Mrs. Johnston-Wood. I took issue with her pamphlet on certain points, and feel that my position is proved, so further discussion on side issues does not tempt me.

Massachusetts Suffrage Amendment.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Our association has been somewhat surprised not to have seen in any of the New York City papers a report of the vote in the Massachusetts Legislature on the woman suffrage amendment. There has been so much interest in the subject that perhaps you will give us space to answer some of the many inquiries which come to our office. The Massachusetts House refused, 47 to 148, to substitute for the adverse report the Julia Ward Howe resolve for an amendment to the Constitution, striking the word "male" from the qualification of voters. The figures in this vote are practically the same as those of last year, thus adding another to the long list of defeats of woman suffrage amendments.

Capitalizing "Ungodly Curiosity."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"The ungodly curiosity of the outside world will want to know all about this; there is not a newspaper in this country or in Great Britain that won't have all that occurred here to-morrow morning. Now, brethren, make your pledges to-day."

This sentence, uttered by one of our well-known ministers a day or two ago when trying to raise funds for the new church building, aptly illustrates the fact that he, at least, well understood the motive that would cause most of his congregation to give liberally, and he took advantage of this by attacking their weakest part.

It also goes to show, by the way, that even our ministers are not above appealing to purse pride, vanity, show, vulgarity, when they think that by so doing they can serve their ends.

Edward Payson Weston's Feat.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why does not this city take some recognition of the wonderful physical feat of Edward Payson Weston and plan a welcome to him on his arrival here? Weston, at 72, is doing what not another person in the eworld can do, and it will be of benefit to us for generations.

Some of the papers have seen fit to question his mileage, yet, allowing their claim, he is doing the distance from coast to coast in record-breaking time.

Some months ago New York established a record for folly in welcoming a genuine fakir who furnished no proofs whatever. Of course we cannot give Weston the key, because our honorable Board of Aldermen gave it to the other fellow, but recognition and a welcome would not be out of place.

"Calling It to" Our Attention.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I smile here? It is rather a risky matter to pick you up on a grammatical error, but in to-day's editorial article on the "Berlin Demonstration" you say "the Government were," and further on "the Government has."

This seems peculiar to me, and I am somewhat timid about calling it to your attention. At the same time, if I may grin slightly at New York's "Old Reliable," I am pleased to say the least. I've been waiting for what I consider a good opportunity, and hope I have hit one. If not, why, there you are, and I'll wait a little longer.

Self-Supporting Negro Institutions.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If Hampton Institute and the other negro schools will educate 1,000 women to be good cooks, with the agreement that for one year thereafter the graduate cooks pay the institutions $10 per month toward supporting such schools, it would furnish a fund of $120,000, which would go a long way toward helping the institutions.

Such cooks could obtain $25 per month at least, which would leave them with $15 per month for themselves in the first year, besides having a good home and kindly treatment.

Housewives Not Unoccupied.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read with interest the item in your paper to-day about the Kentucky housewives insisting on being properly classified. Good for Kentucky. New York should do the same. Most of us agree that the profession of housewife is a most honorable and useful one, and this is just the time to put such opinion on record. Can't the census authorities be induced to make this classification, and direct the census takers to suggest it to housekeepers?

SHIPPERS TO SHARE SUITS.

May Be Prosecutors Before Commerce Court in Amended Railway Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The Senate disposed of several committee amendments to the Administration Railroad bill to-day. No set speeches were made, and the discussion throughout was confined to amendments pending at the time. Chief among the amendments agreed to was the change proposed on Monday by Senator Cummins, and accepted by Mr. Elkins for the committee. This concession, which will enable the complaining shipper after winning his case before the Inter-State Commerce Commission to appear by counsel before the Commerce Court, and be a party with the Government to the case, is regarded by the insurgents as an important victory over the organization.

The one limitation on the shipper's right to be represented in court was that the court could make such regulations as the nature of the case required for his participation with other shippers and the Government in defending the commission's order. Even this limitation was further reduced by an amendment submitted to-day by Senator Bacon, a Georgia Democrat, specifying that the regulations should be identical with those now in vogue in courts of equity. This amendment was accepted by Mr. Elkins.

There was some debate on Mr. Elkins's amendment making the pending bill when passed go into effect sixty days after its passage. Mr. Cummins said he thought this gave the railroads too much time for nullifying some of the provisions of the bill, while Mr. Bacon showed the Democratic hostility to the measure by declaring that, as the bill was bad, the longer its going into effect could be postponed the better it would be.

The powers of the commission to fix through rates where a part of the route is by water was under discussion when the Senate went into executive session and shortly after adjourned.

REVISED DOWN, SAYS PAYNE.

Declares His Tariff Goes Farthest That Way of Any Passed by Congress.

The following letter has been received in this city from Sereno E. Payne, Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives, and as such one of the persons most largely responsible for the present or Payne-Aldrich tariff law:

Committee on Ways and Means, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., April 11, 1910.
J. S. Bache & Co., 42 Broadway, New York City:

Gentlemen—You honor me with a circular in which you state; If no extra session of Congress had been called to revise the tariff, it would not have been revised upwards on a downward promise, and the split in the Republican Party would have been avoided. This shows you have not examined the question, or you would not make the statement. You are not to be blamed for taking, however, the statements of newspapers who have condemned the bill without any examination. The revision was a downward revision, more so than any bill ever passed by Congress.

I have not time to go into the other matters stated in your circular, and advise you to study the tariff question before you reassert the statement in your publication.

Yours very truly, SERENO E. PAYNE.

REPORT ON GUN EXPLOSION.

Meyer Replies to House Inquiries Regarding Fatal Accident on Charleston.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—In connection with the disastrous explosion which recently occurred aboard the cruiser Charleston in Philippine waters and the responsibility for the manufacture of the gun forgings and castings, a report to the House was made to-day by Secretary of the Navy Meyer in response to a resolution calling for details.

Mr. Meyer set forth the inquiry board's findings that the accident in which eight men were killed was due to premature discharge of a three-inch gun during target practice. He advised the House that the forgings of the gun were made by the Crucible Steel Company of America at Harrison, N. J., and the small castings for the breech mechanism at the naval gun factory in this city, where the parts were assembled.

INJURED WORKMEN.

Compensation Is Not Made Compulsory in the Phillips Bill.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I assume that the writer of the editorial article. "The Risks of Labor," which appeared in THE NEW YORK TIMES of April 11, is thoroughly familiar with Assembly bills 1,392 and 1,394, introduced by Mr. C. W. Phillips, in accordance with the recommendations of Senator Wainwright's Commission, and I desire to call the attention of such writer to the following point:

The bill 1,394 does not make compensation to injured workmen compulsory for the employer. No provision is made in the bill to compel employers to pay to their injured workmen the compensations specified in the bill. As a matter of fact, employers may, after the accident has occurred, neglect to pay any compensation.

In such case the injured employe may choose two ways:

(1) Sue the employer at common law.

(2) Avail himself of the provisions of the bill and start proceedings against the employer, serving him a "notice of the accident."

But in serving such notice the employe waives all rights of suing the employer at common law. In fact, Section 218 of this bill says: "By beginning proceedings in any manner on account of any such injury he (the employe) shall be barred from recovering in every other action at common law or under any other statute on account of the same injury."

So, while the serving of the "notice of accident" despoils the employe of the right of suing at common law, the employer remains free either to accept voluntarily the provisions of the compensation bill or to wait until the injured employe brings an action to recover such compensation in any court having jurisdiction of an action for recovery of damages for injuries.

The proposed bill does not relieve the injured workman of the burden of a legal suit, it does not make compensation for injuries automatically payable by the employer, it leaves the employer practically free to wait, when it shall come, a decision of a court before paying one cent to the injured workman, and it deprives the employe of the right of suing the employer at common law after he has served the "notice of the accident."

Other parts of this bill are objectionable (1) because of the small number of works determined to be dangerous, (2) because in case of temporary disability the injured employe does not acquire any right to compensation before two weeks of disability, (3) because no provision is made to guarantee to the employe the payment of compensation in case of the bankruptcy of the employer. But the weakest part of the bill is that already pointed out.

This particular criticism does not apply to the general work done by the Wainwright Commission, which is highly commendable, and to the provisions of bill 1,392, which merit indorsement.

LIKE FLUTTERING THINGS.

Like fluttering things they fall!
Each landlord's gentle call.

Away, away to where the day
Is cooled by mountain breezes;
Where daisies sway and pullets lay
And housewives make their cheeses!

Away, away, where lampkins play
And garden sass is blooming;
Where skies are gay and boarders pay
Six per for board and rooming!

Away, away, from cities gray,
From towns all hot and smoking;
Come where all night the skeeters bite
And frogs are blithely croaking!

Away, away, where lovers stray
Along the bosky hollows;
Where chickens cheep and in the deep,
Dank trough his pigship wallows.

Like fluttering things they fall—

PURE DRUG FIGHT GAINING RECRUITS

300 REMEDIES RESTRICTED

Not Necessary to Put Them Into the Pharmacopoeia, as They Are in General Use.

Out of the discussion by the New York Branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association on Monday evening of the best means for reaching true standards of all drugs which may be used by physicians in this country was evolved a plan, it was stated yesterday, which, in the opinion of many, will go a long way toward protecting the Nation's sick if it is adopted by the American Pharmaceutical Association and the American Medical Association at their meeting in Washington on May 10.

This plan, suggested by Dr. Henry H. Rusby, a member of the Revision Committee of the present Pharmacopoeia, and, it is said, agreed to by Dr. Egbert Le Fevre, Dr. W. A. Bastedo, and other leading physicians who have ideas of their own on the subject, permits the division of pharmacy of the American Medical Association to be represented on the Revision Committee of the Pharmacopoeia, with the privilege of compiling a restricted list of drugs which they wish the entire medical profession to use. This list is to include, according to present intentions, about 300 drugs in more or less common use.

In the opinion of the leading members of the American Medical Association, they are the best-known medicaments, and such physicians apparently think that if the highest standards of purity and strength for these are provided and maintained, the entire medical profession will be inclined toward choosing and using them in their practice to the exclusion of others. Such a list, if adopted, is to form the first section of the Pharmacopoeia.

It is the opinion of Dr. Rusby and others working with him that a list of the character demanded by the doctors cannot possibly do harm, and doubtless in time will do good, since it is said to be the purpose of the physicians favoring the restricted list to have such choice medicaments enumerated in textbooks and taught in the medical schools, to the end that students will early come to know of those drugs which many of the leading practitioners of the present day regard as most efficacious.

On the other hand, Dr. Rusby and those like him who are bending their energies toward obtaining a higher standard and a greater purity for all drugs and pharmaceutical products of whatever character have gained an important point by way of compromise. This is that, in addition to the restricted list, a separate volume or section of the Pharmacopoeia shall be prepared to include all other standards and descriptions for drugs and pharmaceutical preparations, excepting those of proprietary nature, kept in the pharmacist's stock, whether in common use or not.

This would give them the benefit of recognition by the Federal and State drug laws and insure purity and strength. At the Monday evening meeting of the New York Branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association this resolution was adopted outlining just the step which Dr. Rusby and co-workers wish taken:

> Resolved. That all articles commonly included in the medical stock of the pharmacist, and not of a proprietary nature, should be recognized in the Pharmacopoeia, and definite standards and tests suitable for the use of the practicing pharmacist should be provided for them, in spite of the fact that their therepeutical properties may not commend them to the better informed practitioners of medicine.

The effect of putting into operation such a resolution is wise on its face, say those standing with Dr. Rusby. It will be impossible for a small group of physicians, estimated to be about 20 per cent. of their profession, however able and honest they may be, to induce the entire profession to use exclusively the 300 drugs in the restricted list, as in many instances that would involve a departure from possibly a lifetime of practice, say those favoring the inclusion of all the medical stock.

Under the Rusby plan, no matter what drug was used, its purity would be guaranteed by the Revision Committee, and whatever the error of the physician may be in prescribing it, it will at least do no harm from adulteration. It is the wish of some of the physicians to include no other drugs in the Pharmacopoeia save the restricted list, which would mean, Dr. Rusby has pointed out, that many physicians would continue to prescribe drugs for the purity or strength of which no guarantee whatever existed. It was the effort in this direction which Dr. Rusby has described as a "course of incredible folly and danger."

Dr. Rusby said last night that there were about fifty drugs in general use by allopathic physicians not yet included in the Pharmacopoeia, and an additional 100 homeopathic and other similar preparations were included.

ANOTHER COMMISSION GOING.

Mayor Hints Change of Grade Damage Men Are Not Needed.

Mayor Gaynor intimated at the meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission yesterday that the days of the change of grade damage commission are numbered. When the renewal of the lease of its offices in the Stewart Building came up he said: "I'd like to have that held up. It may be that this commission will not need offices much longer. That's the commission that has been sitting up the Bronx for the last twelve years, isn't it?"

"Yes," replied Deputy Controller Mathewson.

"Well, they probably won't need offices much longer," reiterated the Mayor. And the renewal of offices was laid over while smiles went around the room.

The members of the commission are William E. Stillings, George C. Norton, and Lewis A. Abrams. Their salaries, together with those of their office force, amount to $15,400 a year.

Several suggestions of Dock Commissioner Tomkins in connection with his plan of opening up water-front privileges were heard, but no definite action was taken. The most important recommendation was that the city take over the two years' lease of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company to Pier 34 East River.

HEBREW ORPHANS DOING WELL

Investigating Committee Finds Complaint of Boarding Places Groundless.

No justification for the charge that the children of the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Orphan Asylum, who are boarded out, are not being properly cared for was found by the committee appointed to investigate numerous complaints.

This committee, composed of Messrs. Walter E. Beer, Arthur Sachs, and Henry Woolman, in its report made yesterday says that in every single instance investigated the children were well nourished and evidently happy. Fourteen homes which sheltered twenty-three children were visited by the committee. In most cases the visits were surprises to the women looking after the little boarders, yet the committee found the children neat in person and dress.

Examination of the sleeping rooms convinced the committee that they had plenty of fresh air, and the rosy, plump appearance of the children told of good food and proper attention.

"In every place but one," says the committee, "we found a good bathroom. In the one case where there was not a bathroom the children, strange as it may seem, were among the neatest we visited. The woman explained to us that she used the bathroom in her daughter's house in the next block."

Every home visited had a parlor, the committee reported, and none of the homes presented evidences of what might be termed poverty. The result of the investigation is that the Superintendent of the asylum, Dr. Bernstein, is warmly commended for the care he is taking of the children.

PLAY BY M. BRIEUX SEEN AT THE COMEDY

HIGHLY INTERESTING WORK

Admirable Characterization by Laurence Irving, and Some Good Acting by Mabel Hackney and Others.

THE THREE DAUGHTERS OF MONSIEUR DUPONT, a play in four acts, by Eugene Brieux, adapted by Laurence Irving. Comedy Theatre.

Monsieur Dupont	Laurence Irving
Angele	Dorothy Dorr
Caroline	Emily Wakeman
Madame Dupont	Isabel Waldron
Julie	Mabel Hackney
Monsieur Mairaut	J. Hooker Wright
Madame Mairaut	Jeffreys Lewis
Antonin	Charles Millward
Courthezon	Alfred Cahill
Lignol	Henry Mortimer
Monsieur Pouchelet	Henry Scarborough
Madame Pouchelet	Pauline Whitson
Justine	Louise Wolfe
Francoise	Ellen Siggerts

"In life one must learn to make concessions." After all, is not that the sum and substance of all philosophy? It is certainly the sum of the moral, feminist or otherwise, of Eugene Brieux's remarkable play, "The Three Daughters of M. Dupont," very excellently translated and very ably acted in its principal rôle by Mr. Laurence Irving at the Comedy Theatre last night. Whether New York will take to Brieux or not is, as Mr. Irving remarked, a hard matter to determine. But it is well to have these opportunities of becoming familiar with his work.

For M. Brieux's plays are exceptionally interesting. And they are real in the sense that they people the stage with real ideas expressed in the words and actions of people who are true to life.

M. Brieux is essentially the dramatist of the French middle class. And, of course, in the lobby one heard again last night that his play would not be understood. The French marriage laws are so very different; conditions are not the same. What nonsense! Must all drama narrow itself down to a provincial outlook? Even so unhappy marriages and the causes leading up to them are general enough to make the major theme of "The Three Daughters of Monsieur Dupont" plain. That ought to be the play's strength for people anywhere. And its humor, too, is universal. For it is the humor of conditions created by slavish acceptance of convention.

M. Dupont in the last analysis is just an average sort of rogue, and a most amusing one. He is a martinet in his own household, and he prides himself on his astuteness and his shrewdness. True, he has had bad luck with his daughters, one of whom made a mistake, and was turned out of the house, to go altogether to the bad in consequence, another of whom, having no marriage portion, is an old maid, and a third, who might go begging for a husband, but for the fact that there are other parents just as roguish, if not quite so clever as this M. Dupont. Of the three daughters Julie is the only one who apears to have any positive voltion of her own, though all three are beautifully drawn, the old maid, a religious enthusiast, narrow to the last degree, the outcast, a woman who has learned how little the world holds for one who has no anchor in the home, Julie, finally, with a dawning of the feminist conscience and point of view, but not yet strong eough to maintain her independence.

On both sides there is deception to bring about an agreement for the marriage—duplicity on the part of the parents, pretense of affection on that of the principals. The suitor hovers between passion and mere greed, the girl herself is led into the match through fear of losing a last chance, but, primarily, because of a strong maternal instinct. And in the end there is bitterness and disappointment all around. The Duponts have expected added prosperity through a legacy from a rich uncle of their son-in-law, though the Marauts, at the time of the betrothal knew that the man has lost every sou. The Marauts, on their part, have counted on twice the sum which Julie can bring their son as a dowry. Young Maraut awakes to the fact that his wife does not love him, that she is unwilling to play the rôle of both mistress and servant in his household, and Julie herself, after a superb scene which discovers that there has been wrong on both sides and that something is to be said by each in extenuation of his or her position—as there almost always is—finally learns that her hope of a child, the one consolation in all her distress, is to denied her.

Here occurs a scene of sheer brutality, real enough, no doubt, but which might with advantage be modified in this country, for, after all, the Anglo-Saxon, or, at any rate, the American viewpoint on these matters is so strong that the sight of husband and wife in a wild struggle for the mastery is not particularly affecting. This is a detail, however.

The play as a play is interesting in its revelation of types and character and point of view, and through it all moves the figure of M. Dupont—capitally realized by Mr. Irving in make-up and in acting—the shrewd, calculating bourgeois, a man with all the petty vanities and ambitions of his class, anxious to shine in his neighbor's eyes, afraid of their gossip, calculating every action from the point of view of "what will people think."

When his unfortunate daughter is coming home after years of absence he confesses to a certain amount of feeling at the prospect, but can he meet her at the station? Suppose some on should see him and ask him whom he comes to see? Even the very words with which he is to greet her are carefully rehearsed. Happily, they are forgotten in the interview—one of the truest and most human touches in the play—when the fallen woman, after many years, slinks again into the bosom of her family, only to find it cold and unfriendly. But if the figure of Dupont is excellent, no less so are the others, from the daughter and the mother on the one side to the grasping Mother Mairut on the other, dominating her shrinking husband, until, at the very last, with everybody trying to make capital out of the misfortunes of the children, he finally asserts himself and brings some sense of justice into play.

For those who think seriously at a play this one is by no means all pleasant, but the character of M. Dupont and Mr. Irving's playing of it are so filled with dry humor, so lightened with real touches true to character, that it is almost always amusing. Miss Hackney, too, plays with light and shade, and for the most part with an excellent suggestion of the phases of the type of woman Julie would suggest. She is not quite equal, however, to the full expression of the emotions in the stronger scenes.

Of the others, Miss Jeffreys Lewis is unusually successful in the rôle of Mrs. Mairut, while Charles Millward, barring some stiffness and an explosive speech when excited, plays very well as the husband. Miss Dorr's emotionalism is generally somewhat theatrical. In the rôle of the old maid Miss Emily Wakeman is properly colorless and self-effacing. The others, including Isabel Waldron, J. Hooker Wright, and Alfred Cahill are equal to their tasks.

TETRAZZINI FOILS LAWYER.

Soprano Boards Mauretania at Night and Evades Attachment in Suit.

To avoid process servers Luisa Tetrazzini secretly boarded the Mauretania, which sailed yesterday, on Tuesday night. The soprano had not announced her sailing date to any one but her impresario, whom she asked to come down to see her off. On Tuesday night it is said that she sent two maids on ahead of her to prepare the way, and finally boarded the Mauretania by the steerage gangplank, thus adding one more to the picturesque goings away of opera stars.

The process servers, it is said, were trying to attach property of the prima donna on account of the suit of Isadore Lerner, who is trying to collect $30,000 from Mme. Tetrazzini. Earlier in the year she had been served with papers at her home at 245 West End Avenue. It was agreed at that time that the case was to go over until November, but evidently the plaintiff thought there was danger of her not returning to this country. At any rate, he made a determined effort to attach her trunks, containing jewels and costumes, pending an examination before the trial.

Mme. Tetrazzini told her friends that she would be back next season and would then be perfectly willing to dispose of what she called the "ridiculous suits of the Lerner person."

Giovanni Zenatello also sailed on the Mauretania. He said that he would come back next season to try his lawsuit with Oscar Hammerstein and to sing at the Boston Opera House.

HILDA TREVELYN WEDS.

Actress in Barrie's Plays Married to Sydney Blow, Playwright.

Barrie's plays, among them those of Moira, in "Little Mary"; Babbie in "The Little Minister"; Amy in "Alice Sit by the Fire"; Tweenie in "The Admirable Crichton," and Maggie Shand in "What Every Woman Knows." On her mother's side she is descended from the Foulon family of French Revolutionary fame.

Mr. Blow is the author of several theatrical sketches which have been produced in London. His play "Where Children Rule," was a London success last Christmas.

HAMMERSTEIN DID NOT SAIL.

Defers Departure for Europe Till Saturday—To Engage Russian Ballet.

Oscar Hammerstein did not sail yesterday on the Mauretania as he had planned to do, but he expects to be able to get away Saturday on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria. He will stop in Paris a few days before proceeding to St. Petersburg, where he will engage a Russian ballet, which will be one of the features of next year's opera season at the Manhattan and Philadelphia Opera Houses.

Mr. Hammerstein announces that in the future he will not allow any discount to the agencies, and that F. Rullman will be the only agency which will handle the Manhattan Opera House tickets.

The change in the policy of the Philadelphia Opera House, which has resulted in two performances a week being announced there for next season, on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, will make the Manhattan subscription performances fall on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings and Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. Popular priced performances will be given on Saturday evenings.

ERLANGER ARRANGES PLAN

Scheme Includes Visit of Frohman's Repertory Theatre Company—Stoll Seeks American Vaudeville Circuit.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

Savage the details of a scheme by which New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Chicago will each possess a theatre set apart entirely for European plays with European players.

Erlanger told a local interviewer today that the scheme "would give European, and he might also say British, plays and actors the distinction of an opportunity not otherwise afforded them." The scheme includes a visit from the company at Frohman's repertory theatre, where Granville Barker's "Prunella" was revived to-night.

Following upon the combination arranged between Alfred Butt, the managing director of the Palace Theatre here, and a number of American vaudeville managers, Oswald Stoll, director of the Coliseum, is also seeking to get a foothold in America. CITY THEATRE OPENS APRIL 18

New Fourteenth Street Playhouse Is Handsome and Seats 2,500.

Next Monday evening, April 18, the new City Theatre, in Fourteenth Street, will open with Ana Held in "Miss Innocence." It is owned by the City Theatre Company, composed of Timothy D. Sullivan, George J. Kraus, and William Fox. Only Broadway attractions will be played there, and Klaw & Erlanger will do the booking.

In architecture the building is French renaissance. The entrance is through a lobby twenty-five feet square, which opens on a foyer of the same width, divided for entrance to the orchestra floor and by gradient to the balcony. The mural treatment of the foyer and auditorium is Scpglivea marble and damask tapestry. The ceiling under the balcony is decorated in figure work, flowers, and tracery. The seats are of mahogany with leather backs. The drop curtain is embroidered in silk, and the picture represents a scene from the Jardin de Versailles, and the proscenium arch is of ornamental plaster finished in gold leaf. The seating capacity is 2,500.

Back of the footlights the stage is completely equipped for any sort of production. There are three dressing rooms on the stage level, and about fifty in tiers above, separated from the stage by a fireproof wall. The architect is Thomas W. Lamb. Richard Dorney, for many years house manager at Daly's Theatre, will act in the same capacity when the new theatre is opened.

CARMEN MELIS FOR PARIS.

Selected to Sing Manon to Caruso's Des Grieux in "Manon Lescaut."

It is to be a Manhattan Opera House soprano who is to help out the Metropolitan Opera company in its performances of Puccini's "Manon Lescaut" during the coming Paris season of that company, but it is not to be Mme. Cavalieri, as has been announced. Mme. Carmen Melis has been selected to sing the rôle of Manon to Mr. Caruso's Des Grieux.

This will be the first time that this opera of Puccini's has been sung in Paris, although three of his other operas have achieved enormous popularity there. The reason for this is the established position in Paris of Massenet's opera on the same subject. Now it is said, however, that Massenet himself has urged the production of the Italian composer's work.

Mme. Carmen Melis, who made her first American appearance this season at the Manhattan Opera House, and has sung "Tosca," "Bohème," and "Cavalleria Rusticana," will be a member of the Boston Opera Company next year.

WOODWARD.—At a meeting of the Clearing House Committee of The New York Clearing House Association, held this day, the following minute was unanimously adopted by a rising vote:

The Clearing House Committee, acting for the Associated Banks, records with deep regret the loss of James T. Woodward, President of the Hanover National Bank. Mr. Woodward entered actively into the work of the Clearing House as a member of the committee in the year 1895; was re-elected in 1896, and again in 1901, becoming Chairman in 1902. He was elected President of the association in 1898, which office he held for two terms, and again in 1906 he returned to the committee and acted as its Chairman during the trying times in the Fall of 1907. He was also a member of the board of the Building Association.

In all his relations with the Clearing House Mr. Woodward was conspicuous for the clearness and decision of his opinions, his ability in handling difficult situations, his courtesy to his associates, and the geniality of his personal character. The Clearing House will miss a strong and determined representative, whose decided views were fearlessly expressed, and were influential in its councils.

The sympathy and respect of the committee are tendered to the family of Mr. Woodward and to the bank which grew so largely under his management and which has become such a factor in the financial life of the city.

FIVE AMERICAN SPEEDWAY RECORDS

Oldfield Performance Was Most Noteworthy at Los Angeles Auto Meet.

PLAYA DEL REY, Cal., April 13.—Five new American Speedway records were established on the Motordrome to-day. The most noteworthy was the half mile made by Barney Oldfield in his Benz car in 17.91 seconds. Oldfield also drove a kilometer in 22.88 seconds, lowering his former mark made at Indianapolis by 1.4 seconds.

The fifty-mile free-for-all proved the most exciting race of the day. Ralph De Palma drove his Fiat cyclone the fifty circuits without a stop in 37:55:53, a new record. At the start De Palma and Kerscher in a Darracq set the pace, and reeled off the first five miles in 3:36.15. The Stoddard-Dayton was running third. At the end of ten miles the Fiat and the Darracq were still fighting it out for the lead, with Harroun's Marmon third. Time, 7:18.08. They continued in these positions lap after lap, the Fiat finishing twenty miles in 14:44.54, never leading by more than a dozen yards. Kerscher would rush up on even terms at times, and in the twenty-first mile led by a few feet. The thirty miles were made in 22:42.95. In the thirty-seventh mile Kerscher threw a tire on the upper turn, and stopped a sixteenth of a mile beyond the wire. He did not return to the track. In the next mile the Marmon drew up in the paddock for a new tire, and the Stoddard-Dayton moved into second place, where it remained to the end.

The first heat of the ten-mile free-for-all was won by Ben Kerscher in a Darracq, with De Palma, in a Fiat, second. Time, 7:01. George Robertson was too ill to drive his Simplex in this race to-day, but he is expected out for the second heat to-morrow.

In the five-mile free-for-all handicap the seven starters finished close together. The Stoddard-Dayton, driven by Al Livingstone, won. The Marmon was second and the Isotta third. Time, 3:50.55. In the time trials Bragg drove a Fiat two miles in 1:15.96, a new amateur record, and Nikrent sent the Buick "40" ten miles in 7:35.87 for a new class record. Kerscher drove the Darracq three miles in 1:57.71.

JEFFRIES GOES FISHING.

Prizefighter Eases Up in Training—May Overtrain, It Is Feared.

BEN LOMOND, Cal., April 13.—With the exception of a long drill over the muddy roads in the morning, James J. Jeffries took a vacation to-day. A crowd of Santa Cruz admirers of the fighter spent part of the morning straining their necks to get a glimpse of the former champion through the dusty windows of the gymnasium. They were repaid for their efforts by a brief glimpse as Jeffries came in from his road work and entered his quarters.

Carpenters were at work on the gymnasium this afternoon, tearing a hole in the roof to allow light and air to enter. New mats and other apparatus will be installed within a few days. On account of the changes, Jeffries finding it impossible to work in the gymnasium, took his rod and reel and went fishing.

"It is a mistake to think that training consists only in these workhorse stunts," he said to a visitor. "I get lots of good out of this fishing trip, and the sport of it keeps me from going stale."

Jeffries passed up boxing to-day on advice of his trainers and attendants, who feared he was setting a bit too fast a pace in the last few days.

Old associates of Jeffries who have studied the fighter closely say the psychological element figures in his development more than that of any other pugilist, and that he requires a certain amount of sport and diversion in his training—or he goes stale.

SULLIVAN GOES OUT QUICK.

Young Otto Knocks Out Paddy in the First Round at Sharkey's.

It took just one minute and fifty seconds of the first round of what was scheduled to be the main ten-round bout at the Sharkey Athletic Club last night for Young Otto to knock out Paddy Sullivan.

Sullivan caught both a left jab and a terrific half-arm swing on the jaw at almost the same minute and went down for the count of nine. As he rose, game, but very groggy, his right arm fell over the topmost rope in Otto's corner and he hung there helpless while Otto jabbed him twice. Then Referee Buckley stopped the fight, and Sullivan's seconds carried him to his corner, where it took about five minutes to revive him.

SHOW HORSES AT AUCTION.

Fair Prices at Weeding Out Sale of Moore and Watson Stables.

Judge William H. Moore, George Watson, and George Chipchase last night disposed of a number of trotting bred, saddle, and jumping horses at Van Tassell & Kearney's salesring, 126 East Thirteenth Street. The bidding was brisk and several of the horses were sold for good sums. The top figure was $925, which was paid by N. Clark for the good-looking bay gelding Wallenstein, which has never been shown in competition. Cyrus, a bay gelding with a creditable list of victories in the show ring, was also the subject of lively bidding. Several well-known exhibitors took a hand in the bidding, but M. McDonald outbid them all and secured the horse for $800. Louis E. Waring secured the black roan gelding Roanoke for $585, which was one of the bargains of the sale. Roanoke has shown a mile in 2:18, and won at the Louisville and Chicago shows. A gray mare, 6 years old, which went for $800, was the only other horse in the Moore consignment to be sold for over $500.

George Watson sent a number of Kentucky-bred horses into the ring. The pick of the stable was Beltam, a bay gelding, which was knocked down to L. E. Waring for $800, while Top Notcher, a heavyweight hack, found a purchaser in A. Benedick for $700. Fourteen head from the Watson stable averaged $372. The Chipchase jumpers were sold for a good figure.

Canadian Enters Auto Run.

Among the prospective entries for the around New Jersey two-day reliability contest from New York to Atlantic City and return is that of H. B. Wills of Toronto, Canada, who wrote to the Motor Contest Association asking if foreigners would be eligible as competitors for the run, as he wishes to enter his car and would arrive in New York about May 1.

Mr. Wills was informed that foreigners were eligible; that his entry would be welcome, and that Richard Newton, manager of the Atlantic Motor Car Company, would be glad to have Mr. Wills join the Stoddard-Dayton team, which will take part in the contest, May 10 and 11.

Motor Racing Club Opens To-morrow.

In the second block last night of the 750-point 18.2 balkline billiard tournament at the Washington Heights Billiard Academy for a prize of $100, C. Garfinkle defeated D. Weiner by the score of 266 to 230. Garfinkle's high run was 62, and his average was 7 5-36, and Weiner's high run was 41 and his average was 6 24-37. The total score for both nights' games now stands 500 to 480 in favor of Garfinkle. The final block will be played Friday night.

MAYER MAKES HIGH RUN.

Brooklyn Player Runs String of 122 in Amateur Billiards.

STANDING OF THE PLAYERS.

Name.	Won.	Lost.	High Run.	High Average.
Gardner	4	0	74	10 20-38
Conklin	3	1	69	9 13-43
Poggenburg	3	2	68	11 4-36
Mayer	2	3	122	12 4-33
Douglas	1	4	48	7 32-38
Brown	1	5	60	8 22-32

The best billiards of the amateur championship 18.2 tournament which is being held in the Hamilton Club, Brooklyn, was shown in the match yesterday afternoon when James Mayer of the Columbia Club, Philadelphia, defeated Morris D. Brown of the Hamilton Club 400 to 278.

Mayer not only won his game, but his high run of 122, which came in the ninth inning, was the best of the tournament and second only to the record run (168) of Calvin Demarest when this young man carried everything before him in the amateur tournament a few years ago.

Mayer's average (12 4-33) yesterday afternoon also stands as the best for the present tournament. Mayer in his string of 122 played as fine billiards as has been seen in any tournament. He counted mostly on the end rail, and his 123d shot was apparently an easy one. He tried a simple draw and missed only by the slightest margin. The score:

Mayer, 0, 40, 5, 8, 8, 18, 2, 40, 122, 5, 8, 22, 1, 0, 4, 0, 31, 4, 1, 14, 1, 7, 0, 9, 12, 0, 11, 2, 0, 9, 0, 4, 12. Total—400. Average—12 4-33.

Brown, 1, 3, 0, 11, 3, 4, 0, 2, 9, 0, 0, 4, 13, 4, 13, 0, 47, 3, 1, 0, 0, 2, 0, 0, 6, 24, 17, 9, 9, 33, 0, 60. Total—278. Average—8 22-32.

J. Ferdinand Poggenburg of the Liederkranz Club took a cleverly earned victory from Charles F. Conklin of the Chicago Athletic Association in the evening game, the score being 400 to 344. An unfinished run of 68 brought the match to a close, Poggenburg gathering the total after being 12 points behind his rival at the end of the previous inning.

The match was hard fought from start to finish, with the lead alternating frequently during the latter half of the game. Conklin with a neatly gathered run of 56 in the second inning took the upper hand, and until the twenty-seventh inning maintained the advantage, at one stage having a lead of eighty-six points. This was in the seventeenth inning, and during the next ten turns at the table Poggenburg was by all odds the better, cutting down the lead of Conklin by a number of counts in double figures, while the latter could gather no run which amounted to a considerable factor.

Once Poggenburg drew even with Conklin, however, both contestants played about even, with the advantage shifting to first one side of the score board and then the other. Each had the lead twice from the twenty-eighth to the thirty-seventh inning. Then, with Conklin 12 points in the lead, the score being 344 to 332, Poggenburg began a bit of close nursing on the two end rails that brought about a cluster of 68 points, which was the total he needed to win the game. It was Poggenburg's highest run of the tournament, and showed him in his best form as judge of speed and position. It was one of the most sensational finishes that the present tournament has brought out. The score:

EVENING GAME.

Poggenburg—17 22 2 0 0 4 0 9 5 1 1 0 1 5 0 4 0 38 3 2 2 12 21 7 19 3 33 16 20 18 11 23 0 16 1 0 0 16 68. Total—400. High runs—68, 38, and 33. Average—10 10-39.

MOTOR BOAT OWNERS DINE.

Craft to Defend Harmsworth Cup Offered at Meeting Last Night.

Commodore H. H. Melville of the Motor Boat Club of America had as his guests at a dinner at the New York Yacht Club last night the governors of the Motor Boat Club, prominent members of the Automobile Club of America, and others interested in the defense of the British International Trophy this Summer.

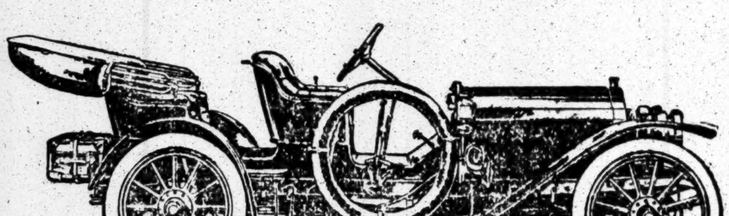
It was announced after the meeting that followed the dinner that offers of two thirty-six-mile boats as defenders of the Harmsworth Cup had been made by prominent local designers, with the guarantee that the craft would have that speed. Fleet Captain John M. Shaw of the Motor Boat Club of America said that other offers had been made by owners of speed boats wherewith to meet the three British challengers, and that in all likelihood several of these proffers would be accepted.

Mr. Shaw was also authority for the statement that Larchmont Harbor would doubtless be the scene of the contest. He said that the matter of building one or two new boats would be settled within the next few days by a special committee of the Motor Boat Club that would shortly be appointed for that purpose.

Those present at the dinner were Commodores H. H. Melville, J. C. Richards, J. H. Hoadley, and Cornelius Vanderbilt; Vice Commodores Ira A. Kip, Jr., and H. R. Sutphen; E. J. Stimer, James Craig, John M. Shaw, C. P. Tower, Charles Proctor, Dave Hennen Morris, Fred S. Flower, Charles Francis, W. R. Houghtaling, Fred Rook, Walter M. Bieling, A. G. Wheeler, Jr., Bruce McKelvey, Louis Wicher, and Edgar Park.

Pell Wins Handicap Match.

Lewis Pell (5) defeated Frank Becher (scratch) in last night's game of the amateur handicap three-cushion carrom billiard tournament at McGraw's by the score of 30 to 16 in forty-five innings, which makes this the record game of the tournament.



The Studebaker

An evenly balanced automobile has all features developed to uniform perfection. One single superior feature is sometimes emphasized for selling purposes—to hide weakness in other essentials.

The STUDEBAKER-GARFORD "40" is notable for uniform construction throughout. The strength of one feature is not sacrificed to make another unnecessarily overstrong.

It has abundant power for the worst of hills and roads, and speed up to a mile a minute—strength for the roughest service, as the most rigid contests have proved—luxurious comfort, as is demonstrated by its easy riding, smooth-running qualities, and exceptional refinement in every detail of equipment.

Erstein & Brother, $963; Levi Sondheimer & Co., $681, and Joseph W. Schloss & Co., $23. It was alleged that the corporation is insolvent, made preferential transfers of property and preferential payments of $1,270 to several creditors. The business was started in 1894 and was incorporated Feb. 6, 1905, with a capital stock of $100,000. Alexander Boehm was President. Mr. Cahn said that the liabilities are $90,000, of which $50,000 are secured, and the actual assets $15,000.

EDWARD BOECK.—Marshal Henkel sent a deputy to Sing Sing Prison yesterday to serve the papers in bankruptcy proceedings on J. Edward Boeck, diamond and jewelry salesman. Lesser Brothers, attorneys for the petitioning creditors, have obtained an order from Judge Hand restraining Solomon R. Guggenheim of this city from taking any further proceedings on the judgment for $14,343, which he obtained against Boeck, and from any proceedings now pending in St. Paul, Minn. The order also restrains John Knowlton, administrator of the estate of Jay C. Lounsberry, uncle of Boeck, from disposing of the interest of Boeck in that estate, and from paying over the same to any person until the further order of this court.

NEUBERGER-PHILLIPS SILK COMPANY.—Judge Hand has appointed Anton Schmid receiver in bankruptcy of the Neuberger-Phillips Silk Company of 57 Greene Street and Paterson, N. J., with a bond of $40,000, on the application of Thomas & Oppenheimer, and authorized him to continue business for ten days, with leave to apply for a further period of time on consent of a majority in amount of creditors. Mr. Schmid, who is a public accountant, was appointed at the request of these creditors: Morimura, Arai & Co., $24,717; Paul Gerli & Co., Incorporated, $10,000; Jardine, Matheson & Co., $26,840; National Silk Dyeing Company, $18,000; Watjen, Toel & Co., $55,000; Hadden & Co., Incorporated, $28,000; William T. BALDWIN CO. BOND ISSUE.

Locomotive Works Arrange with Bankers to Take $10,000,000 Worth.

The Baldwin Locomotive Works, which, after many years of existence as a copartnership, was incorporated a few months ago with a capital of $20,000,000, is planning to bring out a new bond issue, according to dispatches which reached Wall Street from Philadelphia yesterday.

The company is one of the chief competitors of the American Locomotive Company, and, outside of that concern, is the largest manufactory of locomotives in this country.

At the time of its incorporation it was suggested a bond issue would shortly follow. While no definite information of the amount of the issue has been forthcoming it is understood that the amount will be in the neighborhood of $10,000,000, and that negotiations for the disposal of the bonds to bankers have been practically completed.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., April 13.—North Butte was the feature in the local market this morning, advancing in the first hour over 5 points on Western buying, said to be based on a report that the Edith May vein had been reached, but this could not be confirmed. There was not very much stock offered, and the price rose very rapidly. This had a very beneficial effect on the whole list, and advances of from a fraction to 3 points were the result. The undertone continued strong until the close, which was buoyant and at about the best prices for the day.

PRUDENTIAL'S BIG YEAR.

Gore Tells of $500,000,000 New Business Written in 1908.

John K. Gore, actuary of the Prudential Insurance Company of Newark, was on the stand yesterday at the hearing before Vice Chancellor Howell in Newark in the suit of Leon Blanchard and others against the insurance company which involves the distribution of the company's surplus of about $16,000,000 among the stockholders instead of the policy holders.

The complainant's counsel, John R. Hardin, asked the witness about the companys' annual statement of 1907. He was informed that the company suffered a depreciation in the market value of its investments, other than real estate, of [illegible] Mr. Hardin asked the witness whether the reserve was affected by the change in the market value of the company's securities. Mr. Gore replied that any gain or loss was apportioned among the various funds of the company.

As to the business written in the year 1908 Mr. Gore said:

"In 1908 the new business written was not out of the ordinary, amounting to [illegible]0,000, which was less than in 1904, when $312,000,000 of new business was written. In 1905 the new business amounted to $305,000,000, in 1906 to $280,000,000, in 1907 to $270,000,000. Last year, because of new territory, Canada most prominently, the new business reached the total of $500,000,000, Mr. Gore said.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, April 13.—Money was in good demand and fair supply to-day. Discount rates were easy.

Traders on the Stock Exchange were busy with the general carry-over, in which the rates for Americans ranged from 5 to 6 per cent. Copper shares eased with the metal, but mining stocks advanced on fresh support.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The Consular and Trade Reports will note the following trade opportunities abroad. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to:

NO. 4,804. PANAMA CANAL SUPPLIES.—Sealed proposals, in triplicate, will be received at the office of the general purchasing officer of the Isthmian Canal Commission, Washington, D. C., for furnishing the following supplies: (1) Bids will be received until April 25, 1910, for estimates on lumber, steel, iron, and manila rope. (Circular No. 570.) (2) Tenders are invited until May 2, 1910, for supplying lumber, piles, and steel castings. (Circular No. 571.) (3) Proposals may be submitted until May 3, 1910, covering the annual estimate for the period ending June 30, 1911, to furnish cast iron car wheels and car journal bearings. (Circular No. 572.)

NO. 4,805. OPPORTUNITY FOR AMERICAN CAPITALISTS.—An American Consular officer in a European country has forwarded documents and maps giving a complete and detailed description of the design of a local well-known mechanical engineer for the construction of a certain railway and commercial road. This railway will open up a very rich territory, the possibilities of which are almost unlimited, and the Government will grant to those undertaking the project immense tracts of timber land and mineral deposits. The officer submitting the report states this is an opportunity that is rarely presented to American capitalists.

NO. 4,806. AGENCIES FOR AMERICAN GOODS.—Two applications have been received at an American Consulate in England for information that will aid in establishing agencies for the sale of American goods. Both of these inquirers, whose names are given in the Consul's report, are willing to furnish references, and desire correspondence from interested American concerns.

NO. 4,807. REPRESENTATION IN SOUTH AMERICA.—One of the special agents of the Department of Commerce and Labor has forwarded the name of a South American business man who desires to represent manufacturers in the United States of the following articles: Harness and supplies, binding twine for use in agricultural machines, cottons and prints, cottonseed oil, and metallic ceilings. Correspondence in English or Spanish.

NO. 4,808. TANNING, SOAPMAKING, AND OILMAKING MACHINERY.—The Bureau of Manufactures is in receipt of a letter from Mexico, stating that a business firm in that country is anxious to receive catalogues and price lists from American manufacturers of tanning, soapmaking, and oilmaking machinery. The oil machinery applies to vegetable oils, such as olive, castor, cotton, &c.

NO. 4,809. DEMAND FOR HONEY IN EUROPEAN COUNTRY.—An American Consular officer in a European country reports that there is no reason why American shippers of honey should not have a fair share of the large business done in that country if they are in a position to quote satisfactory prices. Upward of 4,000 tons of honey are imported annually into the country in question, but the quantity imported from the United States is too small to be mentioned in the official statistics.

NO. 4,810. MOTOR BOATS.—In reply to inquiries from the United States an American Consul in a Latin-American country states there is a splendid field for the sale of motor boats in his district. There are a few motor boats there, but they are all owned by the Government. Several inquiries have been received by the Consul for motor boat catalogues, and he feels certain that some business can be done if the trouble is taken to go after it. In a conversation with the President of a local boat club he displayed great interest, and the Consul advises that correspondence in Spanish be sent to him, with catalogues and price lists. Additional catalogues are also requested for filing in the Consulate.

NO. 4,811. AMERICAN FILTERS WANTED.—An American Consular officer in Eastern Europe reports that a firm in his district is anxious to arrange for purchases of American filter apparatus, similar to a sketch which he forwards, and which is on file in the Bureau of Manufactures. Letters and samples should be addressed to the officer submitting the report, for transmission to the party making the inquiry.

NO. 4,812. MECHANICAL STOKER.—A large and reported financially strong German engineering company, thoroughly organized with agencies covering the whole of Germany, advises an American Consul that it is desirous of getting the rights to sell or manufacture a first-class mechanical stoker underfeed, with or without automatic removal of ash. Full descriptions and sketches of the stokers are desired, together with an account of the advantages to be gained by the installation of the equipment.

NO. 4,813. GLAZED KID AND CHROME LEATHER.—One of the leading tanners and leather merchants in a city of France wishes to enter into business relations with American manufacturers of glazed kid and chrome leather having no representatives in that country. His name was forwarded by an American Consular officer and is on file in the Bureau of Manufactures.

NO. 4,814. LINSEED.—The addresses of parties in the United States who can supply linseed in carload lots are requested of an American Consul in Mexico by a local business man, who desires to be placed in communication with them for the purpose of securing samples and ordering from them a quantity of the seed for planting. The inquirer states that a trial was made of the seed some years ago in certain districts and was successful for a time, but failed eventually, and it is now desired to make further trials.

NO. 4,815. AMERICAN FOOD SPECIALTIES AND HARDWARE.—A British business firm writes to the Bureau of Manufactures that it is seeking in the United States connections with American exporters of all kinds of food specialties, and would like to secure catalogues. The communication states that the firm also buys from time to time hardware of all kinds.

NO. 4,816. PIANOS AND PIANO PLAYERS.—An American consular officer in Northern Europe reporting on the market in his district for American pianos and piano players states that the prices usually demanded for these articles prevent a more extensive importation in that country, where the goods are manufactured very cheaply and upon a large scale. A local business man expresses a willingness to correspond with American manufacturers of piano players, and will be glad to make an exhibit of a sample instrument in his establishment. Further particulars of the report can be obtained upon application.

NO. 4,817. ANIMAL AND POULTRY FEEDS AND ANIMAL SOAP.—An American Consul in England reports that it develops on inquiry that there is a very considerable amount of cattle fed sold in his district, but it appears to be mostly disposed of by the canvass of travelers for the different manufacturers, and competition would require both energetic action and attractive prices. An agent of a chemical manure manufacturer, who is in touch with the users of these foods, is willing to correspond with firms in reference to the taking up of an agency for the selling of these feeds and soap on commission. He is willing to furnish satisfactory bank references.

NO. 4,818. PLAYING CARDS.—A report from an American Consul in the Levant states that a local merchant, whose name he furnishes, desires to purchase American playing cards, and would be pleased to receive from manufacturers samples, catalogues, and prices.

NO. 4,819. LUBRICATING OILS AND SIMILAR ARTICLES.—The Bureau of Manufactures is in receipt of a letter from a German business firm stating that it is desirous of entering into business relations with American exporters of articles suitable for the European market. The firm states that it is at present dealing in animal and mineral lubricating oils and similar articles, but could easily take up the import of articles of the same line or others. Cash will be paid against documents.

NO. 4,820. LACQUERED LEATHERS.—An American consular officer in a city of Eastern Europe reports that a commercial organization in his district has a client who wishes to secure the agency for Russia and Siberia of a large company manufacturing fine-grained lacquered leather, like samples which he forwarded with the report and of sizes corresponding to the ones contained in the price-lists which he inclosed. The hides are put out whole, first being split, and the inquirer will not accept half or quarter hides. The report states there is an enormous trade to be secured in that region in this line, the business in one city alone being worth several millions a year.

NO. 4,821. CANNING APPLIANCES.—One of the special agents of the Department of Commerce and Labor reports there is an opportunity for the sale of canning appliances in the West Indies, and furnishes the name of a society with which correspondence should be taken up.

NO. 4,822. MOTORS AND PRESSED GLASS.—An American Consular officer in Western Europe reports that a business man in his district wishes to represent manufacturers of heavy oil and petrol motors for land and marine purposes, motors using heavy crude oil preferred. An important use of these motors would be to apply them to the existing boats in the sardine fisheries. He also wishes to represent a firm or firms making good cheap articles in pressed glass. He states there is a good field for the sale of pressed table glassware. Banking reference will be furnished.

NO. 4,823. BIDS FOR SUPPLYING STREET NAME SIGNS AND HOUSE NUMBERS.—Consul Frederic W. Goding of Montevideo reports that the Diario Oficial of March 11, 1910, published a call for tenders, open for three months, according to the conditions and models displayed in the office of the Secretary of the Municipality, for the supplying of name signs for the streets, avenues, and roads of the city. Proposals on stamped paper will be received until June 10, 1910.

NO. 4,824. STARCH, PAINTS, OILS, AND VARNISHES.—A business firm in Portugal advises an American Consular officer that it desires to enter into communication with American manufacturers of starch or similar substances used in stiffening cotton goods so that they can be printed on; also starch for laundry purposes. The firm also desires correspondence with manufacturers of paints, oils, and varnishes. One of the members of the concern is a Director in a local banking institution, and the Consular officer writes that highest references will be furnished to interested parties.

NO. 4,825. SHIPS' STORES IN GENERAL.—A report from an American Consular officer in a European country states that a firm in his district engaged in the importation of coal, oils, paints for ships, varnish, wire and hemp rope, &c., desires to get in touch with American shippers of the foregoing articles; also antifouling paints for ships, calcium carbide, and ships' stores in general. This house does a very large commission busines, and can furnish highest bank references.

NO. 4,826. FLOATING DOCK.—An American Consul in a Latin-American country reports that a syndicate has been organized in the city in which he is located the object of which is to have a floating dock constructed. The preference is for a dock of the "Dewey" type, but it is to be used solely for repairing and cleaning vessels. The application has been made to the Government for the concession, and it is expected that it will be granted in a few weeks. The syndicate desires to know the cost of the dock as soon as possible, and while European firms will be asked to tender, the preference is for a construction company in the United States. In order to secure the work it will be necessary for those desiring to tender to base their plans and specifications upon a rough draft which is forwarded with the report. A copy of the complete report, giving full details, together with the rough draft referred to, can be obtained by interested firms upon application to the Bureau of Manufactures.

NO. 4,827. NOVELTIES AND PATENTED ARTICLES.—An American Consular officer in Portugal has forwarded the name of a local firm which desires to represent first-class American manufacturers willing to push their goods in that country and its colonies, especially novelties and patented articles. The firm would be glad to take the agency of a reliable house in boots, laces, buttons, and all articles connected with the boot and shoe trade. It also desires to act as buying agent for sardines to be shipped to American firms. Banking references are furnished.

NO. 4,828. GOODS FOR CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICA.—A. E. Weiss, New Orleans, La., has written to The Manufacturers' Record that he would like to obtain different catalogues of all descriptions of articles such as can be placed in the Central and South American markets, as he has continued demands for all products from different manufacturers in this country.

NO. 4,829. TELEPHONE SYSTEM.—An American Consular officer in a European country reports that during the past year a local municipality installed a public telephone system, the same having a capacity of 600 instruments. The city now intends to extend the central station and the overhead and underground wiring in order to increase the capacity to 1,200 instruments, and the contract will amount to about $25,000 or $30,000. The City Council is not very well satisfied with the working of the present European system, and desires to become acquainted with the latest American systems, and with that end in view requested to be placed in touch with manufacturers in the United States. The Council is desirous of receiving not only catalogues and price lists, but also all possible detailed information and specifications. When forwarding the above information it would be well to address one set to the Mayor of the city in question and a duplicate to the Consulate transmitting the report. Correspondence may be in English.

TESTIMONIAL TO WOODWARD.

Clearing House Records Regrets at Death of Hanover Bank President.

The Clearing House Committee met yesterday to take cognizance of the death of James T. Woodward, late President of the Hanover National Bank, who was its Chairman in the most trying period of the association's existence—the money panic of 1907. The committee acting for the association consisted of Valentine P. Snyder, Chairman; William H. Porter, President of the association; Francis L. Hine, William H. Perkins, and William Scherer, Secretary of the association. They adopted these declarations:

"The Clearing House Committee, acting for the associated banks, record with deep regret the loss of James T. Woodward, President of the Hanover National Bank. Mr. Woodward entered actively into the work of the Clearing House as a member of the committee in the year 1895, was reelected in 1898, and again in 1901, becoming Chairman in 1902. He was elected President of the association in 1898, which office he held for two terms, and again, in 1906, he returned to the committee and acted as its Chairman during the trying times in the Fall of 1907. He was also a member of the Board of the Building Association.

"In all his relations with the Clearing House Mr. Woodward was conspicuous for the clearness and decision of his opinions, his ability in handling difficult situations, his courtesy to his associates, and the geniality of his personal character. The Clearing House will miss a strong and determined representative whose decided views were fearlessly expressed and were influential in its councils.

"The sympathy and respect of the committee are tendered to the family of Mr. Woodward and to the bank which grew up largely under his management and which has become such a factor in the financial life of the city."

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Wednesday.

A strong and active market prevailed on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. The advance in United States Steel common imparted a stimulus to the trading early in the day. In endeavoring to follow the lead thus given floor operators bid vigorously for stocks, with the result that prices for the prominent issues often ruled a fraction above the New York Stock Exchange quotations. Commission houses reported an increase in outside interest, as represented by numerous buying orders for odd lots, covering a wide range among the specialties. Sales totaled 146,530 shares, distributed among sixty-two different stocks.

TALK OF LARGER DIVIDENDS

Rumor of Possible Advance in Rate on Steel Common a Factor in Day's Trading.

On a volume of trading which exceeded the total recorded on Monday the stock market yesterday rose to a level substantially above the highest prices recorded on Tuesday morning during the continuance of the upward movement which followed Monday's announcement regarding the anti-trust cases. The reaction of Tuesday afternoon was more than made up during the early trading yesterday and prices were carried forward until advances of from 1 to 2 points or more were shown in a large number of issues. The buying movement was well sustained throughout the session, and the closing prices in very few cases were much below the highest figures of the day. The most conspicuous place in the day's activity and advance in prices was held by United States Steel, which showed a net gain of 2¼ points, but this record was nearly equalled by several of the other active stocks of the day and in one or two exceptional cases even larger net gains were shown. The metal shares, which were particularly weak in the late trading on Tuesday, shared substantially in yesterday's advance.

Relieved of the anxiety lest each succeeding Monday bring an adverse decision in the important anti-trust cases now before the Supreme Court, traders have turned their attention to other market considerations and have found in the suggestion of a possible increase in the dividend on United States Steel common and in other dividends and in the better aspect which has been put on the crop outlook during the past ten days sufficient incentive to commit themselves actively to a campaign for an advance in prices. In this undertaking much assistance has been derived from the existence of a considerable short interest, part of which was driven rather precipitously to cover by the announcement on Monday last which removed the possibility of the early eventuation of the factors upon which the bears had been counting most confidently. Apart from these general considerations, including the reports regarding probable dividend increases to which traders chose to pay considerable attention yesterday, although they scarcely contained the element of novelty, there was nothing in the day's developments which could be pointed to as accounting for the very considerable measure of strength which the stock market displayed. In somewhat striking contrast with the strength of Steel common and the talk of an increase in its dividend rate to 5 per cent. was the comment of The Iron Age on the present position of the iron and steel markets. This authority dwelt yesterday on the need of curtailment in the pig-iron production, and recorded a further weakening in the price of steel billets. Little was heard of the prospect of further gold exports, but exchange was again firmer. The position of the Bank of England, which will be reported in to-day's statement, will doubtless show improvement, compared with last Thursday, but it can scarcely be so strong as to indicate an abandonment of the desire which the Bank of England has shown to strengthen its gold supply. London was the firmest of the foreign markets yesterday, although consols were a trifle lower.

THE CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 13.—Traders on the local Stock Exchange had a lively session, and there was a firmer tone on most of the stocks after the strength in Wall Street had begun to manifest itself. There was an especially large demand for Street's Stable Car, and the buying was more urgent than it has been for some time. Opening at 26⅞, the stock sold generally higher with every new transaction, reaching 27½. About 1,100 shares changed hands. The demand was due, of course, to the belief that a new management will soon have charge of the affairs of the company. McCrum-Howell was among the leaders, both the preferred and the common being active, with both issues up half a point from the close yesterday after starting lower. Biscuit and Brick were steady, as was Swifts, while there was a net advance of three-quarters of a point in Sears-Roebuck.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Renewed Steel Dividend Rumor.

One of the topics most discussed in connection with yesterday's sharp rise in the stock market, in which Steel common took a leading part, was the possibility of an advance in the dividend rate on the stock from 4 per cent., the present figure, to 5. The next regular dividend meeting of the Steel Corporation Directors will be held on the last Tuesday of this month, and the suggestion was that the rate might be advanced at that meeting. This is not a new report, but rather a revival of one which has been frequently heard in the last two months, but the market paid more attention to it yesterday than at any time heretofore. Brooklyn Rapid Transit was also included in the day's list of possible dividend increases. Its net gain yesterday amounted to 2⅛ points, compared with Steel common's advance of 2¼ points. The extent to which United States Steel dominated the trading yesterday is indicated by the fact that out of the total sales of about 850,000 shares, about 240,000 shares represented the trading in Steel common. The preferred stock of this company contributed only 1,600 shares to the day's total.

Kanawha Stock Purchase Halted.

Further purchases of stock of the Kanawha & Michigan by J. P. Morgan & Co., acting in behalf of the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Lake Shore, were indefinitely postponed yesterday on account of the temporary injunction against these roads granted by the Ohio State courts on Tuesday. Out of the 44,000 shares of minority stock of the Kanawha & Michigan 35,442 shares have been deposited with J. P. Morgan & Co. and paid for, and the holders of 4,610 additional shares have consented to accept the terms offered. This leaves about 4,000 shares of the minority stock which may be allied with the recently organized Minority Committee of which Samuel Untermyer is a member and counsel. It is in a suit brought by this committee that the injunction against further purchases of Kanawha stock by the other two roads has been granted.

One of the arguments used in favor of some sort of official scrutiny of the books of Stock Exchange houses has been that business from the outside public would be largely increased through the implied assurance of solvency by the Exchange. Some of the more sanguine commission house men go farther and believe that money would come in from all over the world. In support of this contention the manager of an old-line house picked out of his steamer mail the other day a batch of inquiries for Stock Exchange bonds and stocks. Most of them came through the usual banking channels, but two showed the possibilities of foreign business from outsiders. One of these was from a small Scotch town, and the suggestion of the crabbed handwriting of a hard-fisted old manufacturer was borne out in the letter head. He had £15,000 to put into certain standard railroad stocks which he named, and wanted some advice as to the probability of making a turn over later in the season. Another was in the formal English of a Bombay native merchant who had a smaller but still substantial sum to invest on advice, in American stocks.

Exchange Reformers Hopeful.

The announcement from the meeting of the Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange yesterday of the proposed amendment to the constitution empowering the Law Committee "to examine into the dealings of any member of the Exchange," in addition to giving this powerful body authority to represent the Exchange in conferences with other interests, was taken by advocates of an auditing system as a step toward the reform they desire. While the new reform, as worded, is somewhat ambiguous, this element on the Exchange believes that the new powers of the Law Committee will be used as an equivalent to a regular auditing of Stock Exchange books. With the sources of information that the governing body of the Stock Exchange have such a change in the constitution is regarded as a check on reckless business which no Stock Exchange house will dare to overlook.

Rise in Rock Island.

After going to 49¾ yesterday Rock Island closed ⅛ below the high level, with a net gain for the day of 2⅛ points. The entrance of foreign interests into the company, whose participation in its affairs is believed to be potent in facilitating the company's financing in the future, is credited with being responsible for some of the strength. Another item of news yesterday, which gave a favorable aspect to the market for the company's shares, was the announcement that the road will spend $11,500,000 this year on improvements, of which $4,000,000 will go for new track, including the relaying of 100 miles on the Chicago Division with 100-pound rails, and the use of 20,000 tons of 85-pound rails elsewhere. The balance will be spent for new equipment and terminal expansion at important points on the line.

IRON AND STEEL NOTES.

Curtailment of Pig Iron Production Needed—Foundry Buying Falling Off.

Commenting on general trade conditions The Iron Age says:

Curtailment of pig iron production is discussed as the thing most needed in that market. Several furnaces have gone out since the opening of the month, and a few others are scheduled to stop soon. But some of these needed relining, and thus far there are no signs of a blowing-out movement that shall bring a better adjustment of production and consumption.

The leading cast iron pipe interest has inquired for 50,000 tons of Southern iron for delivery at its Southern works, and has named figures which would carry the market to a new low level. Thus far $12 at Birmingham for No. 2 foundry appears to be minimum and a point at which the decline finds real resistance.

Buying by large foundry interests for the second half of the year has fallen off. What were bargains a month ago being now commonly quoted prices, the average buyer is not hurrying to cover.

The weakening of steel billet prices is more pronounced. Some consumers find demand for their products slowing up, and in such cases steel shipments have been held back.

Rail orders continue light, though inquiries for 20,000 tons have come up at Chicago. Steel car works are booked for from four to six months ahead, though just now there is a lull in car orders.

ORDER AGAINST CORDAGE.

Supreme Court Justice Blanchard granted an order yesterday against the Standard Cordage Company to show cause why it should not be dissolved on May 31. The order was granted on the application of ten of its eleven Directors.

A statement of the company's affairs in the papers shows that it operated its business last year at a loss of $59,572, sustained a loss of $33,013 in maintaining its non-operated plants, and had no income with which to pay the $140,300 interest on its first mortgage bonds.

The total deficit last year was $622,526. The Directors declared that there were no prospects of any increase in the company's business.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

Good Weather Brings tWheat to Low Levels—Other Grfains and Provisions Show Weakness—Cotton Dull.

Wheat was rather firm at the opening, with some covering of shorts, but there was a decided change in the character later and a decline to new low levels. The Chicago May showed considerable weakness, and reports were of very slow demand for cash wheat everywhere. New crop deliveries were influenced by the crop and weather conditions. While there were further claims of suffering from drought in Kansas and Nebraska, the official report of light rains in both States and the developments of a low barometer in the Rocky Mountain region from Colorado north to British Columbia gave hope of further precipitation through the Missouri Valley. Selling was quite active in the afternoon and prices off 1¼ to 1⅜. The Spring wheat advices were very favorable. The Northwestern Miller reported estimates of 6 to 10 per cent. increase in area in the Northwest, with the seeding done in South Dakota and Southern Minnesota and 75 per cent. done further North. The market rallied a little just at the close, but final quotations showed a decline of about 1 cent a bushel on the active deliveries. The demand for cash wheat was reported quiet for American, although a sale of 400,000 bushels of Manitoba was reported for export on the cost, insurance, and freight, Buffalo, basis. Cash prices quoted: No. 2 red Winter, $1.20, nominal, cost, insurance, and freight; No. 2 red spot, nominal, $1.21¼, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern Duluth, opening $1.20 nominal; No. 2 hard Winter, nominal; No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, May, $1.14.

Corn was quiet and firm early, with some covering on the reports of a steadier cash situation and indications of nervousness on the part of the short interests. Later the market became weak, and, influenced by the decline in wheat, there was a good deal of selling and prices ran down about 1 cent a bushel. The close was rather unsettled. Cash corn was reported quiet late but about steady. Exporters took four loads. Cash corn quoted: No. 2, nominal, elevator, export basis; No. 4, 59½c, and steamer, 62½c bid, all elevator, export basis.

Oats were quiet and steady during the morning, and there seemed to be a good deal of support, but later, owing to the continuation of very favorable crop and weather news and the decline in other grain prices, showed some weakness, and the market rather easily sold off in the afternoon. Cash oats quoted: Natural white, 46½@49c; white clipped, 47½@52½c.

Provisions showed decided heaviness again. Live hogs were lower at the stock yards, and while receipts were not large they were heavy enough to induc further selling pressure, and prices broke to new low levels, with liquidation quite active as prices declined.

COTTON.

The cotton market was a very quiet, narrow, nervous affair. The fluctuations were small, yet there was a tenseness of feeling about the market which was suggestive of possible violent fluctuations ahead. The bulls are very confident of their position, and the statement given out on the Exchange by bull followers was that they were in such a strong position that they could not be dislodged. It was openly stated that the holdings were very heavy, some estimates ranging as high as 750,000 bales, and that the bulls would demand delivery on the entire lot. It was also stated that the arrangement with the mills was that they were to take an important part of the cotton for actual consumption. On the other hand, it was stated that other mills were preparing to ship in a good deal of cotton for delivery here, and that they were taking advantage of the maintained high prices in order to sell goods. The conditions, as far as the new crop was concerned, were looked upon as exceedingly promising. There were rains in the Eastern belt, with predictions of more. The cotton belt has now had moisture through the entire area, and the question of drought has been eliminated through the entire belt, excepting possibly a few small sections. The Texas reports have become extremely favorable, and the reports by a local trade paper were that the area there would be increased 5.4 per cent., making the total area 10,240,000 acres, and that the conditions were very promising, indeed, in that State. Southern spot markets unchanged to ⅛c advance.

COFFEE.

Coffee was only moderately active, with sales of 10,000 bags, but the undertone was steady, and after opening unchanged to 5 points lower, the market made a moderate gain and closed net unchanged to 1 point decline. Havre came unchanged, and Hamburg, after opening unchanged to ¼ pfennig lower, developed a steadier tone and closed net unchanged. The Brazilian markets were unchanged. The visible supply of Brazilian coffee in and afloat for the United States was 3,280,563 bags, against 3,801,091 bags last year and 3,707,639 bags two years ago. Firm offers from Rio were on a slightly steadier basis. Spot coffee steady; 8½c for Rio No. 7.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—The resumption of the upward swing in New York to-day was reflected here to a moderate extent. The traction stocks were notable exceptions to the general trend. Offerings of some 2,000 shares of Philadelphia Rapid Transit broke that issue from 21 to 20 before midday, while Union Traction fell to 48½, although dealings in the latter were much lighter. According to reports from the floor, the traders offered Philadelphia Rapid Transit down to catch a stop-loss order for 1,000 shares. This was executed when the quotations struck 20, and thereafter the price rallied fractionally. About 5,000 shares changed hands.

Lake Superior continued to display a strong tone, crossing 24, while the income bonds improved further to 55¼, and 56 was subsequently bid. Lehigh Valley, after selling down to 114¾, rallied 2 points.

Asphalt shares were firm, the common rising a point on light transactions. Tonopah was again in demand and scored a further fractional gain. Of course, all the arbitrage shares were buoyant under the lead of United States Steel.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

East River Savings Bank Buys Corner of Broadway and Reade Street—Two Fourth Avenue Deals—Joseph H. Choate Sells Plot—Washington Heights Realty Active.

A Broadway deal, involving $1,000,000, enlivened the real estate market yesterday by the announcement that negotiations had virtually been completed for the sale of the northwest corner of Broadway and Reade Street to the East River Savings Institution, which now occupies offices on the ground floor of the Stewart Building opposite. The sale was made by William C. Walker's Sons for the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, which is just completing its new building on Chambers Street, opposite the Court House.

It is understood that the price paid was $750,000. The East River Savings Institution has secured in addition a leasehold for a term of eighty years of the property adjoining on Reade Street, having a frontage of 20 feet and a depth of 80 feet.

It is the intention of the East River Savings Institution to raze the buildings now standing on the site and erect a large modern office building, running from twelve to twenty stories in height. The entire ground floor will be reserved for the bank's accommodation. While the plans have not been fully decided upon, it is the intention to put up a handsome building, which will be an ornament to the city, the façade being either of light granite or of marble.

The East River Savings Institution is one of the oldest in the city, having been founded in 1848. For fifty years the bank was situated in its own building at 3 Chambers Street, but in 1905 the city acquired the property through condemnation proceedings for the purpose of erecting thereon the new Municipal Building. The President of the bank is Dick S. Ramsey.

The purchase of this choice Broadway corner calls attention to the recent important transactions in high-class Broadway realty. Only a short time ago Frank W. Woolworth purchased the group of buildings on the southwest corner of Broadway and Park Place, and shortly before the close of the year Frank N. Hoffstot paid about $3,000,000 for the office buildings at Leonard and Franklin Streets.

Two Fourth Avenue Deals.

Jacob Neadle, who recently purchased the property 420 and 422 Fourth Avenue and 49 and 51 East Twenty-ninth Street, forming an "L" around the northwest corner of these thoroughfares, is reported to have bought the corner parcel, a four-story building, on lot 23 by 40. This would give him control of a plot fronting 107.6 feet on Fourth Avenue and 80 feet on Twenty-ninth Street.

Andrew J. Bastine has sold to the Manhattan Office Building Company 59 and 61 Fourth Avenue, six and eight story buildings, on plot 49 by 171.5 by irregular, adjoining the northeast corner of Ninth Street. The plot also has a frontage of 23 feet on an alley running from Ninth Street.

J. H. Choate Sells 21st Street Plot.

Joseph H. Choate, former Ambassador to England, has sold the property 137 and 139 West Twenty-first Street. There are two old-fashioned three-story dwellings, each 20 feet broad, on the site occupying lots 98.9 feet in depth.

The house at No. 137 has been owned by Mr. Choate for a number of years. The adjoining parcel he purchased about two years ago. A well-known contractor and builder is said to be the buyer of the parcels. The section is being rapidly built up with store and loft buildings, and it is very probable that the plot will be improved in this manner.

Madison Street Tenements for Investors.

Henry Goldman and B. Freedman have sold for Lowenfeld & Prager to Lowenstein & Torshes for investment the two six-story double tenements 94 and 98 Madison Street on a plot 50 by 100.

The Edgar P. Holdridge Company, incorporated, negotiated for the Kayewood Realty Company, of which Benjamin M. Kaye is President, the sale of the property 127 and 131 West Twenty-fifth Street on plot 75 by 98.9 to John H. Olson.

A building loan of $275,000 has been secured for the erection of a twelve-story store and loft building. Mr. Olson will commence operations at once and expects to have the building ready for occupany by Dec. 1.

Mr. Olson is the pioneer builder in the street, having erected the loft building 41 and 43 West Twenty-fifth Street about three years ago.

Tenth Avenue Corner Resold.

Lowenfeld & Prager are reported to have resold the northwest corner of Tenth Avenue and Forty-fourth Street, a five-story loft building and a two-story stable on plot 75 by 100. The property was secured at auction recently by the sellers for $60,100.

C. F. Hellmann has sold for Max Marx to a client for investment a six-story flat occupying a plot 40 by 100 on the northwest corner of 144th Street and Seventh Avenue.

Activity on Washington Heights.

William Hobson has purchased through M. Webb, Jr., from David L. Phillips the vacant plot on the south side of 181st Street, 225 feet west of St. Nicholas Avenue, and is having plans drawn for a twelve-story fireproof storage warehouse to be erected thereon.

Mr. Hobson has also sold through the same broker the Audubon fireproof storage warehouse 1,926 and 1,928 Amsterdam Avenue on plot 50 by 100.

Henry Beck of L. N. Clark & Co. has sold for the Fordham Realty Company one of the new dwellings located on the west side of Heath Avenue, 75 feet south of Knox Place.

Staten Island.

P. G. Ullman, Jr. & Co. have sold a house and twelve lots for M. Stein at Princess Bay Station to an investor.

Suburban Sales.

The Plandome Land Company, through its sales agents, L'Ecluse, Washburn & Co., has sold to Mrs. E. Perham the large corner plot, No. 175, and the adjoining plot at Plandome, where she is to erect a large house overlooking Manhasset Bay, and to Ernest A. L'Ecluse an acre in the new section which he will improve immediately.

Kenneth Ives & Co. have sold Hampton House, on Broadway, in Ardsley Park, Ardsley-on-Hudson, the home of the late Dr. George F. Shrady. The property consists of about three and a half acres, a sixteen-room house, stable, and outbuildings, and was held at $55,000.

Recent Buyers.

F. F. Neuman is the buyer of 17 West Sixty-eighth Street, sold by Irving Lehman through L. J. Phillips & Co.

C. Alfred Capen is the buyer of 125 East Ninety-second Street, sold recently.

St. John Smith is the buyer of 129 East Seventieth Street, sold by William S. Edgar.

The syndicate which recently bought an estate comprising eighty-eight acres at Lake Placid, opposite the Dewey Club property, is composed of Frank Wolf, Henry Lorsch, and George B. Bernheim of this city, and Benjamin Wolf and Frank H. Bachman of Philadelphia.

$600,000 Building Loan.

The Carnegie Construction Company has secured a building loan of $600,000 from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company on three apartment houses, each 83.4 by 100.11, under construction in 111th Street beginning at a point 75 feet east of Broadway. The loan is divided into $200,000 for each building.

716 Fifth Avenue for Store.

Plans have been filed for making over the two-story dwelling at 716 Fifth Avenue and the five-story dwelling at 2 West Fifty-sixth Street into a five-story store and bachelor apartment house, with a frontage of 18 feet on the avenue and 25 feet on the street. Andrew C. Zabriskie of Red Hook, Dutchess County, N. Y., is the owner. Maynicke & Franke, the architects, estimate the cost of the alteration at $20,000. The building has been leased to Schumann Sons.

No Upset Price for Yerkes House.

Judge Ward, in the United States Circuit Court, yesterday, replying to a petition of Receiver Charles C. Burlingham for instruction regarding the disposition of the Yerkes mansion, filed an order directing the sale of the property without restriction as to upset price.

Judge Ward further directs Receiver Burlingham to deposit all moneys received from the proceeds of the sale of the paintings, statuary, &c., pending the disposition of such proceeds under the orders of the court, with the Union Trust Company as an additional depository.

BUILDING MATERIAL.

Face Value of Brick

THE right brick in the right place means much to the value of a building.

The outside appearance of a building is a permanent advertisement of the building and may attract tenants or drive them away.

To find the right brick is to find the right dealer who has a reputation for quality, variety and style.

A visit to our sample rooms will satisfy you on this point.

MANHATTAN—FOR SALE. | MANHATTAN—FOR SALE.

A LARGE buyer of guaranteed mortgages recently said: "I prefer to deal with the New York Mortgage and Security Company because the quality of their mortgages is so uniformly good."

That struck the keynote of our business policy—quality, not quantity.

We might easily double or triple our annual sales, if we chose to lower our loaning standard. But that would mean increasing the risk, and we prefer to preserve our unique distinction among the large mortgage guaranty companies of being the only one which has never made a loss. That is a record worth preserving, and the shrewdest investors appreciate it.

TRAFFIC GROWING IN M'ADOO TUBES

MUCH WORK YET TO BE DONE

Company Satisfied with Its Show of Quarterly Earnings—Extension to Thirty-third Street by Oct. 1.

The Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company, which operates the traction tubes under the Hudson River from Jersey City and Hoboken to the Cortlandt Street terminal and the shopping district at Sixth Avenue, issued its first annual report yesterday, which, besides giving a balance sheet of the company's position at the end of the year March 31, and a statement of earnings for the last quarter, gives a very full account of the company's plans for immediate extension.

The downtown section of the tunnels carry the major part of its traffic, and will not have been in operation for a full year until Aug. 1. The balance sheet shows assets of $112,680,652, of which $108,917,198 is contained in the item of property accounts and work under construction. The special cash deposit in construction fund totals $1,608,997, and materials and disused construction plant are carried at $767,628.

Unamortized discount on bonds totals $820,097, and other scattered items, insurance, prepayments, accounts receivable, &c., together with a profit and loss deficit of $64,310, make up the total.

Common capital stock and scrip....	$39,660,380
Preferred capital stock and scrip...	5,164,556
N. Y. & J. R. R. Co. 5% bonds...	5,000,000
H. & M. R. R. Co. 4½% bonds....	59,675,000
Real estate mortgage (due April 30, 1910) ..	42,000
Deferred car purchase installments.	828,000
Current accounts payable..........	289,420
Accrued bond interest, payable Aug. 1, 1910	487,916
Accrued car interest, payable Sept. 1, 1910	3,450
Accrued taxes, partly estimated....	397,095
Jacobs & Davies, current account..	36,914
Rentals received in advance........	11,288
Contract liabilities, not due......	374,897
Material and construction plant reserves ..	421,656
Amortization reserve	257,368
Other reserves	17,800
Total..........	$112,680,652

Gross revenues	$976,654
Operating expenses and taxes on properties in operation	412,883
Gross income applicable to fixed charges ..	$563,771
Interest on bonds outstanding........	714,320
Less interest chargeable to construction	201,505
Balance, being interest on capital employed in operation and chargeable against income, viz.: $5,000,000 N. Y. & J. 5s, $40,028,000 H. & M. 4½s	$512,815
Other charges	49,910
Total deductions from income.....	$562,725
Net income after deduction of fixed charges applicable against that portion of the property employed in present operations	1,045
Depreciation included above in operating expenses and set up in amortization reserves	31,928

President William G. McAdoo makes note that the quarter's earnings are given as fairly showing the earnings of the railroad under present conditions, without regard to future growth. The report devotes much space to demonstrating a large increase in business as soon as the extensions which go into operation this year are completed. He says on the subject of interest and amortization reserves:

> As important portions of your system are still under construction, and the operated portion represents only a part of the total capital expenditure and capacity, interest charges on bonded debt have been apportioned between operation and construction. There is now being charged to operation, interest on a total of $45,000,000 bonds, and there is being charged to construction the interest on $19,675,000 of bonds. With the extension of service over those parts of the line now under construction, the amount of interest charged to construction will be reduced, so that the charge of interest to construction will progressively disappear. It is a universal practice to charge to construction the cost of money during the period of construction, and the division of this charge between operation and construction has been made on a basis which, in the opinion of your management, is sound and conservative.
> Complying with the suggestions of the Public Service Commission of New York, we established over a year ago the practice of charging off and setting up depreciation and amortization reserves, with the result that at March 31, 1910, in addition to actual expenditures, maintaining the property up to the highest point of efficiency, we had absorbed in operating expenses and set up a reserve of $257,368, as shown in the balance sheet submitted herewith. Although a better showing of net earnings might be made by less conservative methods of accounting, we believe that future results will reflect the wisdom of the policy which has been adopted.

As showing the rapid growth of traffic, President McAdoo says that passengers carried in August, 1909, when the lower tunnels were first run, totaled 2,662,237, or 85,846 per day, against 4,398,017 in March last, or 141,871 per day. About August 1 next, when the Henderson Street Station in Jersey City is scheduled to be opened, a great increase in speed between the Jersey City business centres and uptown and downtown New York is expected, and the storage yards there will allow the company to handle an increase in cars from 140 to 190 to take care of increased business. The extension to Thirty-third Street, as has already been announced, will be finished by Oct. 1, it is predicted, and will put the company in position to proceed with the extension to the Grand Central Station, for which it has already obtained a franchise.

Of the extension to Newark, the report states that it will be necessary to build only about two-thirds of a mile more of subway in Jersey City to connect with the Pennsylvania Railroad's present main line tracks which are to be the route of entry to Newark. With this line in operation it is predicted in the report that the company will receive a large business from the Pennsylvania Railroad, notwithstanding the operation of the new Pennsylvania terminal at Seventh Avenue and Thirty-third Street.

At present the company is using less than one-fourth of its estimated capacity of 220,000,000 passengers per annum.

At the annual meeting of stockholders yesterday, C. W. King, Secretary, and William H. Corbin were elected Directors to succeed E. C. Converse, who resigned several months ago, and G. T. Rogers, who declined re-election.

DECRIES POLITICS IN PULPIT.

Bishop Gailor of Tennessee Warns Against Hasty Preaching of Reform.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., April 13.—The Right Rev. Thomas Gailor, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Tennessee, delivered the principal address at the convention of the Christian Social Union, a National organization of the Protestant Episcopal Church, here to-day in Trinity Church, in which he deplored the political activities of ministers. He urged a wise, conservative, but unflinching policy regarding the eradication of crying wrongs.

Referring to the temperance agitation in Tennessee, he said that it had resulted in unwise legislation.

"Many people thought State-wide prohibition to be the ideal remedy," said the Bishop. "Instead of calling to their aid some experts on the subject and having laws framed that could be enforced, they forced through the Legislature a measure that has led to civic degeneracy. It is impracticable. The reformers should leave lawmaking to wise experts, and be content with educating public sentiment.

"So with corporate injustice of every kind. We must educate the people to overcome these wrongs with the aid of expert socialists in economics.

"When a question gets into politics, it is a good thing for the pulpit to leave it alone. The pulpit must not allow itself to be dragged down into participation in premature or ill-advised reforms."

PRIESTS' WEDDING DISPUTE.

Father McDonald of Orange, N. J., Replies to Mgr. Donnelly's Complaint.

Defending himself yesterday against charges brought by Mgr. Donnelly of Flushing, L. I., for marrying a couple from outside his parish, the Rev. Matthias J. McDonald, rector of St. John's parish, at Orange, N. J., sharply criticised Mgr. Donnelly and referred sarcastically to what the latter had quoted in correspondence as being rules of the Church, but which were, the Rev. Mr. McDonald asserted, perhaps the Monsignor's own rules. He referred to his accuser repeatedly as "Father Donnelly," neglecting his title.

Father McDonald declared that he had been deceived into violating a rule of the Church, that he had explained the matter without delay to the rector of the Flushing parish, and had gone so far as to forward the fee he had received from the bridegroom.

The wedding that started the controversy was that of Miss Mary Hallaren of Flushing and Francis Wenzel of Corona, L. I., on April 2. Father McDonald was informed, he states, that Miss Hallaren had declared she was a member of his parish of seven months' standing, and that she intended to remain so. The bridegroom being a baptized Episcopalian, he said, made it necessary to apply for a dispensation, which he did.

At the home of Bishop O'Connor in South Orange it was said that the complaint of Mgr. Donnelly would not receive serious attention if it was brought to the Bishop.

MACPHERSON LOSES AGAIN.

Trenton Judge Fails to Get the County Solicitorship.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., April 13.—For the third time in a year Judge George W. MacPherson has been beaten for office because he was too closely affiliated with the Republican leaders here. This last time the Judge was defeated for the County Solicitorship by Freeholder Samuel C. Kulp of the Second Ward. Mr. Kulp had four votes on the first ballot to four for Judge MacPherson. Three scattering votes went to Kulp despite the whip of the organization, and then his election was made unanimous.

The first time Judge MacPherson was defeated was about a year ago, when he wanted to be County Judge of Mercer at the time Judge John Rellstab gave up that office to go on the Federal bench. The Republican organization was behind him, but Gov. Fort turned him down. The Governor also refused to appoint MacPherson to the City District Court.

YOUNG FILIBUSTER FREE.

George Vice of Hackensack Released from Brazilian Prison.

The State Department at Washington wired to Hackensack to-day that a cablegram just received from Bahia, Brazil, states that George Vice of Hackensack had finally been released from prison there.

Vice, who is 23 years old, was one of the party of young Americans who went to Brazil under Sebastian Magali, a filibuster, in October, 1908. The entire party was arrested after a fight, in which two Americans were killed.

Vice was wounded, and has been in the prison hospital since.

Three months ago the prisoners were pardoned, but a mistake of the court officials kept Vice in jail until yesterday. His mother and two brothers left Hackensack two weeks ago to live on a ranch in New Mexico, where Vice will go.

Vice was employed by the Public Service Corporation of Hackensack, and belonged to the National Guard.

VETOES STATION SITE BILL.

Gov. Fort Refuses to Sanction Use of Military Park in Newark.

The vetoing yesterday by Gov. Fort of Assemblyman Goldingay's bill to enable the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to build a terminal station at Military Park, will force the railroad company to go back to its original location, Saybrook Place and Centre Street.

Newark officials were disappointed at Gov. Fort's action in vetoing the bill, which they declared provides a better place for the terminal than at Saybrook Place.

Word was also received yesterday by Mayor Joseph Riordan of Harrison, N. J., that the War Department had vetoed the plan to compel the Pennsylvania to build a bridge for foot and vehicular traffic over the Passaic River.

IN NEW JERSEY.

In Jersey City yesterday five-year-old Martha Hall was badly burned about the face and body as the result of playing near a bonfire.

Sixteen-year-old James Peddo, who died on Monday, was given a military burial yesterday by the pupils of Public School 9, Jersey City, were he was Captain of Company A. The boys, in uniform, led by a drum corps, with drums muffled, marched at the funeral. As the coffin was lowered into the grave Bugler Anthony Geradano sounded "taps," and the boys fired three volleys over the grave.

Miss Elizabeth Henningsen, 17 years old, of Harrison, N. J., was knocked down and robbed yesterday by Michael Fritz in Third Street. Fritz was caught after a chase by Policemen Coburn and Flaherty, who had heard Miss Henningsen's cries.

Dispatching a note to his wife, who left him a month ago, Frank Hellquist of Summit blew out his brains last night. The note said he was sick and wanted her to come to him, but he was dead when she arrived. Hellquist had been married twice before, and three children of those unions will receive his insurance. His wife, who has two little children, gets nothing. Mrs. Hellquist had begun separation proceedings.

Twenty men struck yesterday at the Beatty carpet factory at Little Falls. They demand more pay and the company refuses it. The entire mill will be closed if the matter is not settled. Between 600 and 700 hands are employed.

Harry Goodridge, 6 years old, a deaf mute, disappeared from his home at Little Falls Tuesday. Yesterday afternoon his body was found in the Morris Canal. His father believes he was pushed in, but nothing to justify the charge has been learned by the police.

SEEK COMPROMISE UPON RACING BILLS

ACTION TAKEN ON ONE BILL

House Passes Measure Extending Present Law to Any Inclosure—Arguments on Both Sides Before Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 13.—Acting as mediator between the racing interests who declare that the Agnew-Perkins bills mean the closing of the race tracks of the State, and the advocates of the bills, the Senate Codes Committee to-morrow will make an effort to report bills which will strike at the bookmaker and protect the rights of those who desire to make friendly bets.

Breeders of horses, dealers in thoroughbreds, and owners of race tracks pleaded before the committee at the hearing today to make the text of the proposed amendments to the Agnew-Hart act less severe than they are at present.

Canon Chase of Brooklyn, representing the Society for the Prevention of Crime, said he would be glad to have the horse industry thrive, but "not if it means the ruin of boys and girls."

J. N. Camden, a breeder from Kentucky, said it was not "possible for breeding and racing to be conducted in this country on a high standard with New York eliminated."

"If racing cannot be conducted reputably and upon a decent plane," Mr. Camden continued, "I would rather see the race tracks close. There is nothing inherently pernicious or morally perverted in the racing of horses. But there are parasites who fasten upon it, as is the case in everything in nature."

"Under the decision of the Court of Appeals the wager of a box of candy against a pair of gloves would be the laying of odds, which these amendments would prohibit," Joseph T. Auerbach, representing The Jockey Club, stated.

"Do you believe that?" Canon Chase asked.

"Believe it? Of course I do," Mr. Auerbach replied. "It is the language of Judge Haight, and Judge Cullen wrote an opinion in which he said such legislation would bring the administration of the law into disrepute."

"I do not think the committee has any sympathy with the use of official power oppressively, as it has been used," Senator Brackett, Chairman of the committee, said. "It is my belief, however, that the members of the committee would like to eliminate the professional gambler, the man with the checkerboard clothes, whether he makes his books orally or with a record. How would you do it?"

Mr. Auerbach said bookmaking was not subject to definition, but to enumeration. He pointed to the language of Judge Haight in a recent decision of the Court of Appeals, and declared that the bills should be so framed as to take away from the bookmaker the conditions which would make his business profitable. He then suggested an amendment which took out the words "orally or otherwise," in relation to bookmaking, as well as the part of the section which makes it unlawful to lay odds on any future event.

After the hearing Canon Chase said the proposed amendment would not be acceptable to those in favor of the Agnew-Perkins bills.

E. A. Tipton of the Fasig-Tipton Company of New York said the business of the company had fallen off from $1,500,000 in 1901 to $450,000 last year, the loss being due to the uncertainty as to the construction of the Agnew-Hart laws. The proposed bills, he declared, would kill the business of horse breeding.

Senator Agnew and the Rev. Dr. Walter Laidlaw were present in the interest of the bills, and Algernon Daingerfield, Acting Secretary of The Jockey Club; C. H. Hitchcock, and Samuel Miller were among those who opposed the amendments.

The first of the three Agnew-Perkins bills, designed to prevent oral bookmaking, passed the Assembly to-day by a vote of 98 to 34. This bill makes the present provisions relative to keeping betting and gaming establishments more stringent by applying the law to any inclosure or place and by making corporations or individuals liable for violations of the law.

"RITA" AFTER BOOK PIRATES.

One of the Reasons for the English Novelist's Visit to America.

Mrs. Desmond Humphreys, the novelist who writes under the pen name "Rita," arrived here yesterday on the White Star steamship Oceania, announcing that one of her reasons for coming was to see whether she could not do something to prevent the pirating of her novels by American publishers. She has written about fifty of them.

"I will probably stay not more than six weeks on this side," she said. "I have long had in mind, however, making a long tour through the country and I may soon return."

Speaking of the suffragettes she said: "The women in England are pretty comfortable, and if they are not they ought to be. I believed in the suffrage movement, and my sympathies were aroused at the first. But I became disgusted with the way the suffragettes acted in England. I believe to an extent in the ideas they advance, but I condemn their methods. I understand that the methods here are not so wild and I hope to meet some of the American suffrage advocates."

Mrs. Humphreys said she would visit three cities while here—Washington, because it is the capital; Boston aas an intellectual centre, and New York because it is the greatest city in America.

Mrs. Humphreys went to the Imperial.

Progress of the Excise Prosecutions.

In all seventy-one affidavits have been submitted to the District Attorney's office dealing with excise violations on the last two Sundays; thirty-four warrants and eighteen summonses have been issued, and nineteen cases are still awaiting disposition. Of the thirty-four warrants issued thirteen defendants have been held for trial in Special Sessions, eleven are under examination, and the rest of the warrants have yet to be served by the police.

BOY BURGLARS CAUGHT.

Confess to Robbing Six Yonkers Houses—One Gave the Alarm Himself.

On being arrested last night, two boys, members of prominent South Yonkers families, confessed they had committed a series of burglaries which has baffled the Yonkers police for the last fortnight. The boys are Willard Davis, 15 years, of 51 Cedar Place, and Edward Romaine, 14, of 63 Caroline Avenue. Young Davis's father, Harold W. Davis, is a New York business man. The father of the Romaine boy is Wacklaus Romaine, an electrician of 1 West Broadway, Manhattan.

The boys were caught following their entry late yesterday afternoon into the house of Mrs. M. Sweet of 73 Hamilton Avenue. Mrs. Sweet had been shopping, and upon returning she was accosted by young Davis. Davis told Mrs. Sweet that he had seen burglars leave her home. He ran to the Third Precinct Police Station and repeated the story.

Capt. George Cooley sent Patrolman Coogle and Detectives Sheibel and Healey to the Sweet house, where they found a school arithmetic with the name Willard Davis on its covers. Confronted with the book, young Davis broke down and said he had been in the house with the Romaine boy. The detectives then went to the home of Romaine and arrested him.

By their own confession the boys entered six homes. They worked in broad daylight on their way home from school. To make sure that no one was at home they would ring the bell. If any one responded they said they were soliciting orders for eggs. When their summons was unanswered they entered the house with skeleton keys which were found on them.

Their loot consisted of jewelry, revolvers, three gold watches, and $50 in cash. The boys hid the last behind billboards and under rocks in vacant lots near their homes, from which the police recovered it.

The boys stand well in their classes in school. They will be arraigned before City Judge Beall in the Court of Special Sessions of Yonkers to-day.

LOVING CUP FOR C. F. BISHOP.

President of Aero Club Honored at the Opening of New Clubrooms.

The Aero Club of America formally opened its new headquarters last night at the Engineering Society's Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street, with a reception and exhibition of moving pictures showing the progress made in aviation in the last two years, including the Rheims, Los Angeles, and foreign meets. Several hundred members and their friends attended. After the reception the visitors adjourned to the fifth floor for dinner.

The members and their friends were later received in the assembly room by President Cortlandt Field Bishop and the other officers of the Aero Club. President Bishop reviewed the history of the club and outlined its future policies, paying flattering tributes to the Wright brothers, Glenn H. Curtiss, Lieut. Lahm, A. Holland Forbes, Clifford S. Harmon, Capt. J. C. McCoy, and Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin.

Vice President Samuel H. Valentine on behalf of the members of the club presented to Mr. Bishop a massive loving cup.

Mr. Bishop will leave for Europe to-day to be away until Oct. 1. He will be back in time for the international aviation meet in this country for the world's championship.

POST OFFICE ROBBED AGAIN.

Substation in Richmond Now Is Looted of $107.67.

RICHMOND, Va., April 13.—Post Office robbers made another descent on Richmond last night and got $107.67 in currency and money orders from one of the substations. The burglars unlocked the old iron safe, removed their loot, and locked the safe up again undamaged.

With two men in jail here awaiting trial for the robbery of the main Post Office a few weeks ago, when $80,000 was taken, the police are utterly chagrined by this robbery and tried to suppress the news of it. Post Office inspectors were rushed to work.

Dick Harris, charged with having robbed the main Post Office, says that the theft reported this morning was probably done by the men who "pulled off the big job." Eddie Fay, his pal, regards it with contempt as "a piking piece of work done by cheap yeggs."

Fire Protection for New Bridge.

KITCHENER HERE SATURDAY.

He Will Probably Go to West Point Early Next Week.

Field Marshal Lord Herbert Kitchener of Khartoum, accompanied by his A. D. C. Capt. Henry Baird and four staff officers, is expected here from San Francisco to-morrow night or Saturday morning. He will sail for England on Wednesday on the White Star liner Oceanic. He has been absent seven years, all of which he has spent in India as Commander in Chief of 100,000 white and 200,000 native soldiers. During his stay in this city he will be entertained by American friends whom he met in Egypt when he was Sirdar of the Egyptian army. He will also pay a visit to the Military Academy at West Point.

Before leaving Calcutta Lord Kitchener informed a NEW YORK TIMES correspondent that he was looking forward to his visit to West Point with great interest because he greatly admired the methods adopted in the training of cadets here. While making a tour of inspection in Australia he advised the military authorities there to name their new academy West Point. Capt. Oscar Charles, Adjutant at West Point, said yesterday that no date had so far been arranged for Lord Kitchener's visit to the academy, but it would probably be early next week.

On Monday night the Field Marshal will be the guest of the Pilgrims at a banquet in his honor at the Waldorf-Astoria. The exact hour of Lord Kitchener's arrival here has not been made public in accordance with his wishes. He dislikes publicity, and is a pastmaster in the art of evading reporters and photographers.

DISMISSES SUFFRAGETTE SUIT

But Mrs. Murtagh May Bring Another Against Mrs. Loebinger.

Mrs. Sarah Alice Cunningham Murtagh's action against Mrs. Sophie Loebinger to recover $300 which Mrs. Murtagh alleged was obtained by fraud, was dismissed yesterday by Justice Marks in the Ninth Municipal District Court after Mrs. Murtagh's attorney had amended his complaint several times in an effort to meet the requirements of the rules of court procedure.

The action was based upon Mrs. Murtagh's allegation that she had advanced the money upon Mrs. Loebinger's representation that she was the Treasurer of the Women's National Progressive Union and that the money was needed for the maintenance of The American Suffragette, a magazine which Mrs. Loebinger said was published by the union.

Counsel for Mrs. Loebinger objected to the complaint on the ground that it did not set forth a cause of action for fraud and deceit.

Justice Marks dismissed the action without prejudice, however, against the bringing of another suit, and Lawyer Lewis Oppenheimer, for Mrs. Murtagh, hurried away to prepare new papers.

DOUBLE HORSE STEALING DEAL

Three Accused of Robbing People at Both Ends of Their Route.

It was like Old Home Week in the corridors of the Queens County Court, on the top floor of the Hunter's Point Police Station, in Long Island City, yesterday, where a delegation of natives from Sullivan County appeared as witnesses in a horse-stealing trial. They had been subpoenaed to testify against Abraham Laskowitz John Markel, and Louis Friedman.

According to the police the prisoners maintained a stock farm in Centreville, where Friedman kept a Summer hotel. It is said they stole horses in New York and New Jersey and shipped them up-State, where they were sold, when they would steal a string of horses from customers there and bring them back to New Jersey and Long Island for disposal.

On being called to the bar Laskowitz said he had given all his money to a lawyer who had deserted the case. He asked for a week's delay, but Judge Humphrey ordered the case to go on this morning.

City Post for Gen. George O. Eaton.

Mayor Gaynor appointed Gen. George O. Eaton to the Municipal Explosives Commission yesterday in the place of George W. Loft, who declined on the ground that he could not devote sufficient time to the work. The Commissioners receive $10 a sitting. They have charge of the making of regulations for the storing, manufacture, and sale of all explosive materials.
